PREFACE.

THIS volume is published as a further supplement to Mr. J. V. Woodman's Consolidated Digest of Indian Law Cases, 1836-1900. It contains the cases published for the year 1907 in the Indian Law Reports, the Law Reports (Indian Appeals), and the Calcutta Weekly Notes.

Certain changes have been made, which are as stated below :—

(i) for every case which is digested in this volume, the year in which the case was decided is given;

(ii) wherever a case in this volume is published in two or more Reports, the Report from which the head-note is taken is noted first: and the different Reports in which these cases are published are fully noted in the Table of Cases ;

(iii) words and phrases which are expounded in the Reports are entered in a separate list, in alphabetical order, under the heading "Words," which, it is hoped, may prove useful.

ACTIONABLE CLAIM.

1.—Assignment of contract—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss 6 (h), 130—Contract Act (IX of 1872), s. 23—Fraudulent object.—Property under a contract which an assignor can pass to an assignee, is an "actionable claim" within the meaning of s. 130 of the Transfer of Property Act and would under s. 7 of the Indian Insolvent Act vest in the Official Assignee on the insolvency of the assignor. Under the joint action of s. 6 (h) of the Transfer of Property Act and s. 23 of the Contract Act where the object of an assignment is fraudulent, the assignment is void and inoperative. Decision of Sale J. in I. L. R. 33 Calc. 702 affirmed. JAFFER MEHER ALI v BUDGE-BUDGE JUTE MILLS COMPANY . I. L. R. 34 Calc. 289

2.—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 130—Claim not actionable unless cause of action already matured—Set-off—Debtor can set off against assignee independent claims against assignor—Right of set-off lost by conduct amounting to discharge of claim sought to be set off—Principal and surety—Mortgagor postponing right does not lose his personal remedy—Decree, when conditional on result of a different suit.—Under s. 130 of the Transfer of Property Act as it stood before it was amended by Act VI of 1900, a claim was not actionable unless it was "a claim in respect of a cause of action which has already matured and which subject to procedure may be enforced by suit." Shib Lal v. Azmat Ullah, I. L. R. 18 All. 265, followed. In an action by the assignee of a debt, the debtor-defendant is entitled to set off debt due to him by the assignor at the date of the assignment, even when the amount claimed to be set off is due under a transaction independent of and unconnected with the claim assigned to plaintiff. Such right of set-off will not be open to the defendant, if by his conduct he has given up his right to proceed against the assignor personally for the debt. A mortgagee who consents to postpone his rights and accept the position of a second mortgagee, with the concurrence of the mortgagor, does not thereby lose his personal remedy against the mortgagor. Where a debtor transfers his property, with directions to pay off his debts, to a trustee who does not undertake any personal liability to the creditors, the relationship of principal and surety is not constituted between the trustee and debtor, respectively. The fact that the defendant in a suit by the assignee is prosecuting a suit against the assignor, in which he might be awarded certain equitable reliefs against the assignor, is no ground for refusing an unconditional decree to the assignee in his suit, unless the claims in the two suits are based on obligations arising out of the same contract and are so closely intertwined with each other as to make it equitable that they should be set against one another. Government of Newfoundland v. *Newfoundland Railway Company, L. ADEN COURTS ACT (II OF 1864).

—ss. 29, 30—Court of Resident at Aden—Suits tried by Resident as a Court of Session—Appeals heard by Resident—Application for revision against both to the High Court of Bombay—Certificate of the Advocate-General.—There is nothing in s 29 or 30 of the Aden Courts Act (II of 1864) which can operate either by express words or by necessary implication to limit the application of those sections to cases tried by the Resident as a Court of Session or to exclude appeals from their purview. S. 30 of the Aden Courts Act (II of 1864) empowers and requires the High Court of Bombay to review the case or such part of it as may be necessary, with reference only to the points of law specified in the certificate of the Advocate-General. The section does not contemplate that any decision by the Resident on a point of fact should be questioned in review, save in so far as such decision may be dependent for its validity on the determination of a point of law mentioned in the certificate. ADMINISTRATOR-GENERAL.

Pending grant of letters of administration, he can only make payments for the benefit of or for the preservation of the assets of the estate. —Question of adoption—Civil Procedure Code, s. 13 Res judicata—Award of committee of taluqdars appointed under s. 3 of the Oudh Estates Act (I of 1869)—Claim in former suit as adopted son—Estoppel—Evidence and proof of adoption—Evidence of adoption where lapse of time precludes proof—Presumption as to probability from conduct of parties.—In a suit by the appellant against the respondent for a share in certain family property the question was whether the respondent had been in 1853 validly adopted into another family. Held, that the committee of taluqdars appointed under s. 33 of Act I of 1869 (Oudh Estates Act) to decide on claims for maintenance is not such a Court as is described by s. 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882), and their award refusing the respondent maintenance in his own family on the ground that he had been adopted into another was therefore not res judicata in the present suit The committee had no jurisdiction to decide the question of adoption, and the affirmation of their award by the Financial Commissioner could not give judicial validity to their decision on a point outside their jurisdiction. The fact that the respondent had in 1879 on the death of his alleged adoptive mother claimed to succeed her as the adopted son of her deceased husband and so secure the succession to which the predecessor in title of the appellant was then entitled, though he did not oppose the respondent's claim, did not estop the respondent from denying the alleged adoption in this suit. To establish the fact of a valid adoption it was essential for the appellant to show that it was made by the direction of the deceased husband of the adoptive mother, and that the respondent's father had given him in adoption. In the absence of proof, which the lapse of time made impossible, it was incumbent on the appellant, before any presumption that those conditions were fulfilled was justified, to establish an initial probability that the adoption was likely to have been validly made, and that the conduct of the parties cognizant of the facts had at least been consistent with such an hypothesis. But the evidence rather showed the contrary; and no weight could be given to the statements of the respondent, as they fell short of founding an estoppel, and as he had asserted or denied the adoption just as it suited his purpose throughout the whole of the protracted litigation between the members of the family. ADULTERY.

——living in—

—Criminal Procedure Code, s. 488, cl. 4—Living in adultery refers to course of conduct.—A single act of adultery does not necessarily amount to "living in adultery" within the meaning of s. 488, cl. 4 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and will now justify a Magistrate in refusing maintenance. "Living in adultery" refers to a course of conduct and means something more than a single lapse from virtue. Kallu v. Kaunsilia, I. L. R. 26 All. 326, followed. 2.—Possession by guardian primâ facie not adverse to the ward—Hindu Law—Reversioner, acceleration of succession of—No acceleration where gift to presumptive reversioner subject to obligations.—It is well established that possession is never to be considered adverse if it can be referred to any lawful authority. Possession of the ward's property by a guardian will be presumed to be on behalf of the ward and will not in the absence of evidence to the contrary be held to be adverse to the ward. A gift by a Hindu widow of property in which she has a widow's estate to the presumptive reversioner has not the effect of accelerating the succession of such reversioner, if the transfer imposes on the reversioner obligations which would not have existed if the property had devolved on him by inheritance. ADVOCATE.

1.—Dismissal of Advocate from his office for professional misconduct—Charge of advising client to bribe a witness—Evidence, admissibility of—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 154, 155, cl. (3), 157—Probabilities of case.—The appellant, an Advocate of the Chief Court of Lower Burma, was charged with having, whilst employed as an Advocate for the prosecution of certain persons being tried at the Criminal Sessions of the Court for the abduction of a girl, the daughter of one Ohn Ghine, advised Ohn Ghine to bribe a European witness in the case, the Government of India expert in handwriting, and with being "thereby guilty of gross professional misconduct." The charge was founded on short and hurried conversations (one in the corridor of the Court and the other in the Court itself) with his senior conducting the case, who, without being able to give the exact words, stated that the appellant had used expressions to the effect that he (the appellant) had done a thing he had never done before and had advised Ohn Ghine to bribe the witness. The appellant denied having done so, or having used any such expressions as alleged. Ohn Ghine stated that the appellant had hinted to him that the witness should be "watched," and it was found as a matter of fact that he was watched, but there was no evidence that any one bribed or attempted to bribe him. The Chief Court, after examining witnesses and considering the evidence, found the appellant guilty and dismissed him from his office as an Advocate of the Court. Held, that the evidence of persons, to whom his senior had, in the absence of the appellant, repeated the conversations out of which the charge originated, though admissible in evidence under s. 157 of the Evidence Act, did not carry any further the determination of the real issue, whether the appellant did in fact advise Ohn Ghine to bribe the witness. Particulars given by his senior of interviews he had with Ohn Ghine, in the absence of the appellant and statements then made by Ohn Ghine; and particulars given by the Government Advocate of a conversation between Ohn Ghine and himself had been admitted in evidence by the Chief Court Held, that such evidence was inadmissible for the purpose of impeaching Ohn Ghine's credit under s. 155, cl. (3) of the Evidence Act, or against the appellant, and that there was, therefore, no direct evidence except that of the Senior Counsel conducting the case and this, having regard to the fact that he could not remember the exact words used, and that the words deposed to were innocent or otherwise according to the context, and considering also the circumstances under which both conversations took place, was insufficient to support the grave charge made against the appellant. 2.—Power of High Court to deal with Advocate who is also a member of the English Bar—Constitution of Bench of High Court under Rules of Court—Rules 2, 180, 181, 197—Letters Patent, cls. 7, 8—Misconduct—Libel on the Judges—Contempt of Court—"Reasonable cause" for suspension.—The High Court at Allahabad is not precluded from dealing under the Letters Patent of the Court with an advocate of the Court for misconduct by reason of his being a member of the English Bar. By rule 2 of the High Court Rules, a Bench of three Judges of the Court is a tribunal properly constituted to deal with a charge of misconduct made against an advocate of the Court. Rule 197 does not make a Bench of five Judges necessary in such a case, but only provides for cases in which the High Court may for good cause and without charge or trial suspend or remove from the roll any advocate of the Court. After an altercation, during the hearing of a case, with one of the Judges of the High Court, in the course of which he alleged that he had been told by the Judge to "hold his tongue" and to "sit down" an advocate of the Court attempted to defend his conduct by publishing in a newspaper, of which he was the editor, an article which was a libel reflecting not only on the Judge before whom he had appeared but upon other Judges of the Court in their judicial capacity, and in reference to their conduct in the discharge of their public duties, and which amounted to a contempt of Court which might have been dealt with as such by the High Court. Held, that such publication constituted under cl 8 of the Letters Patent of the Court "reasonable cause" for an order suspending the advocate from practising. Such publication was not excusable on the ground that it was written in his capacity as editor of the newspaper and not in his capacity as an advocate. The controversy arose from the misbehaviour of the advocate conducting a case before the Court, and the contempt of which he was found guilty was committed in the attempt to vindicate his professional conduct in a publication for which he was solely responsible. *In re Wallace, L. 3.—Unprofessional conduct—Arrangement with client without intervention of Solicitor—Threat—Compensation.—An advocate of the High Court made an arrangement to do professional work for his client, without the intervention of a solicitor, at a fee of half the usual charge; and, on another occasion, he wrote to the same client to the effect that he had an offer to work professionally against her (the client) in a case the plaint of which was settled by him for her, and unless she paid him ten gold mohurs (five times the usual fee) for refusing the brief offered, he would take up the case against her. Held, that the advocate was guilty of highly unprofessional conduct S. APPEAL IN CRIMINAL CASES.

—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 195 (6) - Appeal lies to High Court against an appellate order revoking sanction granted by Court of First Instance.—The right of appeal conferred by s. 195 (6) of the Code of Criminal Procedure as read with sub-s (7) of the same section is not restricted to a right of appeal to the Appellate Court to which the Court of First Instance is immediately subordinate. The revocation by the Appellate Court of a sanction given by the Court of First Instance is a refusal of sanction within the meaning of sub-s. (6) and an appeal lies therefrom to the High Court, as well as in cases where the sanction refused by the Court of First Instance is granted by the Appellate Court Palaniappa Chetti v. *Annamalai Chetti, I. 1. REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION

1.—Civil Procedure Code, s. 506—Arbitration—Application for reference signed by pleader holding a defective vakalatnamah.—An application under s. 506 of the Code of Civil Procedure for a reference to arbitration was made by the parties to a pending suit. This application was signed on behalf of the defendants by some of the defendants personally, and on behalf of the others by a pleader. It appeared, however, that the pleader's vakalatnamah has not been signed by one of the defendants on whose behalf the pleader had signed. Held, that in the absence of any circumstance to estop the defendant who had not signed from objecting to the reference, the reference to arbitration and all subsequent proceedings founded thereupon were invalid. Pitam Mal v. Sadiq Ali, I. L. R. 24 All. 229, distinguished. KADHU SINGH v BALJIT SINGH (1907) . I. L. R. 29 All. 423

2.—Arbitration—Authority of pleader to agree to reference.—A vakalatnamah in general terms is wholly insufficient to enable a pleader to apply for an order of reference to arbitration on behalf of his client under s. 506 of the Code of Civil Procedure Where, however, a reference was made on such authority and an award followed and a decree based on such award without any objection taken to the authority of the pleader to apply for a reference, the High Court refused to set aside such decree in revision. RAMJIAWAN v. KALI CHARAN SINGH (1907) . . . . I. L. R. 29 All. 429

2. REVOCATION OF ARBITRATION.

—3.—Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), s. 21—Alleged revocation of submission—For what cause submission may be revoked.—Although no party to an agreement of reference can revoke the submission to arbitration, unless for good cause, and a mere arbitrary revocation of the authority is not permitted, the fact, if proved, that the arbitrator was in fraudulent collusion with one of the opposite side might be a good ground for revocation of the submission. Pestonjee Nussurwanjee v. *Manockjee & Co., 12 Moo I. 3. AWARDS.

4.—Award, validity of—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 506—Reference to arbitration not concurred in by all the parties—Ground for setting aside award.—When a reference to arbitration is made in the course of a suit, and an award made upon it, the award cannot be set aside on the ground that all the parties to the suit did not concur in the reference. The Chairman of the Purnea Municipality v. *Siva Sankar Ram, I. 5.—Civil Procedure Code, ss. 521 and 522—Arbitration—Award—Decree on judgment in accordance with award—Appeal—During the pendency of a suit in the Court of a Subordinate Judge the matters in dispute between the parties were referred to arbitration. In due course a document purporting to be the arbitrator's award was received by the Court through the post Objections were filed by one of the defendants to the suit; but these objections were, after hearing, disallowed by the Court which proceeded to pass a decree in accordance with the award. Held, that an appeal would lie from such a decree upon the ground that the so-called award was never delivered by the arbitrator and was in fact and in law no award at all. SHAM LAL v. MISRI KUNWAR (1907). I. L. R. 29 All. 426

6.—Instrument of partition—Award—An award by an arbitrator directing a partition.—An award began by saying, "We decide as below. The parties should act accordingly." It went on, the defendant "should take into his possession as below after passing a legal release." It added other directions with regard to the action of the defendant, and provided "in connection with whatever is settled to be given to the 'defendant' and to be taken by him, we direct that the 'defendant' should take into his possession the properties and receive and pay money stated above after passing a release on sufficient stamp and getting it registered." Held, that the award came within the meaning of the words "an award by an arbitrator directing a partition" within the meaning of s. 2, clause 15, of the Indian Stamp Act (II of 1899). Per BEAMAN, J.—The terms of s. 2 clause 15, of the Indian Stamp Act (II of 1899) provide for all the cases, for parties having divided or agreed to divide, for arbitrators, to whom reference has been made, directing a partition and last for the Courts effecting a partition. 1.—Jurisdiction of High Court to stay proceedings in the Small Cause Court—Step in the proceedings.—N agreed to purchase from R 150 tons of sugar imported by R. A clause in the agreement provided for arbitration in the event of disputes arising in connection with the agreement. A dispute arose with regard to the condition of some of the bags of sugar, and N claimed damages from R which R refused to pay. N filed a suit in the Small Cause Court. The Judge before whom the suit was instituted on the petition of R stayed the proceedings. On appeal to the full Court the order staying the proceedings was set aside. R by a petition to the High Court prayed that the proceedings in the Small Cause Court should be stayed. Held, under s. 19 of the Arbitration Act, the High Court has the power to stay proceedings in the Small Cause Court and the proceedings should under the circumstances be stayed. Per CURIAM:—The language of s. 19 of the Act is quite clear and it gives jurisdiction to the High Court to stay proceedings in any Court in the Presidency town subordinate to its jurisdiction. The section in the beginning refers to a party to a submission commencing any legal proceedings; then it goes on to refer to such legal proceedings, and then provides for staying the proceedings. Nowhere is there any indication in the section or the Act that the legal proceedings contemplated must be proceedings in that Court. Any proceedings taken by a party to a suit to stay legal proceedings under s. 19 of the Arbitration Act are not 'steps in the proceedings.' RALLI v. NOOR MAHOMED (1906) . . . I. L. 2.—Application for extension of time—Stay of proceedings—Step in proceedings—The Calcutta Corporation applied for further time to file their written statement and obtained a fortnight's time. Subsequently they applied to the Court for a reference to arbitration and stay of proceedings. The plaintiffs objected on the ground that an application for further time amounted to a step in the action within s. 19 of the Indian Arbitration Act:—Held, that such an application was a step in the proceedings within s. 19 of the Arbitration Act and that the application for reference to arbitration could not be maintained. Ford's Hotel Company, Limited v. Bartlett, [1896] *A. ——effect of——

1.—Attaching creditor has no cause of action for wrongful removal of attached property —Such creditor's remedy, if any, lies in execution and not by separate suit—S 91 (f) of Transfer of Property Act not applicable to attaching creditors. An execution creditor does not by attachment, acquire such an interest in the attached property as will enable him to maintain an action for its wrongful removal. The rights of attaching creditors are regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure and the provisions of s. 91 (f) of the Transfer of Property Act do not apply to them. injunction restraining the defendant from obstructing him from the enjoyment of certain fruit-yielding trees and preventing him from entering on the land in which the trees were situated and taking the produce of the trees and having the same watched every year. The defendant denied the plaintiff's right as permanent occupant and the legality of his purchase, and relied on the provisions of the Bhagdari and Narwadari Act (Bom. Act V of 1862). The first Court held that the plaintiff was a permanent tenant and that his purchase was valid. On appeal by the defendant, the Judge held that a permanent lease was inconsistent with the provisions of the Bhagdari and Narwadari Act (Bom. Act V of 1862), and (even though proved) could not be recognized, having regard solely to s. 83 of the Land Revenue Code (Bom. Act V of 1879). He therefore found that the plaintiff was a tenant from year to year and modified the decree of the first Court by directing that the injunction should continue until the determination of the tenancy from year to year. On second appeal by the plaintiff, Held, reversing the decree of the Judge and restoring that of the first Court, that on a consideration of the circumstances of the case, and the revenue register, and having regard to s. 83 of the Land Revenue Code (Bom. Act V of 1879), the plaintiff was a permanent tenant. Held, further, that there was nothing in the Bhagdari and Narwadari Act (Bom. Act V of 1862) to prevent a permanent tenant of a Bhagdar from alienating the fruit of the trees growing on the land of which he is a tenant. Per BEAMAN, J. :—S. 3 of the Bhagdari and Narwadari Act (Bom. Act V of 1862) does not prohibit a permanent tenant from disposing of trees on his land. S. 83 of the Land Revenue Code (Bom. Act V of 1879) creates no new rights, it simply insists on the Courts adopting a better method of ascertaining whether in fact the right existed. NAHANCHAND v. MODI KEKHUSHRU (1906).

In the Record of Rights Circular No. 2 of 1861, the policy of the Government was declared "that the Birtias who were found in direct engagement with the State at annexation, or who have uninterruptedly held whole villages on the terms of their pattahs under the taluqdars must be maintained in the full enjoyment of their rights in subordination to the taluqdars." In suit by the taluqdar to recover the villages : Held, on the evidence and under the circumstances of the case, that the defendants had shown themselves to come within the benefit of the policy declared in the above circular, and had therefore acquired, upon the annexation of Oudh by the British Government, heritable and transferable rights as against the plaintiff in the villages in suit. BIRTH, PROOF OF.

In this case on the proof of the date of the plaintiff's birth depended the question of whether or not the suit was brought within three years of her attaining majority, and it was held that the evidence was insufficient to prove the true date of her birth, and that therefore the suit was barred by limitation. BOMBAY CITY POLICE ACT (BOM. IV OF 1902).

—Commissioner of Police—Orders issued by the Commissioner forbidding meetings by the members of the police force to discuss matters concerned with the force—Orders relating to discipline and general government of the force—Construction of statutes.—The Commissioner of Police in Bombay, under the powers vested in him by s. 12 of the Bombay City Police Act (Bombay Act IV of 1902), issued the following notification—"The Commissioner of Police under the provisions of s. 12 of Bombay Act IV of 1902 hereby prohibits any member of the police force from calling or attending a meeting to discuss any subject connected with the police force, without his permission." This notification was read over to the members of the police force at a muster parade at which the accused was present. Notwithstanding this, the accused attended a meeting of the members of the police force convened to discuss subjects connected with the force. For this disobedience, the accused was proceeded against under s. 18 of the Bombay City Police Act (Bombay Act IV of 1902). Held, that the Commissioner of Police was authorized to issue the notification under s. 12 of the Act, for the object of the notification was not to deprive the policemen of their private right but to regulate their conduct in their police capacity; that, therefore, the accused in disobeying the order had committed an offence punishable under s. 18 of the Act. The order which the Commissioner of Police is competent to issue under the head of discipline and general government, under s. 12 of the Bombay City Police Act (Bombay Act IV of 1902), must be one having reference to the conduct of the police officers in their capacity as such officers. Over their conduct in other relations of life, his disciplinary power does not extend, so long as no element or question of their police duty enters into those relations. If it does enter, the controlling authority of the Commissioner comes into play and it becomes a matter of police discipline. The meaning of s. 16 of the Act is that even when a police officer is not actually at his post discharging the duty assigned to him, he is for the purposes of the Act to be regarded as being at that post, with all the rights and obligations of his office attaching to him. In construing an expression of doubtful import occurring in a statute, the Court may well have regard to considerations outside the language of the Act. EMPEROR v. ATMARAM (1907) . . I. L. —Election of Councillor, validity of—Applicant's right to question election—"Election," meaning of—Chief Judge of Small Cause Court has sole jurisdiction to try suits relating to election petitions—Jurisdiction of High Court—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 11.—Under s. 33 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, an applicant can question the election of every candidate on the ground that the election as a whole was invalid, for the section, after specifying two permissible grounds of objection, provides that the validity of any election may be questioned for any other cause, and these words are wide enough to cover the ground of objection urged in this case. It is clear that the word "election" in the section is designed to express something wider than a legally valid election, and the words used are consistent with the view that an election which in fact took place under conditions that made it possible that there should be a valid election can be questioned. Under s. 33 the Chief Judge of the Small Cause Court has jurisdiction to determine the validity of a contested election. The High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain such a suit. Where a special tribunal, out of the ordinary course, is appointed by an Act to determine questions as to rights which are the creation of that Act, then, except so far as otherwise expressly provided or necessarily implied, that tribunal's jurisdiction to determine those questions is exclusive It is an essential condition of those rights that they should be determined in the manner prescribed by the Act, to which they owe their existence. In such a case there is no ouster of the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts for they never had any. The jurisdiction of the Courts can be excluded not only by express words but also by implication and there certainly is enough in s 33 of the Municipal Act for this purpose. Semble: If the High Court has jurisdiction there might be a conflict between the view of the High Court and the orders of the Chief Judge in which the order of the Chief Judge must by the express terms of the Act prevail. 2.—Unconscionable bargain—Circumstances under which relief may be granted by the Court.—A person of the age of some twenty-eight years, the son of a wealthy father, but of profligate habits and greatly in need of money, his father having refused to supply him, executed a bond to secure a sum of Rs. 500, with interest which amounted to Rs. 37-8-0 per cent. per annum, with six-monthly rests. The bond further contained a stipulation that the borrower should not be empowered to repay the money within three years. And if he did pay within three years, he should nevertheless be obliged to pay three years' interest at the rate mentioned. Held, that although it could not be said that the execution of this bond was procured by means of undue influence or that the rate of interest penal, nevertheless the bargain was an unconscionable bargain against which the Court might properly give relief. —Supply—Intoxicating drug—Supply of liquor to a European soldier—Servant of a soldier buying liquor with soldier's money for soldier's use—The accused, a servant of a soldier, bought with his master's money liquor from a shop in obedience to his master's directions and gave it to him. On these facts, the Magistrate held that the act of the accused amounted to "supplying" liquor to a soldier within the meaning of the term as used in s. 13 of the Cantonments Act (XIII of 1889), and convicted and sentenced him under the section. Held, reversing the conviction and sentence, that the term "supply" in s. 13 of the Cantonments Act (XIII of 1889) must have a restricted meaning put upon it and it is inapplicable in the case of a servant giving his master liquor belonging to the master himself. Its context "barters or sells" indicates that it has the same idea underlying it in common with them. It also must relate to a transaction between two persons dealing at arm's length and therefore independent of each other. EMPEROR v. PASCAL SHIMAU (1907) I. L. R. 31 Bom. 523

or mere licensees—"Immoveable property"—Levy of cess over and above income-tax, if legal.—It cannot be affirmed as a general proposition that the liability to pay income-tax carries with it as a necessary consequence exemption from Road and Public Works Cesses. Umed Rasul Shaha Fakir v. Anath Bandhu Chowdhuri, I. L. R. 28 Calc. 637, considered and explained. A mela is annually held for 20 days from the 5th to the 25th Falgun on lands which are included in the jotes or holdings of agricultural tenants (but on which no crops are standing at the time the fair is held) under an arrangement between the zemindar and the holders of the mela to which the tenants are not parties. The Collector assessed Road and Public Works cess not only on the rents paid to the zemindar by the raiyats, but also on the profits realised by certain ijaradars under the mela-holders from the stall-holders and vendors of live-stock, etc., at the mela. Held, that these profits are not rent payable by either cultivating raiyats or by other persons in the actual use or occupation of land within the definition of 'annual value' in s. 4 of the Cess Act and cannot be assessed with road-cess. Per RAMPINI, C.J.—The profits of a mela may come within the definition of rent paid for the actual use and occupation of land by persons other than cultivators or of immoveable property as defined in s. 4 of the Cess Act. But whether in any particular case they do so or not will depend on the terms of the lease in that case. Per BRETT and WOODROFFE, JJ.—A mela or fair does not come within the definition of immoveable property in s. 4 of the Cess Act. The holders of the mela in this case or the ijaradars under them are licensees and not tenure-holders within the Act. Per RAMPINI, C.J.—The definition of tenure-holder in the Act is very wide and may include persons in the enjoyment of the profits of a mela. But whether in any particular case such persons are tenure-holders or not will depend on the terms of the lease. Per BRETT and WOODROFFE, JJ. (RAMPINI, C.J., MOOKERJEE, J., contra).—The definition of "annual value" contemplates that the rent shall be payable by persons in occupation during the year, not by persons occupying the land for 20 days during each year. Per MOOKERJEE, J.—The stall-holders and other persons attending the mela for the purpose of selling articles of merchandise are licensees and not tenants. Per RAMPINI, C.J.—The sums payable by stall-keepers may come within the definition of rent. CHARGE TO JURY—concluded.

1. MISDIRECTION.

1.—Misdirection - Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 297, 537—Judge bound to state all the elements of offences and deal with evidence, differentiating evidence against each of the accused—Failure to do so not a mere irregularity—Under s 297 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the Judge must explain to the jury all the essential elements of the offence with which the prisoner is charged. An omission to do so is not a mere irregularity within the meaning of s. 537. It is a failure to comply with an express provision of the law and will vitiate the conviction. The Judge should also point out to the jury the evidence against each of the accused and the circumstances which distinguish the cases of some of the accused from that of the others. Mangan Das v. Emperor, I. L. R. 29 Calc. 379, referred to and followed. MARI VALAYAN v. EMPEROR (1906).

I. L. R. 30 Mad. 44

2.—Charge to jury - Misdirection to the Jury.—The omission by the Judge in his charge to the jury to mention the fact of the original witnesses named in the first information having been abandoned by the prosecution, of two of them having given evidence for the defence, and of the witnesses actually examined for the prosecution being entirely new witnesses, is a sufficient misdirection to justify the setting aside of the conviction. DASARATH MANDAL v. EMPEROR (1907).

I. L. R. 34 Calc. 325

3.—Trial by Jury - Misdirection—Expression of opinion by Judge on facts—Omission to point out material evidence—Charge, heads of—Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), s. 325.—An expression of opinion by the Judge on the facts without telling the jury that they are at liberty to form their own opinion in regard thereto, and also without cautioning them to give the accused the benefit of a reasonable doubt, amounts to a misdirection. Where the medical opinion was that the injuries of the deceased were not, in the case of a man in ordinary health, dangerous to life: Held, that the Judge should have specially called the attention of the Jury to such opinion. Where the accused were charged under ss. 147, $\frac{149}{301}$, $\frac{149}{325}$, $\frac{149}{323}$ of the Indian Penal Code: Held, that they could not be convicted under s. 325 of the Penal Code as they had not been called upon to meet such a charge, and it was not minor to, or included in, a charge under s. $\frac{149}{325}$ of the Code. Ram Sarup Rai v. Emperor, 6 C. W. N. 98, followed. It is not only desirable but necessary that the charge should be recorded in an intelligible form and with sufficient fulness to satisfy the Appellate Court that all points of law arising in the case were clearly and correctly explained to the jury. The omission to instruct the jury as to their verdict, if they found that there was no unlawful assembly but that hurt was caused by any one or more of the accused, is a serious misdirection. Upon a suit by the putnidar to recover possession of the chakran lands, the defendant contended that the suit was barred by limitation under Art. 113 of the Limitation Act. Held that, inasmuch as the lands were not in possession of the plaintiffs nor in that of the defendant, until they were made over to the latter by Government, the suit was one for the specific performance of the contract of 1854, and the period of limitation applicable would therefore be that prescribed by Art. 113, and not Art. 142 or Art. 144 of Sch. 1853 validly adopted into another family. Held, that the committee of taluqdars appointed under s. 33 of Act I of 1869 (Oudh Estates Act) to decide on claims for maintenance is not such a Court as is described by s. 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882), and their award refusing the respondent maintenance in his own family on the ground that he had been adopted into another was therefore not res judicata in the present suit The committee had no jurisdiction to decide the question of adoption, and the affirmation of their award by the Financial Commissioner could not give judicial validity to their decision on a point outside their jurisdiction. The fact that the respondent had in 1879 on the death of his alleged adoptive mother claimed to succeed her as the adopted son of her deceased husband, and so secure the succession to which the predecessor in title of the appellant was then entitled, though he did not oppose the respondent's claim, did not estop the respondent from denying the alleged adoption in this suit To establish the fact of a valid adoption it was essential for the appellant to show that it was made by the direction of the deceased husband of the adoptive mother, and that the respondent's father had given him in adoption. In the absence of proof, which the lapse of time made impossible, it was incumbent on the appellant, before any presumption that those conditions were fulfilled was justified, to establish an initial probability that the adoption was likely to have been validly made, and that the conduct of the parties cognizant of the facts had at least been consistent with such an hypothesis. But the evidence rather showed the contrary; and no weight could be given to the statements of the respondent, as they fell short of founding an estoppel, and as he had asserted or denied the adoption just as it suited his purpose throughout the whole of the protracted litigation between the members of the family. In 1901 the plaintiffs tendered the amount of the principal to the defendant, but it was not accepted. The plaintiffs in consequence filed a suit, under s. 62 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), to recover possession of the mortgaged property, and at the same time under s. 83 of the Act deposited the amount of the principal in Court as the amount payable on the mortgage. The Court passed a decree for possession. In 1904 the plaintiff filed another suit to recover mesne profits from the defendant from the date of the deposit to the date when he recovered possession of the mortgaged property from the defendant in execution of the redemption decree in the previous suit The claim was disallowed on the ground of res judicata Held, that the plaintiffs having failed to ask for mesne profits in the previous suit, his present claim was barred either under s. 13 or 43 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882). The profits derived by a mortgagee after a proper tender made or after the amount due has been deposited in Court are profits for which he has to account to the mortgagor in virtue of a liability tacked on, so to say, by the statute to the mortgage contract; and as such a claim to them by the mortgagor is one arising from and connected with his right to redeem or recover possession of the property From the date of the tender or of the deposit, as the case may be, the mortgagee continues as mortgagee but with a statutory liability to account for the profits received by him from that date. He is not then a mere trespasser but a mortgagee still, holding the property as a kind of trustee for the mortgagor and as such accountable to the latter for the profits. —Misjoinder of parties and causes of action—"In respect of the same matter," meaning of—Practice.—The plaintiff sued two sets of defendants to recover from either the one or the other a sum of money for the rent of his godown. The plaintiff agreed to let a godown to defendants 1—6 from 1st May 1906. At the date of the agreement the godown was in the possession of Messrs. N. and Co. Defendants 1—6 alleged that they did not get possession of the premises in terms of this agreement; that only one compartment out of three was given to them on the 22nd May; that they did not get possession of the other two compartments and in consequence they had to hire other premises. Messrs. N. and Co. pleaded that there was an oral agreement with the plaintiff that they should occupy the godown till the end of May 1906; that they gave up possession of one compartment of the godown before the 22nd May 1906, and on the 22nd May they gave up possession of the remaining portion to the plaintiff and the first set of defendants. The defendants all pleaded that the suit as framed was bad by reason of misjoinder of parties and of causes of action. Held, disallowing the objection, that the suit was properly constituted. The most convenient way to try all the questions arising between the plaintiff and the defendants and the two sets of defendants inter se would be by one suit where all the three parties are before the Court as parties. The subject-matter in respect of which the plaintiff seeks relief is the rent of his godown. It is the same matter as regards both sets of defendants, and both sets of defendants are interested in the adjudication of the questions involved in the suit. The general principle governing the joinder of defendants would seem to be that there must be a cause of action in which all the defendants are more or less interested, although the relief against them may vary, but that separate causes of action against separate defendants quite unconnected are not involving any common question of law or fact cannot safely be joined in one action. The object of s. 28 seems to be to avoid multiplicity of suits if it could be done without embarrassment to any of the defendants. Madan Mohun Lal v. *Holloway, I. L. The Subordinate Judge rejected the application on the ground that P was precluded by the proviso to s. 232 of the Civil Procedure Code from executing the decree against his co-judgment-debtor S. Held, (1) that there was nothing in the decree which saddled P and S with any personal liability to pay money, either jointly or severally; the amount of Rs. 22,748 and costs which was recoverable under the decree was made payable not by P and S, but out of the property of A and L; (2) that although by reason of the direction in the decree that the question of the personal liability of P and S should be determined in execution proceedings there might be subsequently, when that liability had been determined, a decree for money against them; until then it was a mere contingency, which would not make the decree as for money against P and S: (3) that therefore P was entitled to execute the decree against the estate of L in the hands of S. In s. 232 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) the phrase "a decree for money against several persons" means a personal decree for the payment of money by two or more defendants jointly. —Execution of decree—Sale by Collector—Application to Court by judgment debtor to set aside sale—Refusal by the Court—Appeal—Collector's power—Rules 16 and 17 of the Local Rules and Orders made under enactments applicable to Bombay.—A decree having been transferred to the Collector for execution under s 320 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), he sold certain properties. Thereupon the judgment-debtor applied to the Court for the setting aside of the sale under s. 310A of the Code. The Court refused to set aside the sale on the ground that there was another decree-holder who had taken action under s 295 of the Code, and that it was incumbent on the judgment-debtor to pay into Court a sum sufficient to answer his claim. On appeal by the judgment-debtor, the Judge dismissed the appeal on the ground that no appeal lay. Held, on second appeal by the judgment-debtor, that the order was appealable. And as it was an incident of those relations that the right of forfeiture was subject to relief, that incident must still apply when those relations are established by a decree passed in accordance with the agreement. Per BEAMAN, J.—The difference between a consent decree declaring the agreement of parties, and the agreement of parties themselves, when the one or the other is sought to be afterwards enforced, goes no further than this, that in the former case it would not be open to a party to question the accuracy of the decree, as expressing what at the time was the contract which had been made. Shirekuli Timapa Hegda v. *Mahablya, I. S 623 exacts very strict conditions, so as to prevent litigants being negligent, and enjoins the Court to require the facts as to the absence of negligence to be strictly proved. Where the defendants on the day after judgment had been given against them discovered fresh evidence which with diligence they might under the circumstances have obtained before or during the trial of the suit, and even after such discovery delayed for two weeks before making an application for review of judgment: Held, that the application was rightly dismissed. On an appeal on the merits of the case being filed the Appellate Court without recording any reason as required by s. 568 of the Code allowed such further evidence to be taken, not after the appeal on the merits had been heard and the evidence as it stood had been examined by the Judges, but on special and preliminary application. Held, that the Appellate Court had no jurisdiction to admit the additional evidence, that it was wrongly admitted and must be disregarded. The plaintiff sued the defendants, a Railway Company, for damages for injuries sustained by him when alighting from a carriage which overshot the platform of a station at night, and the evidence on the question of what light there was either natural or artificial, on the night in question being conflicting, it was suggested during the hearing of the case on appeal and agreed to by the counsel for the parties that the Judges should visit the scene of the accident under conditions approximating as nearly as possible to those which prevailed when the plaintiff met with his injuries This was done, and the Judges and the legal advisers of the parties went to the station where a presentation of the scene and events of the accident was gone through by which the Judges were enabled to make a thorough investigation of the material conditions accompanying the accident. They formed their own opinion on the question of the sufficiency or otherwise of the light and gave judgment in accordance with them, reversing the decision of the Court which tried the case: Held, that such procedure was illegal. The result of it was that the appeal was decided not on the testimony given at the trial as to what took place on the night of the accident, but by the Judges' observation of what they saw on another night altogether, and the decision based on it was set aside, the judgment of the first Court being restored KESSOWJI ISSUR v GREAT INDIAN PENINSULA RAILWAY COMPANY (1907).

—Execution of decree—Restitution of property sold in execution of a decree afterwards reversed in appeal—Procedure —In a suit for a declaration that certain property belonged to the defendant judgment-debtor the plaintiff decree-holder obtained a decree and proceeded on the strength thereof to sell the property. In appeal, however, this decree was reversed. The rightful owner of the property sold then applied to the Court for restitution of the property. Held, that whether the application could or could not be considered as one falling strictly within the terms of s. 583 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the applicant was entitled to restitution. Radhe Singh v. *Mangni Ram, 6 C. Where on being directed to deal with the case in the above manner, the District Judge instead of starting proceedings de novo and issuing notices on the co-owners under s. 93, Bengal Tenancy Act, to show cause why a common manager should not be appointed, issued notices under s 94 of the Act asking them to appoint a common manager: Held, that, in the circumstances of the case, the proceedings should have been commenced de novo and the co-owners given an opportunity of showing that owing to the altered state of things there was no longer any necessity for appointing a common manager. A District Judge can in the exercise of his discretion consider the propriety of the appointment of a common manager whatever be the stage at which the proceedings may have arrived. This discretion is not, however, to be exercised arbitrarily but according to well established rules. A co-owner who has opened a separate account in the Collector's register or makes separate collection for his share is nevertheless liable to have his share taken over by a common manager, although the dispute may not have extended to his share. His remedy, if any, is to have his share demarcated by metes and bounds. SARADINDU ROY v. THE COLLECTOR OF RUNGPUR (1907).

2.—Land Acquisition Act (I of 1894), ss. 11, 23—Market value—Bases of its calculation—Speculative advance in prices—Recent instances of sale—Rental of lands in the vicinity—General demand for land—Onus probandi.—Profit from the most advantageous disposition of land is one test for determining its market price. The probable use of land in the most advantageous way in accordance with the use already made of neighbouring lands leads to speculative advance in prices to which regard should be paid. The utility of land is an element for consideration in estimating its value, that is, the utility which may be calculated by a prudent businessman. Premchand Burral v. Collector of Calcutta, I. L. R. 2 Calc. 103, Hooghly Mills Company v. Secretary of State, unreported; Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs v. Charlesworth Pilling & Co., L. R. 28 I. A. 121, Rajendra Nath Banerjee v. Secretary of State, I. L. R. 32 Calc 343, referred to. The market value of the acquired lands is also to be ascertained from recent instances of sales in the same or in the adjoining localities, and from the average rental of these and similar lands in the vicinity. S 21 of the Act authorizes the Judge to confine his inquiry into valuation to the interests of persons affected by the Collector's reference, but the section must mean the admitted interests. If there is any dispute as to the relative value of such interests, the Judge should determine the total amount payable for the land leaving the question of apportionment to be decided in a separate proceeding. The general demand for land, and the consequent reflex action on the prices of all classes of lands, is a factor in the calculation of the market value of lands under acquisition. The onus probandi varies according to the probative value of Collector's inquiry under s. 11 of the Act, and if he makes no inquiry or gives no reasons for his valuation, the onus on the claimant is nominal, and the Special Judge must decide on the weight of evidence. COMPOUND INTEREST.

—Mortgage bond—Stipulations in bonds amount to penalties—Compound interest—Increased interest on default—Compensation for breach of contract—Interest after date fixed for payment, power to give—Interest at contract rate after such date.—Compound interest at a rate exceeding the rate of interest on the principal money, being in excess of and outside the ordinary and usual stipulation, may be regarded as in the nature of a penalty. Where a stipulation in a mortgage bond for increased interest on default is retrospective and the increased interest runs from the date of the bond, and not merely from the date of the default, it is always to be construed as a penalty, because an additional money payment becomes in that case immediately payable by the mortgagor. But the increased interest is not therefore to be disallowed altogether; for by s. 74 of the Contract Act reasonable compensation not exceeding the amount of the penalty is to be received by the party complaining of the breach of the contract. Where two mortgage bonds were executed each providing for interest, compound interest, and on default increased interest from the respective dates of the execution of the bonds, and on the date of the execution of the second bond the amount due on the first bond with interest was included in the principal of the second bond; the High Court in a decree on the bonds held that the increased interest by way of compensation on the first bond should run only from the date of execution of the second bond, and that on the second bond should run only from the date of default on that bond, and allowed compound interest at the same rate only as that at which simple interest was stipulated for in the bond, and the Judicial Committee affirmed that decree Ss. 86 and 88 of the Transfer of Property Act contain no directions for interest beyond the date to be fixed by the Court up to which the account is directed to be taken; but it has long been the uniform practice of the Calcutta High Court to give such interest, and the power to do so, whatever the source of it (and that is immaterial since the decision in Maharaja of Bharatpur v. Kanno Dei, L. R. 28 I. A. 35; I. L. R. 23 All. 181), must be considered as established. SUNDAR KOER v. RAI SHAM KRISHEN (1906). I. L. R. 34 Calc. 150; L. R. 34 I. A. 9

1.—Compromise-suit—Compromise of suit made by adult male members of joint family—Minors—Repudiation—In this case the appellant sued to set aside a compromise and decree in accordance therewith in a former suit, which had been made on his behalf by the adult members of a joint family, of which he was an infant member, and for other reliefs. The High Court held that under the circumstances the compromise was valid and binding, and on appeal the Judicial Committee were of opinion that he could not obtain the other relief prayed for without first setting aside the compromise, and held that there were no grounds for setting it aside. The Court had partly heard the suit before the compromise was entered into; the appellant had no separate interest; the adult male members of the family, who were presumably competent to judge of their own interests, had taken part in the compromise and assented to it; and the Court pronounced that it was for the benefit of the appellant, who had been made a party for the purpose of binding his interest. of the contract provided: "Terms of payment: Cash on delivery of mate's or dock receipts or as provided in cls 8, 9 and 11. Should the said receipts or warrants be retained by the buyers for examination, they shall remain the property of the sellers and be held by the buyers in trust for and at the absolute disposal of the sellers, until payment has been made in cash in terms of this contract, and if payment be made by cheque, until such cheque has been cashed." Under A's instructions the goods were marked and placed alongside the vessel and subsequently shipped. Mate's receipts made out in A's name were obtained by B, and made over to A for examination together with B's bill and the usual measurement and weighment certificates. Thereupon A obtained bills of lading in exchange for the mate's receipts and pledged them with C, who acted bonâ fide and without notice of B's claim. The goods were never paid for by A. Held, that there was an "appropriation" by the seller B, assented to by the buyer A, within the meaning of s. 83 of the Indian Contract Act Rohde v. *Thwaites, 6 B. Under the conjoint operation of ss. 77 and 83 of the Indian Contract Act, the sale was complete and the property in the goods passed from the seller to the buyer, and the pledge by A of the bills of lading to C was valid. Cl. 13 did not reserve to the seller the right of disposing of the goods nor did it render the appropriation conditional on payment of the price The pledge by A to C did not come within the proviso to s. 178 of the Indian Contract Act. Per GEIDT, J.—The object of cl. 13 was to secure the seller's lien on the goods. Judgment of SALE, J., affirmed, *I. On arrival at Agra the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company's Station Master demanded payment of higher rates, calculated per maund, and refused delivery until such rates were paid. The consignees paid under protest and sued both Railway Companies for a refund of the excess charges. Held, that the contract for carriage of the goods for the whole distance was one entire contract with the receiving Company, who were liable for the overcharge, if any, wrongfully demanded from the consignees. Muschamp v. *Lancaster and Preston Junction Railway Company, 8 M. & W 421, 58 R. also, that a bye-law of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company which reserved to the Railway the right of remeasurement, reweighment, recalculation and reclassification of rates, terminals and other charges at the place of destination and of collecting before the goods are delivered any amount that may have been omitted or under-charged did not authorize the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company to alter the contract between the parties and charge at the place of destination maund rates instead of wagon rates. The plaintiff after a time refused, for reasons stated by her in her plaint, to live with her husband. Subsequently to this the stipulated allowance having been stopped, the plaintiff sued on the agreement above referred to to recover arrears amounting to ₹15,000. Held, that the plaintiff, though not a party to the agreement in question, was entitled to sue on it; also, on a construction of the agreement that no conditions as to the conduct of the plaintiff being laid down therein the fact that the plaintiff refused to live with her husband was no bar to the suit. (c) and (d) of the Court Fees Act, although it is for the plaintiff to state the amount at which he values the relief sought and although the amount of Court-fees payable varies with the amount at which the relief sought is valued in the plaint, it is open to the Court if a question is raised as to the true valuation of the suit to determine such question, and it is within the power of the Court to take action under s. 54 of the Civil Procedure Code if it is established that the valuation is improper. Where the suit was for a declaration that a mortgage-decree for Rs. 10,000 obtained by the defendant against the plaintiff was fraudulent and for an injunction to restrain the defendant from executing it by a sale of the mortgaged properties: Held, that the prayer for injunction was a prayer for consequential relief within s. 7, sub-s (iv), cl. —Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss. 55, 59—What amounts to a "contract to the contrary" within the meaning of section – Contract Act – (IX of 1872), s 20—Mistake does not prevent the party from claiming the protection of a special covenant—Want of attestation as laid down in s 59 of the Transfer of Property Act will not bar the personal remedy.—A, who had brought a suit to recover the amount due on a mortgage executed to him, assigned to B for valuable consideration all his claims under the mortgage deed and in the suit brought by A. The assignment contained a covenant that "A, his executors or administrators shall not be liable for any deficit in the claim hereby transferred and assigned or for any sums of money that may not be recovered" Subsequent to the assignment, B was added as a co-plaintiff in the suit brought by A and it was discovered that the mortgage executed to A was inoperative as it was attested by only one witness and the suit was withdrawn. B filed a suit against A for a declaration that the contract of assignment was void and for a return of the consideration paid. Held, that A was entitled to claim the benefit of the covenant, which exempted him from any liability, even though both A and B acted under the mistaken belief that the mortgage was valid and that A was not bound to refund the consideration received. Per Sir ARNOLD WHITE, C J.—The covenant is a "contract to the contrary" within the meaning of s. 55 of the Transfer of Property Act which will negative the statutory covenant of title under the section. Per Sir S. SUBRAHMANIA AYYAR, J.—Non-compliance with the rule laid down in s. 59 of the Transfer of Property Act as to attestation does not render the personal covenant void. Madras Deposit and Benefit Society, Limited v. *Oonnamalai Ammal, I. To give true effect to the whole of the language of s. 476 the expression "Court" can only mean the Judge who tries the case. *Krishna Gobinda Dutt, In the matter of, 9 C. W. of the case on appeal and agreed to by the counsel for the parties that the Judges should visit the scene of the accident under conditions approximating as nearly as possible to those which prevailed when the plaintiff met with his injuries. This was done, the Judges and the legal advisers of the parties went to the station where a presentation of the scene and events of the accident was gone through by which the Judges were enabled to make a thorough investigation of the material conditions accompanying the accident. They formed their own opinion on the question of the sufficiency or otherwise of the light, and gave judgment in accordance with them, reversing the decision of the Court which tried the case. Held, that such procedure was illegal. The result of it was that the appeal was decided not on the testimony given at the trial as to what took place on the night of the accident, but by the Judges' observation of what they saw on another night altogether; and the decision based on it was set aside, the judgment of the first Court being restored. II, Art. 120—Damages, measure of.*—Where notice under s. 9 of the Land Acquisition Act does not contain the material facts, which would enable the landowner to identify the land intended to be taken up, and where the land to be acquired is affected with a franchise, the franchise is not described, and the notice fixes less than the prescribed time to prefer claims, there being irregularities, a suit for damages for permanent injury to a ferry caused by acquisition under the Land Acquisition Act, is maintainable in the Civil Court, notwithstanding an award has been made by the Deputy Collector, not allowing any compensation for the ferry, as it was not claimed even after a special notice. Sub-s. (2) of s. 10 of the Railways Act does not bar a suit for compensation in the Civil Court, when the Collector refuses to adjudicate upon the claim put forward by the owner. A suit will lie in the Civil Court in respect of claim for damages, which could not be foreseen at the time of the acquisition proceedings. A suit to recover compensation for land acquired, instituted on the refusal of the Collector to award any compensation under the Land Acquisition Act, is governed by Art. 120 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, the right to sue accruing either from the date of the acquisition or the refusal by the Collector to award compensation. The mere construction of a railway bridge across a river, whereby the profits of the ferry are reduced, does not entitle the owner to claim damages; but where lands and both banks of the river, which were used as landing places for the ferry, were acquired for the purpose of a railway bridge, and the access to the river and with it the exercise of the franchise was destroyed, the owner was entitled to compensation. The value of a ferry ought not to be determined by ascertaining the average profits at the date of the acquisition by regarding it as an invariable quantity and by taking a number of years' purchase. The damages ought to be calculated on the basis of the average profits from the ferry. RAMESWAR SINGH v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA (1907) . . I. L. R. 34 Calc. 470

—Mortgage—Bond—Undue influence—Decree on mortgage bonds in the form provided by ss. 86 and 88 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882)—Stipulations in bonds amount to penalties—Compound interest—Increased interest on default—Compensation for breach of contract—Interest after date fixed for payment, power to give—Interest at contract rate after such date.—Compound interest at a rate exceeding the rate of interest on the principal money, being in excess of and outside the ordinary and usual stipulation, may be regarded as in the nature of a penalty. Where a stipulation in a mortgage bond for increased interest on default is retrospective, and the increased interest runs from the date of the bond, and not merely from the date of the default, it is always to be construed as a penalty, because an additional money payment becomes in that case immediately payable by the mortgagor But the increased interest is not therefore to be disallowed altogether; for by s. 74 of the Contract Act reasonable compensation not exceeding the amount of the penalty is to be received by the party complaining of the breach of the contract. Where two mortgage bonds were executed each providing for interest, compound interest, and on default increased interest from the respective dates of the execution of the bonds, and on the date of the execution of the second bond the amount due on the first bond with interest was included in the principal of the second bond; the High Court in a decree on the bonds held that the increased interest by way of compensation on the first bond should run only from the date of execution of the second bond, and that on the second bond should run only from the date of default on that bond, and allowed compound interest at the same rate only as that at which simple interest was stipulated for in the bond, and the Judicial Committee affirmed that decree. Held, also, that the decree of the High Court which was in the form provided by ss. 86 and 88 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882) was right in allowing interest after the time fixed for payment, until realization, at the Court rate of interest and not at the mortgage rate. The scheme and intention of the Transfer of Property Act was that a general account should be taken once for all, and an aggregate amount be stated in the decree for principal, interest and costs due on a fixed day, and that after the expiration of that day, if the property should not be redeemed, the matter should pass from the domain of contract to that of judgment, and the rights of the mortgagee should thenceforth depend, not on the contents of the bond, but on the directions in the decree Neither of the cases Rameswar Koer v. Mehdi Hossein Khan, L. R. 25 I A. 179 · I. L. R. 26 Calc. 39; and Maharaja of Bharatpur v Kanno Dei, L. R. 28 I. A. 35 I. L. R. 23 All. 181, is an authority for the contention that interest at the mortgage rate can be given after the date fixed for payment, until realization. In the former case the question was not raised, and in the latter case, although interest after the fixed date was given, it was not at the mortgage rate, but at the Court rate of interest. Ss. 86 and 88 of the Transfer of Property Act contain no directions for interest beyond the date to be fixed by the Court up to which the account is directed to be taken; but it has long been the uniform practice of the Calcutta High Court to give such interest, and the power to do so, whatever the source of it (and that is immaterial since the decision in Maharaja of Bharatpur v Kanno Dei, L. R. 28 I. A. 35 : I L. R. 23 All. 181), must be considered as established. SUNDAR KOER v. RAI SHAM KRISHEN (1906).

That though a person in a higher social position than the accused would have probably acted differently under the circumstances it did not follow that the accused was therefore actuated by malice in acting as he did GRANT v. EMPEROR (1906) . . 11 C. 3.—Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), s. 499, Exceptions 3, 6, 9, ss. 52, 500—Comment—Right of fair comment—Comment should be suggested by and confined to the work under review—Good faith, tests of—Malice, interpretation of the term.—The word "malice" in the legal use of that term is not limited to hostility of feeling, but by virtue of its etymological origin, extends to any state of the mind which is wrong or faulty (whether evidenced in action by excess or defect) such as would be unjustifiable in the circumstances and incompatible with thoroughly innocent intentions It is not necessary that such impropriety of feeling should in all cases be established by evidence extrinsic to the comment which is the subject of the complaint. For whether fair comment is to be regarded as falling under a branch of the law of privilege or not, it cannot excuse an injury arising, not from the mere act of criticism, but from a state of mind in the critic which is in itself unjustifiable and the excuse may be so forfeited either by reason of an evil intent in him, or by reason of mere recklessness in making an unwarrantable assertion. For then the comment would not be fair comment at all. Apart from extrinsic evidence of malice, protection must be withheld even from what purports to be criticism, if it states as a fact to be inferred from the book criticised an imputation for which the book itself contains absolutely no foundation whatever. The right of fair comment involves two essentials, first that the imputation should be comment on the work criticised, and second that it should be "fair"—that is to say, that if it professes to be an inference drawn from the contents of that work, it must be an inference which it is possible to draw therefrom. "Good faith" requires not, indeed, logical infallibility but due care and attention. But how far erroneous actions or statements are to be imputed to want of due care and caution must, in each case, be considered with reference to the general circumstances and the capacity and intelligence of the person whose conduct is in question. It is only to be expected that the honest conclusions of a calm and philosophical mind may differ very largely from the honest conclusions of a person excited by sectarian zeal and untrained to habits of precise reasoning At the same time it must be borne in mind that good faith in the formation or expression of an opinion, can afford no protection to an imputation which does not purport to be based on that which is the legitimate subject of public comment. The object of Exception 6 to s. 499 of the Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860) is that the public should be aided by comment in its judgment of the public performance submitted to its judgment. Comment otherwise defamatory is justified on this ground alone. The comment must, therefore, make it clear to the public that decision is invited only on such evidence as is supplied by the public performance. It follows that an imputation on an author made by a critic without reference, express or implied, to the work under criticism, if in terms so general as to be capable of conveying an unfavourable impression of him apart from what appears in his work, cannot be justified by the critic on the ground that his intention was to base his imputation solely on the work reviewed, and that he had in his mind passages therein supporting the imputation. The responsibility of the critic is to be gauged by the effect which his comment is calculated to produce, and not by what he says was his intention. It is not enough that he should intend to form his opinion on the work before him. he is also bound in the words of the exceptions to express his opinion with due care and caution, and to give the public no ground for supposing that he is speaking of anything but the performance submitted to its judgment. —Extension of the Act to the district—Decree on mortgage for sale—Order for sale in execution —Application for payment by instalments—Decree nisi—Decree absolute —In execution of a decree for the sale of mortgaged property a portion of the property was sold and the rest was ordered to be sold by the Collector to whom the decree was transferred for execution In the meanwhile the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act (Act XVII of 1879) having been made applicable to the district, the mortgagor applied to the Court for payment by instalments under s. 15 (b) of the Act. The application was refused by the Court on the ground that the decree having been transferred to the Collector, it had no power to grant instalments. Held on appeal by the mortgagor, reversing the order of the lower Court, that payment by instalments could be decreed. The application for payment by instalments having been made within one month from the time the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act (Act XVII of 1879) was made applicable, no question of limitation arose. Per RUSSELL, Acting C.J.:—The term 'decree' in s. 15 (b) of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act (Act XVII of 1879) refers to 'decree nisi' as well as to 'decree absolute.' Per BEAMAN, J.

DEKKHAN AGRICULTURISTS' RELIEF ACT (XVII OF 1879)—concluded.

There is a perceptible difference between the case of a 'decree absolute' for sale and for foreclosure. Theoretically the latter leaves nothing more to be done; there is nothing left to be paid by any one, no further step to be taken by the creditor or the Court. All is over. But that is not so when a decree for sale is made absolute. The amount for which the decree was passed is still payable, and though, strictly speaking, it may not be payable by the "mortgagor," it is payable out of what, but for the decree absolute, would be still his property MANCHERJI v. THAKORDAS (1906) . . I. DIGWARI TENURE.

—Right of a Digwar to grant mokurrari lease —Sub-soil rights—Suit by landlord—Government whether a necessary party.—The position of Digwars of Ghat Tasra, in Manbhum, is analogous to that of the Ghatwals of Birbhum Bukronath Singh v. Nilmoni Singh, I. L. R. 5 Calc. 389, and Nilmani Singh Deo v. Bakranath Singh, I. L. R. 9 Calc. 187, referred to. The tenure consisting of mouzahs Tasra and Raharaband, has all along been a Digwari tenure, ancient and hereditary, held subject to the payment of a fixed rent to the landlord and on condition of the performance of certain police or public services, for the due discharge of which the holder has been responsible to the Government which alone has exercised the power of appointment to, or dismissal from, the office. A Digwari tenure-holder of the said two mouzahs granted a mokurrari lease of all the surface and sub-soil rights in them Upon a suit by the landlord, without making the Government a party, for a declaration that the mineral rights in these mouzahs belonged to him as landlord, and that the defendant had no right to grant such a lease:—Held, that the Digwar as holder of a permanent tenure, possessed all under-ground rights including mining rights, and that therefore the plaintiff was not entitled to the declaration prayed for. Held, further, that Government was a necessary party to the suit. The pleader declined to proceed with the suit, and the plaintiff, who was present in Court, took no steps Thereupon the suit was dismissed in these words: "The plaintiff's pleader said that he was not willing to proceed So the suit was dismissed" The plaintiff subsequently applied for restoration under ss. 103 and 157 and the suit was restored to the file:—Held, that the dismissal of the suit under the above circumstances was a dismissal for default under s 102, and that the order restoring the suit was rightly passed. A plaintiff 'fails to appear' within the meaning of s 102, when his pleader declines to proceed with the suit and it makes no difference that the party himself was present in Court:—Held, also, that, under the circumstances, the order of restoration should not have been interfered with on revision. 3.—Restoration—Sufficient cause.—Where the pleader engaged by the former could not attend owing to his wife's illness, and another gentleman who had agreed to take up the case as his substitute was unavoidably prevented from attending the Court, and there being three cases on the day's list above the case, the party himself did not anticipate that the case would be called at an early hour and so failed to be present with his witnesses at the time when the case was called: Held, that these facts combined made out a case of sufficient cause for the re-admission of the case but only subject to conditions. The case was restored on condition of the defaulting party (appellant) paying beforehand to his opponents the costs of the hearing on the day on which the case was dismissed, the subsequent costs of the application under s. 103, C. The Court refused the application, and the pleader for the plaintiff thereupon intimated that he had no further instructions to appear; and the suit was dismissed. Subsequently an application was made under s. 103 of the Civil Procedure Code to set aside the order of dismissal. On objection by the defendant that, inasmuch as the dismissal was under s. 158 of the Code, the remedy of the plaintiff was by way of an application for review: Held, that the suit was dismissed under s. 102 read with s. 157, and that the application was maintainable under s. 103 of the Code of Civil Procedure. —City of Bombay Municipal Act (Bom. Act III of 1888), s. 33—Election of Councillor, validity of—Applicant's right to question election—Chief Judge of Small Cause Court has sole jurisdiction to try suits relating to election petitions—Jurisdiction of High Court—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 11.—Under s. 33 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, an applicant can question the election of every candidate on the ground that the election as a whole was invalid, for the section, after specifying two permissible grounds of objection, provides that the validity of any election may be questioned for any other cause, and these words are wide enough to cover the ground of objection urged in this case. It is clear that the word "election" in the section is designed to express something wider than a legally valid election, and the words used are consistent with the view that an election which in fact took place under conditions that made it possible that there should be a valid election can be questioned. Under s. 33 the Chief Judge of the Small Cause Court has jurisdiction to determine the validity of a contested election. The High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain such a suit. Where a special tribunal, out of the ordinary course, is appointed by an Act to determine questions as to rights which are the creation of that Act, then, except so far as otherwise expressly provided or necessarily implied, that tribunal's jurisdiction to determine those questions is exclusive. It is an essential condition of those rights that they should be determined in the manner prescribed by the Act, to which they owe their existence. In such a case there is no ouster of the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts for they never had any. The jurisdiction of the Courts can be excluded not only by express words but also by implication, and there certainly is enough in s. 33 of the Municipal Act for this purpose. Semble: If the High Court has jurisdiction there might be a conflict between the view of the High Court and the orders of the Chief Judge in which the order of the Chief Judge must by the express terms of the Act prevail. EMIGRATION ACT (XXI OF 1883 AMENDED BY ACT X OF 1902).

—Magistrate—Magistrate, First Class, in s. 111, includes Presidency Magistrate—Agreement with Native of India to depart out of India by sea to work as an artisan Agreement made without the permission of the Protector of Emigrants—Liability of master for criminal acts done by servant on the master's behalf—Master liable for agreements entered into on his behalf by his servant in violation of s. 111—Protector of Emigrants has power to impose reasonable terms before he can issue permission applied for—Summons, issue of—Fresh summons issued on the same information—Irregularity in procedure—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 537.—The term "Magistrate of the First Class" used in s. 111 of the Indian Emigration Act, 1883, means a Magistrate appointed to exercise the highest Magisterial powers ordinarily prescribed by the Criminal Procedure Code within his jurisdiction and includes a Presidency Magistrate. Where on an information a summons is issued to the accused and owing to its disclosing no offence, a fresh summons is issued without any fresh or supplemental information, the error, omission or irregularity in the fresh summons, is not sufficient, under s. 537 of the Criminal Procedure Code, to upset the finding and sentence unless it has in fact occasioned "a failure of justice," that is, unless it has unfairly affected the accused's defence on the merits. Sub-s. (1) of s. 111 of the Indian Emigration Act hits at not merely entering into an agreement but also at any attempt to enter into it. An attempt consists in some external act which shows that progress is made in the direction of it or towards maturing and effecting it, that is, something tangible and ostensible of which the law can take hold, which can be alleged and proved Where penal statute has been infringed by servants and criminal proceedings are taken against the master although it lies upon the prosecutor to establish the master's liability, yet the question whether he is liable turns necessarily upon what is the true construction to be placed upon the statute. The statute should be construed, not merely with reference to its language, but also its subject matter and object. Sub-s (1) of s. 111 of the Indian Emigration Act, 1883, does not break in upon the rule of law embodied in the maxim qui per alium facit per seipsum facere videtur. The word "whoever" in the clause means whoever either by himself or through his agent. In other words, the Act leaves untouched the right of every person to enter into such agreements through an agent. It merely provides that such agreements shall not be entered into without the previous permission of the Local Government. The intention of the section is to hold the master liable for his servant's act, provided the act was done by the servant so as to bind the master according to the law of contract. The coupling of the word with the words "terms," "conditions" in s. 107 of the Act shows the intention of the Legislature to be that the officer authorized to grant the permission should have power to impose any reasonable terms and conditions he thinks proper as conditions precedent to the grant, whether they relate to the terms of the agreement itself or being extraneous to it relate to the execution or other considerations which have to be taken into account in order to protect the interests of the Native of India departing out of it by sea. S. 29 of the Indian Emigration Act, 1883, makes it compulsory that the execution of the agreement therein referred to should be in the presence of the Protector. In s. 108 of the Act the power conferred on the Local Government, who have delegated their power to the Protector, is discretionary, and it is left to that Government to decide whether in any particular case any agreement referred to in s. 107 shall be executed or not in its presence, that is, in the presence of the Protector acting as its delegated authority. The two sections being thus distinguishable, the language of one cannot be invoked to aid the construction of the other, especially where the language of each is plain. 1.—Hindu endowment—Scheme for management of Hindu temple by Mahant—Power to make and modify such a scheme—Power to alter trust of endowment—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 539—Provision for application of surplus funds.—This was a suit in which the respondent charged the appellant, the manager of a certain Hindu temple, with neglect to keep proper accounts, misappropriation of offerings and other acts of a similar character, and the relief prayed was the settling of a scheme for the management of the temple including "provisions for the application of the surplus funds belonging to the temple with such modifications of the managing authority" as might be necessary to obviate the evils referred to, "and place the administration of the temple on a satisfactory footing." Objections were taken to the scheme settled by the High Court (which amended one framed by the District Court) that its effect would be to lower the position of the Mahant and weaken his authority, and that it provided for the application of surplus funds by devoting them to objects foreign to the purposes of the endowment. The Judicial Committee settled a scheme calculated to get rid of those objections and to meet the exigencies of the case without impairing the authority of the Mahant whose position, subject to the scheme, was to be the same as before, and providing that all surplus income should be invested for the benefit of the temple, with liberty to the Mahant or any person interested to apply to the District Court with reference to the carrying out the directions of the scheme, or to the High Court for any modification of it which might appear to be necessary or convenient. In a suit brought after having obtained the sanction of the District Judge under s. 18 of Act XX of 1863, for the removal, on the ground of misfeasance, breach of trust, and neglect of duty, of a trustee of a religious endowment for the management of which the Local Government appointed in 1864 a Committee of three members under s 7 of the Act, the defence was that s. 3 of the said Act had no application inasmuch as the endowed property had not vested in the Government before the passing of the Act, and that the proper course for the plaintiff was to have instituted the suit under s. 539 of the Code of Civil Procedure; and that the office of Daroga or Manager being hereditary, he could not be removed from that office: Held, that the provisions of Act XX of 1863 applied to the case, and that the suit was rightly instituted, and that the Daroga could be removed from his office by the District Judge, if he acted contrary to the trust. Bibee Kuneez Fatima v. *Bibee Saheba Jan. 8 W. 1. MODE OF DEALING WITH EVIDENCE.

1.—Additional evidence on appeal—Evidence taken preliminary to hearing of appeal on the merits—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 568, 623.—The legitimate occasion for s. 568 of the Civil Procedure Code (XIV of 1882) is when on examining the evidence as it stands some inherent lacuna or defect becomes apparent, and not where a discovery is made outside the Court of fresh evidence and the application is made to import it; that is the subject of the separate enactment in s. 623. On an appeal on the merits of the case being filed the appellate Court without recording any reason as required by s. 568 of the Code allowed such further evidence to be taken, not after the appeal on the merits had been heard and the evidence as it stood had been examined by the Judges but on special and preliminary application. Held, that the appellate Court had no jurisdiction to admit the additional evidence, that it was wrongly admitted and must be disregarded. 2. MISCELLANEOUS DOCUMENTS.

2.—Secondary evidence—public document—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 65, cl. (e) and (g), 74.—Where the fact to be proved is the general result of the examination of numerous documents and not the contents of each particular document and the documents are such as cannot be conveniently examined in Court, evidence may be given, under s. 65, cl. (g) of the Evidence Act, as to the general result of the documents by a person who has examined them and who is skilled in the examination of those documents, although they may be public documents within the meaning of s. 65, cl. (e) and s. 74 of the Evidence Act. SUNDAR KUAR v. CHANDRESHWAR PRASAD NARAIN SINGH (1907).

3.—Evidence Act (I of 1872), ss. 91, 95, 97—Where sale-deed gives wrong survey numbers to the land sold, evidence admissible to show the real lands intended to be sold—The general rule laid down in s. 91 of the Evidence Act is subject to the exceptions laid down in ss. 95 and 97 of the same Act. Where a sale-deed describes the land sold by wrong survey numbers, extrinsic evidence is admissible to show that the lands intended to be sold and actually sold and delivered were lands bearing different survey numbers. 4.—Admissibility of evidence—Kursinama—Evidence Act (I of 1872), s. 32, cl. (5)—Statements by members of family as to relationship—Document admitted in first Court without objection—Objection to admissibility not allowed on appeal.—In an application for Letters of Administration, the right of the applicants to be considered the next heirs of the deceased depended on proof that the relationship between their great-great-grandfather and the great-great-grandmother of the deceased was that of full brother and sister. To prove this, a kursinama, or genealogical table, made by the ancestress of the deceased "by the pen of gomasta," and alleged to have been filed by her in 1804 in a suit to establish the same fact, and a certified copy of an ewaznama, or deed of exchange, dated 17th January 1782 and corroborating the kursinama as to the relationship, were produced by the appplicants. The kursinama was admitted in the first Court without objection. Both documents, which were pronounced genuine and admissible in evidence by the District Judge, were held by the High Court to be forgeries. Held, that the kursinama was admissible in evidence. Held, also, that it was too late on this appeal to object to the admissibility in evidence of a document which had been admitted without objection in the first Court. The certified copy of the ewaznama was also held to be admissible in evidence. On the question of the genuineness of both documents, their Lordships supported the conclusion arrived at by the District Judge, and held, that the title of the applicants was established. 5.—Stamp Act (I of 1879), s. 35—No secondary evidence admissible the receiving which will be to give some effect to an unstamped document—In a suit by plaintiffs to redeem lands alleged to have been mortgaged under an instrument in 1841, the document was not produced and therefore secondary evidence was not receivable to prove the contents of the document. The plaintiff sought to rely on the oral evidence as to execution of the document and the passing of possession under the deed as showing that the defendant by such possession acquired only a mortgagee's right in the property. Held, that the receiving of such evidence will be to give some effect to the unstamped document by connecting the possession with the contents thereof, and was therefore contrary to the provisions of s. 35 of the Indian Stamp Act An admission of the mortgage by the defendant's ancestor was also held not receivable on the same grounds. Chenbasapa v. *Lakshmanan Ramchandra, I. —Principles applicable to purchase—Hindus—Mahomedans—Judgment not inter partes—Admissibility in subsequent suit—Transaction—"Particular instances in which the right is claimed"—Res judicata.—The principles applicable to a purchase by one member of a joint Hindu family from another are not applicable to Mahomedans. Plaintiff, a Mahomedan, brought a suit against his brother, brother's wife and the widow of a deceased brother to recover possession of a house on the strength of a registered sale-deed passed to the plaintiff by his deceased father. Subsequent to the sale to the plaintiff, certain mortgagees of the father brought a suit on the mortgage against the plaintiff, his father and mother. In the said suit the sale to plaintiff was held to be a sham transaction and the plaintiff had to pay off the mortgage. In the suit brought by the plaintiff for the recovery of the house on the strength of the sale-deed, the defendants relied on the judgment in the suit on the mortgage to show that the sale was a colourable transaction. The first Court allowed the claim, but the Judge in appeal dismissed it on the ground that the purchase by the plaintiff from his father was not proved to be bonâ fide. On second appeal by the plaintiff, a question having arisen as to the admissibility in evidence of the judgment in the suit on the mortgage : Held, per RUSSELL, A C.J., that the proceedings in the suit on the mortgage were admissible as relevant evidence because the plaintiff and defendants, either by themselves or their predecessors, were parties to that suit. The said proceedings came within the words "particular instances in which the right was claimed" in s. 13 of the Indian Evidence Act (I of 1872). Per BEAMAN, J.—The judgment in the suit on the mortgage was admissible to prove that the genuineness of the plaintiff's sale-deed was then questioned, but it cannot be used for any ulterior purpose. 2. IRREGULARITY.

6.—Material irregularity in conduct of sale—No proof of substantial injury—Postponement of sale—Order staying sale withdrawn and sale held without issue of fresh proclamation—Civil Procedure Code, ss 290, 291, 244 and 311, 312.—A proclamation of sale in execution of a decree fixed the sale for 20th February 1897. By an order of the Subordinate Judge of Gorakhpur, made ex parte on 11th February, the sale was stayed, and on 16th the Collector acting on that order, struck the proceedings off the pending file. On 22nd February, in consequence of notice received from the Subordinate Judge that the order staying the sale had been set aside, the sale was brought on in continuation of the sales listed for the 20th, which had not been finished, and on the 23rd, the property of the judgment-debtors was sold to the decree-holder who had obtained leave to bid. On application for confirmation of the sale the judgment-debtors applied under s. 311 of the Civil Procedure Code to have the sale set aside; but the Subordinate Judge confirmed the sale, finding that, although there were irregularities in the conduct of the sale, the judgment-debtors had not sustained any damage and that decision was upheld by the High Court. In a suit to have the sale annulled on the grounds stated in the application under s. 311, one of which was that the sale was illegal, without the issue of a fresh proclamation of sale: Held by the Judicial Committee, that the suit was not maintainable. Assuming that a fresh proclamation should have been issued, the omission was an irregularity which had involved no loss to the judgment-debtors, whose only course was to object, as they did, to the confirmation of the sale, which they could not afterwards impeach by regular suit. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 223, 229, 229B.—The family domains of the Maharaja of Benares are situated within British India as defined in Act X of 1897, s. 3, cl. 7, and s. 4, cl 1; and the Court of the Native Commissioner or Subordinate Judge of Kondh within those domains, established under Regulation VII of 1828 amended by Act XIV of 1881, is a Court established by the authority of the Governor-General in Council; consequently neither s 229 nor s. 229B of the Code of Civil Procedure applies to the execution of decree passed by it. To make s. 223 of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to the transmission of decrees of one Court to another for execution applicable, it is necessary that the provisions of the Code should regulate the procedure of both the Courts The Code having become applicable to the Court of the Subordinate Judge of Kondh by virtue of Rules made by the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces on 2nd April 1888 under s. 22, Regulation VII of 1828 and the notification by the Governor-General in Council, dated 1st June 1882, a decree of that Court may be transferred to, and executed by, the Civil Court in the district of Saran. false entry of a marriage in the marriage register—Mahomedan marriage register.—In order to convict a person of fabricating false evidence under s. 193, Indian Penal Code, it is necessary to find that the person intended that the fabrication may appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding or in a proceeding taken by law before a public servant as such or before an arbitrator. Where the accused by falsely representing to the marriage registrar that a certain marriage had been solemnised, induced the registrar to make a false entry of the registration of the marriage: Held, that the accused cannot be convicted of the offence of fabricating false evidence under s. 193, Indian Penal Code, in the absence of a finding that the intention of the accused was that the false entry in the marriage register might appear in evidence in a judicial proceeding or some other proceeding of a like nature as contemplated by s. 192, Indian Penal Code. Nevertheless he commenced investigation and after four days when the matter had so developed that there was some reason to believe that M had been murdered, he for the first time recorded a statement by A as the first information. Held, that such a practice is altogether contrary to the provisions of s. 154, Code of Criminal Procedure, and a statement recorded under such circumstances cannot be regarded as a first information The first information if recorded as directed by s. 154 at the time it is made is of considerable value at the trial because it shows on what materials the investigation commenced and what was the story then told. Any statement recorded, as in this case, several days after the commencement of the investigation and after there had been some development is not only no first information, but has very little or no value at all as the original story, because it can be made to fit into the case as then developed. FORFEITURE—concluded.

1.—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s 375—Consent decree—Status of landlord and tenant—Suit to enforce forfeiture—Relief against forfeiture.—When a plaintiff is seeking to enforce by original suit a right to forfeiture contained in a consent decree (passed under s. 375 of the Civil Procedure Code in accordance with a lawful agreement recorded under that section), whereby the status of landlord and tenant is established between the plaintiff and defendant, the Court in the exercise of its equitable jurisdiction is not precluded from granting such relief against forfeiture as it might have granted, had the status arisen from contract or custom. Per JENKINS, C.J.—As under s 375 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) the decree was to be in accordance with the agreement, it cannot have altered the relations of the parties as they existed under the agreement. And as it was an incident of those relations that the right of forfeiture was subject to relief, that incident must still apply when those relations are established by a decree passed in accordance with the agreement Per BEAMAN, J.—The difference between a consent decree declaring the agreement of parties, and the agreement of parties themselves, when the one or the other is sought to be afterwards enforced, goes no further than this, that in the former case it would not be open to a party to question the accuracy of the decree, as expressing what at the time was the contract which had been made Shirekuli Timapa Hegda v. *Mahablya, I. FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCE.

—Fraud on creditors—Transferee, rights of—"Good faith"—Sale by debtor with intent to defeat or delay creditor—Fraudulent intent of vendor shared in by purchaser—Fraudulent preference—Sale in consideration of existing debt—Sale of entire estate of debtor—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 53—Practice—Frame of suit—Appeal.—A suit under s. 53 of the Transfer of Property Act to obtain a declaration that a conveyance is voidable at the instance of the creditors of the transferor must be brought by or on behalf of all the creditors, and the suit unless so framed would not be maintainable. Burjorji Dorabji Patel v. Dhunbai, I. L. R. 16 Bom. 1; Ishvar Timappa Hegde v. Devar Venkappa, I. L. R. 27 Bom. 146; Chatterput Singh v. Maharaj Bahadur, I. L. R. 32 Calc. 198, and Reese River Silver Mining Co. v. Atwell, L. R. 7 Eq. 347, referred to. But a suit cannot be dismissed on this ground, if the objection is taken for the first time in appeal. In order to establish the validity of a conveyance impeached as a fraud upon creditors, consideration and good faith must both be proved. If the transfer is for valuable consideration and is made with a full intention that the property should be parted with, and not as a cloak for retaining a benefit to the grantor, it will be valid as against a creditor, though the object of the transferor may have been to defeat an impending execution. Where, however, a transfer, although for valuable consideration and intended to pass the absolute title in the property, is made with the object of defeating or delaying the grantor's creditors, and such object is known to the transferee who aids and assists in executing it, the transfer cannot be regarded as one made in good faith. In the absence of a law of bankruptcy, a preferential transfer of property to one creditor in satisfaction of an existing debt due to him is not fraudulent as to other creditors, although the debtor in making the transfer intended to defeat the claims, and the transferee had knowledge of such intention, if the only purpose of the latter is to secure his own debt and the property is not worth materially more than the amount of his debt. It makes no difference that the transfer is of the whole of the estate of the debtor. Ishan Chunder Das Sarkar v. Bishu Sirdar, I. L. R. 24 Calc. 825, approved. —13 Elizabeth, c. 5, and the Transfer of Property Act IV of 1882, s. 53—Transfer, though for valuable consideration void if made to defeat creditors—Such transfer not valid even in part.—S. 53 of the Transfer of Property Act does not apply to transfers of moveable property. A transfer of moveable property by a debtor is valid as against his creditors only when it is made bonâ fide and for valuable consideration. Where a transfer, though in part for valuable consideration, is, as regards the other part, only an arrangement to defeat creditors it is wholly void against the creditors both under s. 53 of the Transfer of Property Act and under 13 Elizabeth, c. 5, and cannot be upheld to the extent to which it is supported by consideration. There is nothing in the statute of Elizabeth or in s 23 of the Transfer of Property Act to prevent a debtor giving preference to a creditor if nothing is done to affect the other creditors injuriously. *Twyne's Case, 3 Co. 1.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 437—Notice to the accused—Power to direct further enquiry.—The power conferred by s. 437 of the Criminal Procedure Code to direct a further inquiry should be used sparingly and with great caution. Though it is not illegal to make an order directing further enquiry under s. 437, Criminal Procedure Code, without notice to the accused, it is always desirable that notice should be given. The ordinary rule is that no order should be passed against an accused without notice to him. A question may be very clear to a Court directing further inquiry, but still it ought to give an accused already discharged an opportunity to be heard. 2.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 203, 437—Transfer by District Magistrate of case remanded for further enquiry—Rioting—Cross-cases—Dismissal—Construction of order for further enquiry - Rule on District Magistrate—Accused's right to show cause.—No order should be passed against an accused person without his getting an opportunity of being heard. Where a rule was issued only upon the District Magistrate to show cause why further enquiry should not be directed into a complaint against the accused, which had been dismissed under s. 203, Criminal Procedure Code: Held, that the accused were entitled to be heard. Where a Sessions Judge remands a case dismissed by a Deputy Magistrate under s. 203, Criminal Procedure Code, and directs that further proceedings should be held under the same section, the case cannot after the remand be transferred by the District Magistrate from the file of the Deputy Magistrate. The two rival parties in a case of rioting preferred two complaints which were dismissed by the Magistrate under s. 203, Criminal Procedure Code. The Sessions Judge on the application of both parties under s. 437, Criminal Procedure Code, ordered that further enquiry should be held in both the cases and directed that if one of them be found false, the other case should be tried. When after remand one of the cases was dismissed under s. 203: Held, that the Sessions Judge's order contemplated that the cases should be decided after regular trial and not dealt with under s. 203, Code of Criminal Procedure, and that the order of the Deputy Magistrate dismissing the case under s. 203, Criminal Procedure Code, was illegal. During the trial, the District Magistrate was not examined as a witness. The trying Magistrate convicted the accused for offences under the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act (Bombay Act IV of 1887), applying to them the presumption arising under s. 7 of the Act: Held, reversing the conviction and sentence, that the Magistrate erred in applying to the accused the presumption arising under s. 7 of the Act. The presumption under s. 7 of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act (Bombay Act IV of 1887) arises only where there has been an arrest and a search under s 6 of the Act. As a First Class Magistrate has, under s 6 of the Act, power to give authority under a special warrant to a police officer of the class designated in the section to make the arrest and the search, the Legislature must be presumed to have intended that the Magistrate, First Class should have the authority to make the arrest and the search himself, if necessary. Where the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act has provided for the manner or place of investigating or inquiring into any offence under it, its provisions must prevail and the Criminal Procedure Code must give way. Accordingly, no provision of the Code as to the authority empowered to issue a warrant for arrest or search, or the person to whom and the conditions under which such warrant may be issued can apply for the purposes of s. 7 of the Act The authority, the persons and the conditions must be respectively those specifically mentioned in s. 6 of the Act and no other. But the special provision in s. 6 would still be subject to the general provisions of ss. 65 and 105 of the Code. When a Magistrate, First Class, or other officer mentioned in s. 6 of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act (Bombay Act IV of 1887) himself acts under its provisions, instead of acting through an officer of the particular class prescribed therein under a special warrant, he must act strictly in compliance with those provisions. The first condition necessary to make an arrest and seizure, under the section, legal so as to bring in the operation of s 7 is that where the Magistrate is acting on information, there must be a complaint made before him on oath to set him in motion When a Magistrate, First Class, or other officer mentioned in s 6 himself does the acts specified in clauses (1) to (5) of the section instead of issuing a special warrant, he must give evidence, because he supplies the place of the warrant and the warrant is a necessary part of the evidence for the prosecution. Where a Magistrate, First Class, himself makes an arrest and seizure under s. 6 of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act (Bombay Act IV of 1887) he must himself "enter" the "house, room or place" with the assistance of such persons as may be found necessary. S. 6 of the Bombay Prevention of Gambling Act (Bombay Act IV of 1887) must be construed strictly because s. 7 gives to an arrest and seizure under it an operation different from that of the general presumption of innocence in criminal cases. Imperatrix v. *Subhabhatta, Unrep. If, therefore, the power exists it must be under Hindu Law as distinct from statute. It would not be in accordance with the ordinary use of language to speak of a father, whose power (if any) rests on the General Hindu Law as "an authority competent in that behalf." It is clear that s. 440 of the Civil Procedure Code does not apply to all guardians, for it would be impossible to suggest that it applies to natural guardians. BUDHILAL v. MORARJI (1907). I. L. 3.—Shia Mahomedan lady—Inherent power of Civil Court.—The power to appoint a guardian ad litem is inherent in every Court of civil jurisdiction. Where therefore a Shia Mahomedan lady had been appointed by a Civil Court guardian ad litem of her infant children, it was held that the appointment must be presumed to be valid and that a sale in execution of the decree obtained in such a suit was binding on the minors. Subsequently the guardian discovered that this was an inadequate price, and having received an offer of R825 for the property, went again to the District Judge for sanction to the second contract, obtained sanction and sold the property for R825. Held, that the former contract being to the detriment of the minor could not be specifically enforced. Art. 44 will therefore apply to a suit by the ward to set aside an assignment by his guardian of his right as mortgagee. Gnanasambhanda Pandara Sannadhi v. *Velu Pandaram, I. L. The Guardian and Wards Act makes no provision for setting aside an order made under the Act, but judging from the analogy of English practice there can be no doubt that in these miscellaneous matters the Judge sitting in Chambers and making orders on petitions and applications has the power to vary, alter, modify or set aside his own orders when he finds that the order is one which ought not to have been made and that the order is one that requires in the interests of justice to be dealt with in that way. 4.—Adoption by widow with authority of husband - Adoption after birth of posthumous son to sole surviving co-parcener—Joint family—Mitakshara law—Gift to daughter out of joint property—Gift out of income—Right to partition.—Two brothers formed a joint family governed by the Mitakshara law as in force in Bombay and were possessed of considerable ancestral property. One of them died on 14th September 1900 without male issue but leaving his widow pregnant. The other brother died on 17th December 1900 leaving a will dated 30th November, by which he purported to make certain dispositions of the family property, and also authorized his widow to adopt a son with the consent of persons specifically mentioned in the will: "such adoption to be made even though a son is born to my brother's widow." On 18th December his brother's widow gave birth to a son, the plaintiff. On 17th February 1901, the testator's widow adopted a son to her husband with the consents directed in the will. It was contended that on the face of the will the adoption was illegal and void because the power to adopt was part of a plan for the disposition of the family property which was in contravention of the law, and the power was dependent on that plan having effect. Held, on the construction of the will, that the dispositions made were within the testator's competence at the date of the will and at the date of his death; they were only liable to be defeated in one event (which in fact happened), namely, his brother's widow giving birth to a son, and the will expressly said that, in that case, the adoption should still be made. It was also contended that at the time the adoption took place the family property had become vested absolutely and exclusively in the plaintiff and that the adoption could not divest it. Held, that the adoption being made with the authority of the husband was valid, and under the circumstances the plaintiff took the property subject to the adoption, and the adopted son became on his adoption a co-parcener with the plaintiff in the family property. Sri Virada Pratapa Raghunada Deo v. *Sri Brozo Kishore Patta Deo, L. A second adoption made after the adoptive mother has succeeded to the estate on the death of the widow of the first adopted son is therefore invalid. Pudma Kumari v. *Court of Wards, L. R. 8 I. 6.—Adoption with consent of Sapindas—Assent given on the strength of representation by widow that she had her husband's authority to adopt—Such authority found on evidence not to have been proved—Omission to ask consent of one of two of husband's nearest kinsmen, effect of.—The first appellant was the widow of a deceased Brahman who was separate in estate from his kinsmen two of whom were the respondents who were brothers of the deceased and also divided between themselves. The widow, representing that she had the oral authority of her husband to adopt a son, obtained the assent of the second respondent, the elder of the two brothers, who executed a deed purporting to ratify the husband's authority, and this was signed also by some remoter kinsmen of the husband; and the widow thereupon purported to adopt the second appellant as a son to her husband. The first respondent was not asked for his consent, the widow alleging, as her reason for omitting to ask him, that she knew from his attitude towards the proposed adoption that he would refuse. In a suit brought by the first respondent to have the adoption declared void both the lower Courts found that there was not sufficient evidence to prove that the widow had any authority from her husband:—Held, by the Judicial Committee (upholding the judgment of the High Court) that the adoption was not made with the independent approval of the natural advisers of the widow, the assent of the kinsmen who were asked having been given not in the exercise of an independent judgment on the expediency of the proposed adoption, but as a ratification of the husband's authority which did not exist; and the appellants could not now set up such ratification as an independent ground of defence. Nor had the widow justified her omission to ask for the authority of the first respondent, one of the nearest kinsmen of her husband, and holding an important position in the family. To consult him was essential to her obtaining the mind of the kinsmen on the adoption, and her reason for not consulting him was one which she was not entitled to give. Her case therefore failed in the quality of the consents actually obtained, and the adoption was not valid. JONALAGADDA VENKAMMA v. JONALAGADDA SUBRAMANIAM (1906).

7.—Gayawal priests—Custom—Agreement between adoptive mother and adopted son, not depending upon the validity of the adoption—Revocation of agreement—Contract of service—Termination on notice—Employment of priest.—Plaintiff, the widow of a Gayawal priest, purported to adopt the defendant, a married man, twenty-four years of age, in accordance with an alleged custom by which it was said the childless widow of a Gayawal priest is allowed to make such an adoption in order that the adopted son may get his feet worshipped by the clientele of her family for her own immediate benefit and ultimately for the benefit of the adopted son who takes by inheritance her estate as well as the estate of her husband. The son so adopted was, it was further alleged, liable according to the said custom to be dismissed for misconduct. At the time of the adoption the plaintiff executed a deed which recited the fact of the adoption having been made pursuant to the above custom and specified the circumstances under which the adoption might be cancelled. The alleged custom not having been established: Held, that the adoption was not valid either as a dattak or a krtima adoption, the necessary rites and ceremonies not having been performed and the defendant having already been invested with the sacred thread, married and had a son at the time of adoption, that the transaction was essentially a contract to enable the plaintiff to keep up her connection, spiritual as well as worldly, with her husband's clientele and to enjoy the benefits resulting from such connection, and this contract did not depend for its validity upon the validity of the adoption and was consequently enforceable. That the contract was not determinable at the mere choice of the plaintiff. The contingencies which in the contemplation of the parties was to terminate the contract not having arisen, the plaintiff was not entitled to rescind the contract. Llanelly v. L. and N.-W. Railway, L. R. 8 Ch. App. 942, 949, and St. Barnabas v. M. I. Electric Co., 40 L. R. A. 388, referred to. HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.

1.—Alienation by widow—Legal necessity—Order for interest or decree in execution where decree did not allow interest—Sum for interest made part of consideration for sale deed—Res judicata—Decision in suit for pre-emption—Civil Procedure Code, s 13.—A Hindu widow in possession of her husband's immoveable property for a widow's estate executed, on 22nd December 1868, a deed of sale of it in favour of a creditor of her husband under a decree, dated 12th July 1861. No future interest was allowed by that decree, but on 22nd October 1866 the decree-holder in execution of it obtained from the Court of the Deputy Commissioner an order for interest on the decree, which order was however set aside by the Judicial Commissioner on 15th September 1869 on the ground that a Court executing a decree had no power to alter or add to it. The consideration for the deed of sale, which was executed whilst the order granting interest was in force, was made up of ₹7,080 the amount her husband was liable for under the decree, ₹5,638 for interest on the decree, and a sum of ₹7,280 in cash. On 23rd December 1869, the plaintiff as reversionary heir of the husband brought a suit against the vendee for pre-emption, but that suit was dismissed on the ground that his right of pre-emption was not established. The widow died in 1894 and in 1899 the plaintiff brought the present suit for possession of the property and for mesne profits from her death. The defendants were the Deputy Commissioner as representing the Court of Wards, into whose charge the vendee's estate had come, and the purchaser from the Court of Wards of the greater portion of the property in suit. The defence was that the alienation was made for legal necessity, and that the suit was barred by the decision in the pre-emption suit, which operated as res judicata. Both Courts below found on the facts that the item of ₹7,080 was justified by legal necessity, and that the advance of the sum in cash as part of the consideration was not proved. Held, by the Judicial Committee, that the defendants, claiming as they did under the vendee, and standing therefore in no higher position than his, were not entitled to base a claim to the property upon an order made in the vendee's favour, but subsequently set aside: under the circumstances the doctrine of legal necessity could not be extended to the item for interest. There should be a decree for possession and for the balance of mesne profits after deducting the ₹7,080 for which the property was liable. Held, also, that all that was in issue in the former suit was the right of pre-emption as to the widow's interest only in the property, and that the effect of the deed of sale on the reversion could not properly have been made a ground of attack in that suit: the present suit was therefore not barred by s. 13 of the Civil Procedure Code. 2.—Mitakshara family—Liability of son for father's debt—Alienation of family property by father—Mortgage—Antecedent debt—Suit by mortgagee against father and sons for sale of mortgaged property—Limitation—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Art. 132, Sch. II.—Where a debt has been incurred by the karta of a Mitakshara family for family purposes and the property of the family has been alienated to defray the debt, the sons cannot set up their rights against the purchaser, unless they are able to prove that the money, in respect of which the alienation was made, was borrowed for immoral purposes; there is no distinction between debts incurred to pay off antecedent debts and those incurred to meet present necessities. The principle is applicable to partial alienations, such as mortgages. In a joint Mitakshara family composed of father and sons, the former executed a mortgage bond on receipt of a loan, which the sons failed to prove to have been taken for immoral purposes. Held, that the mortgage bond was binding on the sons and that the limitation applicable to a suit on the bond in respect of the sons as well as in respect of the father, was that provided by Art. 132, Sch. II of the Limitation Act. Nanomi Babuasin v. Modhun Mohun, I. L. R. 13 Calc. 21 : L. R. 13 I. A. 1; Bhagbut Pershad Singh v. *Girja Koer, I. L. R. 15 Calc. 717 : L. R. 15 I. It was not proved that there was any legal necessity for the loan or any inquiry by the lender, nor that the loan was contracted for illegal or immoral purposes. In a suit by the mortgagee against the father and the son to enforce the mortgage, commenced within six years from the due date fixed by the mortgage: Held, that the mortgagee was entitled to have the security enforced as against the share of the mortgagor and also to a decree which would enable him to realize the debt by the sale of the share of the son in the ancestral property. Luchmun Dass v. *Giridhur Chowdhry, I. There is a distinction between the position of the son in a suit in which a mortgage by his father is sought to be enforced against his share in the property, and his position after the alienation has been completed by an execution sale. Nanomi Babuasin v. *Modhun Mohun, I. 4.—Mitakshara—Alienation—Right of son to contest validity of alienations of ancestral property made by father or grandfather prior to son's birth—Mortgage of ancestral property—Son's right of redemption.—Under the Mitakshara school of Hindu Law, a member of a joint family can contest the validity of the alienation by his father or grandfather only of such an interest in the ancestral property as existed at his birth and vested in him by his birth. Where there is a complete transfer of property by mortgage by the father or grandfather prior to the birth of such member, the only interest that may vest on birth is the equity of redemption. It was found by both the lower Courts that the alienation was not justified by any necessity recognized by Hindu law. The defendant pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation. Held, that it was not open to the defendant to rely on Art. 91 of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) as a bar to the suit Harihar Ojha v *Dasarathi Misra, I. HINDU LAW—CONVERSION.

1.—Change of religion—Effect of conversion of a member of a joint Hindu family to Muhammadanism—Regulation No. VII of 1832, s. 9—Compromise—Effect of compromise entered into by a Hindu female with a limited estate.—Held, that Regulation No. VII of 1832 did not abrogate the Hindu law as to the consequences of apostacy, but merely laid down for the guidance of the Judge a rule under which he might refuse to enforce these consequences. Where, therefore, in a joint Hindu family consisting of a father and one son, the father was converted to Muhammadanism in the year 1845, the immediate effect of such conversion was to make the son sole owner of the property which up to that time had belonged jointly to him and his father. Held, also, that a compromise made by a person holding a Hindu widow's or Hindu daughter's estate in the property of her deceased husband or father, is not binding on the reversioners, even though it has been followed by a decree of Court, nor is a decree on an arbitration award, one of the parties to the submission having been a Hindu widow, or daughter; but the reversioners can only be bound by a decree made after full contest in a bonâ fide litigation. Imrit Konwur v. *Roop Narain Singh, 6 C. perty invalid—Acquiescence.—An undivided member of a Hindu family governed by the Mitakshara Law has no power to alienate any considerable portion of the moveable or immoveable properties belonging to the joint family by way of gift to the female members of the family. When the portion so alienated is not severed from the family property, but the income alone is given to the donees, the objecting co-parcener is not barred by acquiescence from questioning the alienation merely because he did not object to the payment of such income. Bachoo Harkisondas v. *Mankorebai, I. 2.—Gift to widow, construction of.—A and B brought a suit against C for division of what A and B alleged to be joint family property and C alleged to be his divided property. A died and V, his widow, was brought on the record as his representative. V and B withdrew from the suit on C giving them jointly some lands under a deed, which recited that C gave the lands as a matter of favour at the request of V and B to be enjoyed by V and B in equal portions with the right of gift, sale, etc. V revised her share to D. In a suit by B to recover the lands from D: Held, per MILLER, J.—There was nothing in the circumstances of the case to raise any presumption based on the sex of V that the gift to V was one for life only, in the face of the express words of the deed which purport to convey an absolute estate: Per WALLIS, J—In construing such documents, the situation of the parties and their rights at the time must be taken into consideration. There is nothing in the circumstances or the document to show that C intended to enlarge the widow's interest in the property given her to full ownership. The words 'you shall enjoy the said lands with the rights of gift, sale, etc' do not necessarily indicate such an intention. V therefore took only a widow's estate in the properties given by the deed. Dinonath Mukerji v. *Gopal Churn Mukerji, 8 C. HINDU LAW—HUSBAND AND WIFE.

1.—Conjugal rights, restitution of—Cruelty—Matrimonial offence—Safety of wife in peril.—Per HARINGTON, J.—It would not be safe to say that whatever is a defence to an action for restitution of conjugal rights in the case of a European would also be in every case a defence in the case of a Hindu, but the Court is not bound, in the case of Europeans and Indians alike, to order a wife to return to her husband if there is reasonable ground for apprehending that a return to that husband will imperil her safety Per MOOKERJEE, J.—The conduct of a Hindu husband, who brings a low caste woman as his mistress in the house to live with him as a member of the family, and expels his wife and son from the family residence, amounts to cruelty within the meaning of the law, which justifies the wife to live separate from her husband and deprives the husband of his right to a decree for restitution of conjugal rights The husband would not be entitled to succeed even if his conduct did not amount to cruelty but constituted a grave matrimonial offence. HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE.

1.—Mitakshara—Succession of Bandhus—Daughter's son's son entitled to preference over daughter's daughter's son—Variance between pleading and proof.—A plaintiff who sues on and fails to prove an alleged gift, may rely on his title by inheritance. Under the Mitakshara law among persons claiming to succeed as Bandhus, preference may be extended so as to prefer, all other considerations being equal, that claimant between whom and the stem there intervenes one female link to that claimant who is separated from the stem by two such links. A daughter's son's son will have preference over a daughter's daughter's son. TIRUMALACHARIAR v. ANDAL AMMAL (1907). I. L. R. 30 Mad. 406

After the Vaghya's death his Murali daughter, who lived by prostitution and had children by promiscuous intercourse, claimed her father's property as heir to the exclusion of her sisters under the rule of Hindu law that an unmarried daughter inherits to her father before his married daughter. The first Court allowed the claim. On appeal by one of the defendants (married daughters), the Judge varied the decree by allowing the plaintiff a third share in the property. On second appeal by the plaintiff, the appellate decree was confirmed, there being no appeal or cross-objection by the defendants against that portion of the decree whereby the plaintiff was allowed to share her father's property equally with her married sisters. Held, further, that a woman, who in her maiden condition becomes a prostitute, being neither a kanya (unmarried) nor a kulastri (married), but being at the same time notwithstanding her prostitution a qualified heir as held in Advyapa v. Rudrava, 4 Bom. 104, would be entitled to succeed to her father's property only in default of either married or unmarried daughters. 3.—Mitakshara—Survivorship—Inheritance—Succession (Property Protection) Act (XIX of 1841)—District Judge, jurisdiction of—Irregularity—High Court, revisional powers of.—A Hindu governed by the Mitakshara Law died leaving him surviving a widow, a daughter by a previous wife, and two brothers. On his death the brothers applied under Act XIX of 1841 to the District Judge for the delivery of possession of the deceased's property on the ground that it formed part of the property in the joint names of their deceased brother and themselves. The District Judge granted their application. The widow contested this claim, and now applied to the High Court to have the order of the District Judge set aside. Held, that on the death of a member of a Hindu family governed by Mitakshara, there is only an accession to his property by the other members by survivorship and no succession by inheritance: and that the provisions of Act XIX of 1841 had no application to the present case; and the District Judge should not have taken any action under this Act but have left the parties to seek their remedy by a proper suit for establishment of their title. Jusoda Koonuar v. Gouree Bygnath Pershad, 6 W. R. Mis. 53, followed Held, further, that the District Judge acted in the present case (supposing him to have jurisdiction to hear the application) illegally and with material irregularity, and that the petitioner was prejudiced thereby Held, also, that the High Court had full jurisdiction in revision to set aside the order of the District Judge. Fulchand v. Kismesh Koer, *4 C. HINDU LAW—INTEREST.

1.—Interest—Mitakshara—Debtor wrongfully withholding payment—Demand by creditor—Interest Act (XXXII of 1839)—Indian Contract Act (IX of 1872).—The plaintiff sued to recover a sum of money with interest from the date of demand from the defendant, who held the money in deposit for her. There was no agreement between the parties to pay interest. The first Court dismissed the claim as to interest; but the lower appellate Court allowed interest on the amount of the deposit from the date of the demand by plaintiff to the date of payment. The parties to the suit were Hindus governed by law of the Mitakshara. Held, under special circumstances, interest may be awarded by Courts in India, by way of damages. Held, further, that under Hindu Law as it is to be found in the Mitakshara there is annexed to each contract of debt, in which there is no agreement to pay interest, the term or incident that such loss shall be made up by the debtor, if he wrongfully withholds payment after demand: and that this incident was annexed to every such contract at the date when the Interest Act (No. XXXII of 1839) came into force. Held, further, that the parties being Hindus governed by the Mitakshara that constituted a special circumstance justifying the award of interest. Hurropersaud Roy Chowdhry v. Shamapersaud Roy Chowdhry, *L. 3.—Separate estate of co-parcener—Proof—Onus—Nucleus of ancestral property—Adverse possession.—When the question was whether a certain property was the joint property of a Hindu family or the separate estate of a member and it was proved that the family lived joint in one house and that there was a nucleus of joint property of substantial value, the onus was on the party setting up a case of separate estate. Held, on the evidence, that the property was joint. Whilst on the one hand there were certain instruments by which the grantors purported to deal with it as if it were separate estate, there were, on the other hand, a series of family books and various contracts and transactions inconsistent with anything but joint property. But over and above this, the tenor of family life proved the use of the property to have been the same after as before the execution of those instruments. A case of adverse possession by a co parcener cannot be established by mere paper assertions not brought home to the knowledge of the other co-parceners, when there has been no actual exclusion of the latter from use and enjoyment for the period of limitation. 4.—Joint family—Presumption and onus of proof as to whether property is ancestral or self-acquired—Nucleus of ancestral property—Property purchased while living jointly—Will disposing of ancestral property, invalidity of.—A Hindu, the head of a joint family governed by the Mitakshara law, left property which on his death in 1849 passed to his three sons, who remained joint until 1866 when they came to a partition amongst themselves. There was nothing to show that any of them then had any separate property. At that time one of them had two sons and another son was born to him after the partition. The father and these three sons lived together jointly and acquired other property. The father died in 1894 leaving a will by which he gave a small allowance and a residence to each of his younger sons, and left all the rest of his property to his eldest son describing it as his self-acquired property. In a suit brought by the two younger sons against their brother to set aside the will, the validity of which depended on the question whether the property was ancestral or self-acquired, the Judicial Committee (reversing the decision of the High Court) held that the share taken on partition by the father of the plaintiffs and defendant was ancestral property in which from their birth his sons acquired an interest; that there thus being a nucleus of ancestral property the onus was on the defendant to show that the property in suit was self-acquired and not purchased with ancestral funds; that such onus had not been discharged; that on the contrary the evidence showed that there was a common stock of the whole family into which each member voluntarily threw what he might otherwise have claimed as self-acquired, and that the property purchased by, or with the assistance of, the joint funds was joint property, and did not belong to any particular member of the family. There was therefore no self-acquired property, and the will was consequently inoperative to defeat the claim of the younger sons to a share in the family estate. II, Arts. 147, 132, 120.*—Certain joint ancestral property was mortgaged by the head of the family first in 1882 and again in 1893. Subsequently the second mortgagee redeemed the first mortgage. The second mortgagee then sued to recover the amount due on both mortgages by sale of the mortgaged property, and obtained a decree in March 1895 and an order absolute for sale on the 25th of October 1897. To this suit the sons and grandsons of the mortgagor were not made parties. The sons and grandsons of the mortgagor sued for and obtained a decree exempting their interest in the mortgaged property from the operation of the mortgagee's decree. The mortgagee then sued the sons and grandsons to recover from them a proportionate part of the amounts due on his mortgages. This suit was instituted on the 6th of April 1904. Held, that the mortgagee's suit against the sons and grandsons of the mortgagor was maintainable and that it was not barred by limitation, the rule applicable being either Art 147 or Art. 132 of the second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877. Badri Prasad v. *Madan Lal, I. HINDU LAW—PARTITION.

1.—Joint family—Partition—Partition deed giving certain advantages to minor member of family—Right of person so benefited to sue on deed—Act No. I of 1877 (Specific Relief Act), s. 23 (c).—By a deed of partition executed by the adult members of a joint Hindu family it was agreed that a certain minor member of the family, represented in the execution of the deed by his father, should receive a certain share in a particular village "by right of primogeniture," and the agreement further recited that the member in question had been put into possession of the share allotted to him It was further agreed that, inasmuch as the property thus dealt with was subject to two mortgages, the other members of the family would be responsible for the payment of the mortgage debts and would indemnify the recipient of the mortgaged property in case of proceedings being taken against such property for satisfaction of the mortgage debts. Held, on suit by the minor (after attaining majority) to compel reimbursement by the other members of the family, that the partition deed was enforceable in favour of the plaintiff, just as much as, if just and equitable, it would have been binding upon him, and that the plaintiff was entitled to sue for any benefit which the deed purported to secure to him. Annamali Chetti v. *Murugasa Chetty, L. 2.—Partition—Effect of partition of family property between two branches of the family without specification of individual shares of one branch.—By an award the property of a joint Hindu family consisting of an uncle and two nephews was partitioned, one share being allotted to the uncle and one to the nephews, but nothing was said as to the shares to be taken by the nephews individually, nor did they express any desire to separate. Held, that the presumption was that the share of the nephews still continued to be joint property so far as they were concerned. Balkishan Das v. *Ram Narain Sahu, I. 4.—Expenses for ceremonies of brother's sons—Share of stepmother—Value of stridhan to be deducted from share—Expenses for ceremonies of grandchildren.—In a suit for partition brought by a Hindu against his father and brothers, the brothers are entitled to have set apart from the family property a sum sufficient to defray the expenses of their prospective thread, betrothal and marriage ceremonies, such sum to be calculated according to the extent of the family property. A father's wife is on such partition entitled to a share equal to that of a son but from her share must be deducted the value of any stridhan received by her as a gift from her father-in-law or husband The children of a brother on such partition are not entitled to any sum for the performances of their prospective thread, betrothal or marriage ceremonies. HINDU LAW—REVERSIONERS.

1.—Agreement to divide reversion when it should fall in, creates no vested right, but only right to claim specific performance.—Three brothers, S, R and K and their father made an arrangement which amounted to a division of the family properties. The father and R and K continued, however, to live together. The father died first and then R, leaving him surviving A, his widow, and B, his daughter. A and B did not claim R's share, but were content with maintenance. There was, however, no surrender by A of her rights. S and K entered into an agreement between themselves to the effect that K should enjoy R's share and maintain A and B, S being given a small piece of land at once, and that after A's death S was to take half of R's share. B died unmarried in A's life-time and S predeceased A who died in 1891. In a suit brought in 1901 by the son of S to recover one-half share of R's property: Held (WALLIS, J., dissenting), that K and S were expectant reversionary heirs and the agreement between them was in effect to divide the reversion when it should fall in The right of K as such presumptive reversionary heir was incapable of transfer on the principle embodied in s. 6 of the Transfer of Property Act, and the agreement did not operate to vest any property in S as from the date of agreement and the suit was not therefore maintainable Per BODDAM, J.—The agreement gave only a right to claim specific performance thereof when the reversion should fall in, which right became barred as it was not enforced within the statutory period after the death of the widow. Per WALLIS, J.—The widow not having claimed her husband's share and having contented herself with maintenance, S and K were not in the position of expectant heirs, although the widow by asserting her right might have reduced them to that position. Under the circumstances, the agreement was something more than a mere contract on the part of K to convey to S a half share on the widow's death. The effect of the agreement was to give S a vested interest in a half share in the lands to take effect in possession on the widow's death and the suit was therefore maintainable. HINDU LAW—STRIDHAN.

1.—Stridhan—Succession—Property inherited by daughter from her father—Devolution.—Under the Mitakshara law, as interpreted in this Presidency, the daughter takes an absolute interest in property inherited from her father and, on her death, it devolves on her daughter in preference to her son. 2.—Partition—Stridhan—Share of stepmother—Value of stridhan to be deducted from share—Expenses for ceremonies of grandchildren.—In a suit for partition brought by a Hindu against his father and brothers, the brothers are entitled to have set apart from the family property a sum sufficient to defray the expenses for their prospective thread, betrothal and marriage ceremonies, such sum to be calculated according to the extent of the family property. HINDU LAW—SUCCESSION.

1.—Grihast Goshains—Succession—Custom—Adoption of chela by widow of deceased Goshain.—The plaintiff set up a custom as prevalent amongst the Grihast Goshains of Hardwar and other places adjacent in the United Provinces whereby the widow of a deceased Goshain was entitled with the concurrence of the elders of the sect to adopt a chela and successor to her deceased husband. Held, on the evidence, that such custom was not established. Ramalakshmi Ammal v. *Sivanantha Perumal Sethurayar, 14 Moo. 2.—Right of representation—Divided son as nearest sapinda does not exclude divided grandson or great-grandson.—Partition does not annul the filial relation nor the right of succession incidental to such relation. The right of divided sons, grandsons and great-grandsons of the last male owner to succeed to his divided property, is the same as in the case of undivided family property. HINDU LAW—WIDOW.

1.—Hindu widow—Effect of relinquishment of the estate by a widow in favour of the present reversioners—A Hindu widow in possession of a widow's estate in property of her deceased husband, a separated and childless Hindu, relinquished possession thereof to two persons who at the time were the next reversioners, they agreeing to pay her a maintenance allowance; but it did not appear that she intended to make them, if she could, full owners of the property, although certain incorrect recitals in the agreement entered into by the widow, when she gave possession of the property, might have lent colour to this suggestion. Both the persons thus put into possession predeceased the widow. Held, that the nearest reversionary heir to the widow's late husband was entitled to succeed on the death of the widow Quære. whether in these provinces a Hindu widow can accelerate the estate of the heir by conveying absolutely and destroying her life estate? Behari Lal v. Madho Lal Ahir Gayawal, I. L. R. 19 Calc. 236, and Ramphal Rai v. Tula Kuari, I. L. R. 6 All. 116, referred to. RAJ KISHORE v. DURGA CHARAN LAL (1906). I. L. R. 29 All. 71

2.—Mitakshara— Mayukha — Succession—Co-widow's interest in the property of their deceased husband—Right of assigning her share—Partition —Alienation of her share—Valid during her life-time—Survivorship.—It is the right of each of the co-widows to enjoy her deceased husband's property by partition inter se, both under the Mitakshara and the Mayukha. She can, therefore, assign her share to anyone she chooses; and if she has already obtained her share by partition, she can alienate that share. But in either case the assignment or alienation cannot take effect or have validity beyond her life-time. It is good as long as she lives: and, on her death, her interest in the property ceases and the share goes to the surviving co-widow or co-widows as the case may be. HARI v. VITAI (1907).
I. L. R. 31 Bom. 560

3.—Reversioner bound by decree obtained against widow without fraud or collusion, though without contest—Alienation by one of several widows not invalid ipso facto.—A decree on a claim binding on the inheritance though obtained without contest against the widow in possession is binding on the reversionary heir in the absence of fraud or collusion. The widow as representing the estate is not bound to raise any defence when she is satisfied that the debt is really due An alienation by one of two co-widows is not ipso facto invalid with reference to the interest of the other co-widow or of persons interested in the reversion. II, Arts. 91, 141—Immoveable property —Lease by Hindu widow for a term extending beyond her life—Reversioner's right of election to affirm it or treat it as a nullity*—A suit by a reversioner on the death of a Hindu widow to recover immoveable property of her husband. of which she was in possession for a widow's estate as his heir, and of which she had granted a lease for a term extending beyond her own life, is governed by the 12 years' period of limitation provided by Art. 141 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act, and not by the three years' period prescribed by Art, 91 A Hindu widow is the owner of her husband's property subject to certain restrictions on alienation, and subject to its devolving upon her husband's heirs upon her death. Her alienation is not absolutely void, but it is primâ facie voidable at the election of the reversionary heir, who may affirm it or treat it as a nullity without the intervention of any Court, there being nothing to set aside or cancel as a condition precedent to his right of action. The institution of a suit for possession shows his election to treat the alienation as a nullity; and in such a suit it is therefore unnecessary for him to ask for a declaration that it is inoperative. 5.—Widow—Alienation—Suit by reversioner to set aside the alienation—Limitation – Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II, Art. 91.—The plaintiff sued in 1904, as a reversioner, to recover possession of property from the defendant to whom it had been given by way of gift in 1894 by the widow of a preceding owner It was found by both the lower Courts that the alienation was not justified by any necessity recognised by Hindu law. The defendant pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation. Held, that it was not open to the defendant to rely on Art 91 of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) as a bar to the suit. Harihar Ojha v. *Dasarathi Misra, I. HINDU LAW—WILL.

1.—Will—Direction to accumulate, when valid—Charitable bequest.—In Hindu Law, a direction to accumulate is not per se illegal, and such a direction should be given effect to, if it is not void as against public policy, nor given for an illegal object, nor otherwise inconsistent with Hindu law. Amrito Lall Dutt v. *Surnomoni Dasi, I. which the Hindu Wills Act applies can be revoked only in the modes provided in s. 57 of the Succession Act.—The incorporation of s. 57 of the Indian Succession Act in the Hindu Wills Act and the enactment of the provision of s. 3 of the latter Act show clearly that the Legislature intended that the rule of revocation by a change of circumstances should not be applied to the wills of Hindus. S 57 of the Succession Act is exhaustive, as it provides that a will shall not be revoked except in certain ways. Wills of Hindus to which the Hindu Wills Act applies, can be revoked only in one of the modes, excepting marriage, provided in s 57 of the Succession Act. A will by a Hindu of self-acquired property to which the provisions of the Hindu Wills Act apply, is not therefore revoked by the birth of a posthumous son. The same rule must be applied in the case of wills not governed by the Hindu Wills Act, as to apply a different rule to them will be inconvenient as well as illogical. 3.—Will—Endowment—Shebaitship—Validity of bequest—Intention of foundress—Usage—Custom.—Where the intention of the foundress of a private religious endowment was that all her lineal descendants should hold the debutter property and jointly perform the worship of the idol, and the testator (one of her descendants) bequeathed the pala or turn of worship to his wife and on her demise to one of his two nephews, grandnephew and their lineal descendants to the exclusion of the other nephew: Held, that the bequest was not in accordance with the intention of the foundress, nor the Hindu Law; and that there was no established usage or practice in the family to justify it. 4.—Charitable bequest—Bequest to 'Dharma' void.—One G by his last will and testament bequeathed certain properties to his daughter in the following words:—"They (the executors) shall deliver all other properties to her on her attaining proper age (i.e.,) 18 years, my daughter shall use and enjoy the properties for her life. These properties shall, after her, be taken by her issue. In case my daughter may not perchance have any such issue, she should dispose of as she pleases all the properties she may have. In case she, per chance, being short-lived die before so attaining her age, the executors shall utilise those properties for Dharmam." The daughter died issueless before attaining majority. The plaintiff, one of the executors, and the next heir of the deceased G, brought this suit for declaring the bequest to 'Dharma' void and to declare the right of plaintiff to succeed to the properties bequeathed to the daughter. MR JUSTICE BODDAM held the bequest to 'Dharmam' void and decreed the plaintiff's claim. On appeal, Held, Per CHIEF JUSTICE.—The bequest to 'Dharmam' is void. Runchordas Vandrawondas v. Parvatibhai, L. R. 26 I. A. 71, followed. Per SUBRAHMANIA AYYAR, J.—The word 'Dharmam' when used in connection with gifts of property by a Hindu has a perfectly well-settled meaning and connotes ishta and poorta donations. The word is a compendious term referring to certain classes of pious gifts, and is not a mere vague and uncertain expression The testator must be presumed to have used the word with reference to the definite objects inculcated by shastraic precepts and well known to the people and therefore the gift to 'Dharmam' is not void for indefiniteness. 6.—Title acquired under will of deceased wife—Property devised subject to mortgages—Compromise of claims of reversioners to estate of wife's father—Nature of devisee's title not thereby altered. One Munni Lal died leaving certain property, of which his widow Jasoda Kunwar took possession. Jasoda Kunwar died leaving the property by her will to her daughter Anpurna, who also died after making a will leaving the property in question to her husband Ram Shankar Lal. Both the wills provided that the devisee was to pay off certain incumbrances existing on the property. After the death of Anpurna the property was claimed by the reversionary heirs to Munni Lal's estate, but this claim was settled by a compromise by which Ram Shankar Lal gave certain land to the claimants in consideration of their entirely withdrawing their claim to the rest of the property. Held, that the compromise did not convey to Ram Shankar Lal the title of the reversioners; but that he took under the will of his wife and could not therefore raise any defence to a suit for sale brought by the mortgagees which Jasoda Kunwar or Anpurna could not themselves have raised. Rani Mew Kunwar v. Rani Hulas Kunwar, *L. 1.—Suit for restitution of conjugal right—Suit by an excommunicated member of a caste—Mussalman Kharwa community of Broach—Custom.—The plaintiff, an excommunicated member of the Mussalman Kharwa community of Broach, sued his wife (defendant No. 1) for restitution of conjugal rights. At the time of their marriage, the parties were members of the caste; but subsequently the plaintiff was excommunicated from his caste. The defendant contended that she should not be compelled by the Court to go and live with him as his wife before the plaintiff was re-admitted into the caste: Held, upholding the contention, that at the time of marriage she was not only a Mahomedan by faith but also a member of the Kharwa community: occupying that status, she married the plaintiff. It was, therefore, —Succession Certificate Act (VII of 1889)—Successor to impartible zamindari not entitled to recover debts due to his predecessor without a certificate under the Act.—The successor to an impartible estate is not a co-owner with his predecessor in the moneys due to the latter before his death. He derives his title to such debts only at the death of his predecessor, as part of such predecessor's effects and cannot recover them without obtaining a certificate under Act VII of 1889. The rule of succession in impartible estates is based on a theoretical co-parcenary and not on any actual unity of interest between the predecessor and his successor, and this theoretical community of interest can be applied only for the purpose of determining the succession and for no other purpose whatsoever. *The Pittapore Case, I. When the Judge in passing orders under s. 359, Civil Procedure Code, omits to state whether the imprisonment awarded is to be simple or rigorous, it must be taken to be simple imprisonment. After the Judge has made an order under s 359, his power under that provision of the law is exhausted and he has no jurisdiction subsequently by an administrative order passed without notice to the petitioner to determine that the imprisonment is to be rigorous. It disannexes the inam from the office, converts it into ordinary property and releases the reversionary rights of the Crown in the inam, but does not confer on the persons named in the title-deed any rights in derogation of those possessed by other person in the inam at the time of the enfranchisement. interest on the amount of the deposit from the date of the demand by plaintiff to the date of payment. The parties to the suit were Hindus governed by the law of Mitakshara. Held, under special circumstances, that interest may be awarded by Courts in India, by way of damages. Held, further, that under Hindu Law as it is to be found in the Mitakshara there is annexed to each contract of debt, in which there is no agreement to pay interest, the term or incident that such loss shall be made up by the debtor, if he wrongfully withholds payment after demand: and that this incident was annexed to every such contract at the date when the Interest Act (No. XXXII of 1839) came into force. Held, further, that the parties being Hindus governed by the Mitakshara that constituted a special circumstance justifying the award of interest. Hurropersaud Roy Chowdhry v. *Shamapersaud Roy Chowdhry, L. S. 234 of the Code of Criminal Procedure will not apply, as the offences of criminal breach of trust and falsification of accounts are not of the same kind; neither will s 235 cover the case, as the several offences cannot be said to form part of the same transaction. King-Emperor v. *Nathlal Bapuji, 4 Bom. Although, under s. 222 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, a charge for the gross amount misappropriated within a period of twelve months shall be deemed to be a charge of one offence within s 234, it does not follow that the acts so charged should be considered to be one transaction within the meaning of s. 235 KASI VISVANATHAN v. EMPEROR (1907).

"That you on or about the 3rd July at B. committed theft of paddy from the fields of (a) Srinath Das, (b) Jhumar Pramanick, (c) Lasker Pramanick, and thereby committed an offence punishable under s. 379 of the Indian Penal Code and within my cognizance" Held, that although strictly speaking three separate charges should have been drawn up in identical terms for the three offences under s. 379, Indian Penal Code, yet as in the one charge framed the three offences had been kept separate and were distinguished by the letters (a), (b) and (c), the error in framing one charge, was an error in form rather than in substance, and as such did not amount to an illegality but was an irregularity which would be cured by the provisions of s. 537, Criminal Procedure Code, unless it was shown that the accused had been prejudiced or that a failure of justice had been occasioned in consequence thereof. Gul Mahomed Sircar v. *Chehanu Mandal, 10 C. JOINT TRIAL.

—Joint trial of several distinct complaints—Illegality—Omission to take objection—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), ss. 233 and 234—Proprietor of a market, rights of—Itinerant stall-keepers, rights of—Ijaradar of a market, his right to prevent the sale of foreign goods—Binding ijaradar down for exceeding his rights.—Where three persons laid three separate complaints against the accused alleging that they (the accused) committed rioting and individually caused hurt to each of the complainants and threw away and spoilt their foreign salts and other articles: Held, that though the origin and the preparations for the commission of the offences might be the same, the offences were distinct from each other and the joint trial of the accused for the offences was illegal and the illegality could not be cured by the fact that no objection to the joint trial was taken either in the Court of first instance or the Appellate Court. The illegality has affected the jurisdiction of the Court. That s. 234, Criminal Procedure Code, does not authorise such a joint trial, as that section refers to different acts done by the same individual or sets of individuals against the same complainant or complainants so connected with each other that they may in law be taken to be one person. In this country there is no special law for regulating the establishment and the carrying on of a market. The owner of land may establish a market wherever on his own land and whenever he desires to do, provided he does not commit an offence involving disturbance of public peace by establishing the market close to another existing market. The proprietor of a market may regulate the sales and the conduct of stall-keepers provided his conduct does not disturb public tranquillity or he does not commit an offence punishable by law. The proprietor has the right to prevent itinerant stall-keepers but not permanent stall-keepers from selling any article he may choose to prevent the sale of. Raj Kumar Chuckerbutty v. The Emperor, 11 C. W. N. 28, followed. Itinerant stall-keepers who are mere licensees, are entirely under the control of the owner of the market. These rights of the proprietor can be exercised by the ijaradar of the market during the term of his ijarah. Where the ijaradar of a market with a view to prevent the sale of foreign articles used force and caused hurt to certain itinerant stall-keepers: Held, that the ijaradar exceeded his right under the law and was punishable But he could not be bound down to keep the peace as an order under s. 106, Criminal Procedure Code, would practically prevent him from exercising his legal rights. Act III of 1876) was in force, but before the suit was finally decided that Act was repealed and the Mamlatdars' Courts Act (Bom. 3.—Jurisdiction—Second Appeal—High Court, jurisdiction of—Sambalpur—Bengal and Assam Laws Act (VII of 1905), s. 6.—An appeal was preferred to the High Court against the decision of the Divisional Judge of Raipur, Central Provinces, disposing of an appeal against the decision of the District Judge of Sambalpur, after the 16th of October 1905, on which date the Bengal and Assam Laws Act (VII of 1905) came into force, and the District of Sambalpur was added to the Province of Bengal by a Proclamation of the Governor-General. On preliminary objections being taken that no second appeal lay in the case under the provisions of s. 15 of the Central Provinces Courts Act (II of 1904), and that the second appeal, if any, lay to the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces under s. 6 of Act VII of 1905: Held, that although the Central Provinces Courts Act (II of 1904) did not expressly provide for a second appeal from the decision of the Divisional Judge to the Judicial Commissioner, yet such an appeal formerly lay under the provisions of s 584 of the Code of Civil Procedure (Act XIV of 1882) to the Judicial Commissioner of the Central Provinces, but now after the passing of the Bengal and Assam Laws Act (VII of 1905), to the High Court. 3. SUITS RELATING TO RITUAL OR RELIGIOUS OBSERVANCES.

4.—Subject-matter of suit of mixed spiritual and temporal character—If the two intimately connected, a Court can enquire into the spiritual matter—Right to bury dead is a civil right.—Although Courts in this country have no jurisdiction in suits relating to ritual or religious observance only, the Courts are bound to inquire into questions of religion or ritual which are material for the determination of civil disputes; and when the matter in dispute is of a mixed spiritual and temporal nature jurisdiction to inquire into the spiritual question will depend upon whether it is so intimately connected with the temporal as to be inseparable from it. The right of burial is a civil right: and an interference with the right of reciting prayers in connection with such burial is an invasion of the civil right. Anandrav Bhikaji Phadke v. *Shankar Daji Charya, I. The trustees of a temple may be restrained by injunction from making unjustifiable changes which would affect the character of the temple as a religious institution. Where, in a temple in which two rival sects following rival gurus have interest and worship, the trustee introduces a new metal idol, in addition to the existing stone idol of one of the rival gurus, such introduction, when not effected at the expense of the temple and when it does not interfere with the worship of the rival sect, is not inconsistent with the usage of the institution and ought not to be restrained by an injunction. 6.—Award of costs—Such award not a nullity—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 646B.—A Court of First Instance having no jurisdiction, tried and decided a suit passing a decree in favour of the plaintiff with costs. On appeal the decree was reversed on the merits and the suit was dismissed with costs of both Courts. All the parties and both the Courts had proceeded on the assumption that the Lower Court had jurisdiction. Held, that the award of costs by the Appellate Court was not a nullity and such amount was recoverable. S 646 of the Code of Civil Procedure is an enabling section and does not cut down the jurisdiction of the appellate tribunal. SIMHADRI APPA RAO v. CHELASANE BHADRAYYA (1906).

7.—Order of Magistrate for maintenance under s. 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure does not oust the jurisdiction of Civil Courts—No injunction to restrain proceedings on order under s 488.—The first defendant obtained an order for maintenance under s. 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure against plaintiff. In a suit brought by plaintiff subsequently against the first defendant and her minor son, the second defendant, for a declaration that the defendants had no right to a share in or maintenance out of his properties Held, (1) that the suit was not one to set aside the Magistrate's order for maintenance and was sustainable. The Magistrate's order did not take away the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts. (2) No suit will lie for an injunction to restrain proceedings under an order made by a Magistrate under s. 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Veeran v. Ayyammah, 2 Weir 615, approved. Mahomed Abid Ali Kumar Kadar v. *Ludden Sahiba, I. The High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain such a suit. Where a special tribunal, out of the ordinary course, is appointed by an Act to determine questions as to rights which are the creation of that Act, then, except so far as otherwise expressly provided or necessarily implied, that tribunal's jurisdiction to determine those questions is exclusive. It is an essential condition of those rights that they should be determined in the manner prescribed by the Act, to which they owe their existence. In such a case there is no ouster of the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts for they never had any. The jurisdiction of the Courts can be excluded not only by express words but also by implication, and there certainly is enough in s. 33 of the Municipal Act for this purpose. Semble: If the High Court has jurisdiction there might be a conflict between the view of the High Court and the order of the Chief Judge in which the order of the Chief Judge must by the express terms of the Act prevail. 2.—Criminal Procedure Code, ss. 408, 435—Jurisdiction—Appeal from First-class Magistrate lies to the Sessions Court, within whose jurisdiction the Court of the Magistrate ordinarily sits—'Situate,' meaning of.—The Court of Sessions to which appeals lie from Magistrates of the First Class under s. 408 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in the Court of Sessions within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the Court of such Magistrate ordinarily sits, whether the offence be committed within such local limits or not. The word 'situate' in s. 435 of the Code of Criminal Procedure refers to the place where the inferior Courts mentioned therein ordinarily sit. The principle laid down in s. 435 in regard to revisional powers, must, in the absence of any indication to the contrary in the Code, be followed in the case of appeals under s. 408. 3.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 144—Jurisdiction of Magistrate—Interlocutory orders—Rule issued by High Court—Seisin of case—Extension of time—Rival hâts.—A Magistrate cannot by passing successive orders under s. 144, Criminal Procedure Code, extend the operation of an order indirectly beyond the time limited by sub-s. (5) of s. 144. Where the first and initial order passed by a Magistrate was in substance and form an order under sub-s. (2) and forbade certain persons from establishing a hât at a certain place and gave a vague direction to them forbidding interference with the trade of another hât: Held, that the order was irregular and vague and could not stand. As long as an order under s. 144 has legal operation, no intermediate or interlocutory order not contemplated by sub-s. (4) can be passed. When the High Court has issued a rule in any case, it takes full seisin of the case, and it is the High Court alone that can pass ad interim orders in the case. The Magistrate against whose order the rule is issued has no such jurisdiction. The most appropriate section of the Code to deal with cases of rival hâts which may cause a breach of the peace is s. 107, Criminal Procedure Code. 5.—Jurisdiction—Dispute concerning land—Jurisdiction of Magistrate—Order on written statements without any evidence—High Court jurisdiction of—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 145, sub-ss (1), (4).—Sub-s. (1) is not the only provision in s. 145 of the Criminal Procedure Code, which lays down what matters relate to the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. There are other provisions in the section, the contravention of which affects his jurisdiction, and so gives the High Court power to interfere Where the Magistrate passed an order under s. 146 of the Code, only upon the written statements of the parties and without taking any evidence: Held, that the order was without jurisdiction, and that the High Court had power to set it aside. Surjya Kanta Acharjee v. *Hem Chunder Chowdhry, I. 2.—Powers of lambardar to deal with co-parcenary lands—Lease for seven years.—In the case of a lease of co-parcenary land granted by a lambardar, where there is any suspicion established that the lambardar has granted a long lease to the detriment of co-sharers, a heavy burden would be placed on the lessee to show that by custom or for some other cause the lambardar is authorized in granting the lease. On the other hand where the granting of the lease is shown to be for the benefit of the co-sharers and when the co-sharers presumably have been shown to have derived benefit under the lease the lease should not be set aside. Jagan Nath v. Hardayal, Weekly Notes, 1897, 207, Bansidhar v. *Dip Singh, I. 3.—Suit for profits—Nature of liability of two lambardars for the same village—Res judicata.—Where there are two lambardars for the same village they may, as a matter of convenience, elect to divide the village between them for purposes of collection but such division will be purely a matter of convenience and will not affect the joint liability of the lambardars to the co-sharers. A co-sharer sued two lambardars jointly for profits, and the Court (an Assistant Collector) held that they were not liable to be sued jointly and dismissed the suit. The plaintiff did not appeal, but filed separate suits. Held, that this decision did not amount to a res judicata as to the lambardars' joint or separate liability in a subsequent suit by the same co-sharer against them for profits of other years. LAND ACQUISITION ACT (I OF 1894).

——ss. 3 (a), 23 (3)—

—When land is acquired with trees on it, the 15 per cent. ought to be calculated on the value of both.—Trees are things attached to the earth and are thus included in the definition of land in s. 3 (a) of the Land Acquisition Act; and this definition must be applied in the construction of s. 28 of the Act. The value of such trees as are on the land when the declaration is made under s. 6 is included in the market value of the land on which the allowance of 15 per cent. is to be calculated under s. 23 (2) of the Land Acquisition Act SUB-COLLECTOR OF GODAVARI v. SERAGAN SUBBAROYADU (1906).

—Notice—Irregularity in the notice, effect of—Valid award, requirements of—Ferry—Compensation for a ferry—Railways Act (IX of 1890) s. 10, sub-s. (2)—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch II, Art 120—Damages, measure of.—Where notice under s. 9 of the Land Acquisition Act does not contain the material facts, which would enable the landowner to identify the land intended to be taken up, and where the land to be acquired is affected with a franchise, the franchise is not described, and the notice fixes less than the prescribed time to prefer claims, these being irregularities, a suit for damages for permanent injury to a ferry caused by acquisition under the Land Acquisition Act, is maintainable in the Civil Court notwithstanding an award has been made by the Deputy Collector, not allowing any compensation for the ferry, as it was not claimed even after a special notice. Sub-s (2) of s. 10 of the Railways Act does not bar a suit for compensation in the Civil Court when the Collector refuses to adjudicate upon the claim put forward by the owner. A suit will lie in the Civil Court in respect of claim for damages which could not be foreseen at the time of the acquisition proceedings. A suit to recover compensation for land acquired instituted on the refusal of the Collector to award any compensation under the Land Acquisition Act, is governed by Art. 120 of Sch II of the Limitation Act, the right to use accruing either from the date of the acquisition or the refusal by the Collector to award compensation. The mere construction of a railway bridge across a river whereby the profits of the ferry are reduced, does not entitle the owner to claim damages; but where lands and both banks of the river, which were used as landing places for the ferry, were acquired for the purpose of a railway bridge, and the access to the river and with it the exercise of the franchise was destroyed, the owner was entitled to compensation. The value of a ferry ought not to be determined by ascertaining the average profits at the date of the acquisition by regarding it as an invariable quantity and by taking a number of years' purchase. The damages ought to be calculated on the basis of the average profits from the ferry. RAMESWAR SINGH v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA (1907).

—Market value—Bases of its calculation—Speculative advance in prices—Recent instances of sale—Rental of lands in the vicinity—General demand for land—Onus probandi.—Profit from the most advantageous disposition of land is one test for determining its market price. The probable use of land in the most advantageous way in accordance with the use already made of neighbouring lands leads to speculative advance in prices to which regard should be paid. The utility of land is an element for consideration in estimating its value, that is, the utility which may be calculated by a prudent business man. Premchand Burral v. Collector of Calcutta, I L. R. 2 Calc. 103, Hughly Mills Company v. Secretary of State, unreported; Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs v. Charlesworth, Pilling & Co, L. R. 28 I. A. 121, Rajendra Nath Banerjee v. Secretary of State, I L R. 32 Calc. 343, referred to. The market value of the acquired lands is also to be ascertained from recent instances of sales in the same or in the adjoining localities, and from the average rental of these and similar lands in the vicinity S. 21 of the Act authorizes the Judge to confine his enquiry into valuation to the interests of persons affected by the Collector's reference, but the section must mean the admitted interests If there is any dispute as to the relative value of such interest, the Judge should determine the total amount payable for the land leaving the question of apportionment to be decided in a separate proceeding The general demand for land, and the consequent reflex action on the prices of all classes of lands, is a factor in the calculation of the market value of lands under acquisition. The onus probandi varies according to the probative value of the Collector's inquiry under s. 11 of the Act, and if he makes no inquiry or gives no reasons for his valuation the onus on the claimant is nominal, and the Special Judge must decide on the weight of evidence FINK v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA (1907).

—Compensation—Apportionment—Reference to Court—Objection taken before Court by party who had raised no objection before Collector.—In a proceeding under the Land Acquisition Act, a party who had raised no objection to the apportionment of compensation made by the Collector must be taken to have accepted the award in that respect. Under ss. 18, 20 and 21 of the Land Acquisition Act all that the Court can deal with is the objection which has been referred to it; it cannot go into a question raised for the first time by a party who had not referred any question or raised any objection to it under s. 18 of the Act. ABU BAKAR v. PEARY MOHON MUKERJEE (1907).

—Market value—Proof—Onus—Omission of Collector to state grounds—Effect—Calcutta Municipal Act (III B. C. of 1889), s. 557—Bustee land—Valuation on the basis of best use, if permissible—Special Judge—Jurisdiction to assess compensation outside the limits of the declaration. —The methods of valuation of land acquired under Act I of 1894 may be classified under three heads: (1) The opinion of valuators or experts, (2) the price paid within a reasonable time in bonâ fide transactions of purchase of the lands acquired or the lands adjacent to the land acquired and possessing similar advantages, and (3) a number of year's purchase of the actual or immediately prospective profit from the lands acquired. It is generally necessary to take two or all of these methods of valuation in order to arrive at a fairly correct valuation. Exact valuation is practically impossible, the approximate market value is all that can be aimed at. Much reliance cannot be placed on the evidence of experts unless it is supported by or coincides with other evidence. The burden of proof is ordinarily on the claimant in the Court of the Special Judge to prove that the valuation made by the Collector is insufficient. But the burden must vary according to the nature of the enquiry made by the Collector. If no evidence has been taken by the Collector, and if no reasons have been given in his decision to support his conclusion the claimant has a very light burden to discharge. The ipse dixit of a Collector has very little weight and is not primâ facie evidence of the correctness of his award. The failure of the Collector in making a reference under s. 18 of the Land Acquisition Act to state the grounds on which the amount of compensation was determined as required by s. 19 cl. (d), makes it incumbent on the Collector to justify the award before the Special Judge. S. 557 of the Calcutta Municipal Act precludes any valuation based on the most advantageous disposition of land, e.g., a valuation of bustee land on the supposition of its adaptability for use as building land to carry expensive structures which is the most advantageous use to which land can be put in Calcutta. Both the Collector and the Special Judge under Act I of 1894 have limited jurisdiction. They are bound by the official declaration in the local Gazette. The Collector cannot acquire or give possession of any land beyond the boundaries given in the declaration. If he does so he commits an act of trespass. He has to find out the precise quantity of land notified for acquisition within specified boundaries. Value the same under the provisions of the Act, and give possession accordingly. The Special Judge has to make similar enquiries. If the Local Government committed a mistake by giving an erroneous boundary, the Judge or Collector cannot cure the mistake. If the land acquired be for Government purposes, and if the Government takes possession of land beyond the limits prescribed by the declaration or in excess of the area for which compensation is paid, it trespasses on private land and is liable under the law of the country; and so is a company if the acquisition is for its purposes. But such excess land cannot be valued and compensation awarded for it under the provisions of the Act.

1. ABANDONMENT.

1.—Non-transferable occupancy holding, transfer of—Abandonment—Permissive possession under transferee—Landlord's suit for khas possession.—Where a tenant having a right of occupancy not transferable by custom, had given up to the purchaser possession of all the culturable lands of the holding but remained in possession of homestead lands only by permission of the purchaser: Held, that this was sufficient to indicate that the raiyat had abandoned his holding and in such a case the landlord is entitled to eject the raiyat and the purchaser and get khas possession. SAILABALA DEBI v. SRIRAM BHATTACHARJI (1907).
11 C. W. N. 873

2. ABSOLUTE OWNERSHIP.

2.—Site in abadi occupied by non-agricultural tenant—Adverse possession—License—Indian Easements Act (V of 1882), s. 60.—A person who was neither an agricultural tenant nor a village handicraftsman was found in possession of a house in the abadi which he and his predecessors in title had held for a period of considerably more than twelve years, without paying rent or acknowledging in any way the title of the zemindar to the site upon which it was built. Held, that such person had acquired the absolute ownership of the site. BHADDAR v. KHAIR-UD-DIN HUSAIN (1906)
I. L. R. 29 All. 13

3.—Rights of zemindar in respect of house sites and grove-lands—Wajib-ul-arz—Construction of document.—The plaintiffs purchased six plots of land consisting partly of groves and partly of land formerly the sites of houses, but since brought under cultivation, and, failing to get their names recorded as absolute owners of the plots, brought a suit virtually for a declaration of their proprietary title. It was shown in evidence that the inhabitants of the village in which the plots in suit were situated were in the habit of selling and transferring their houses. The wajib-ul-arz set forth that the occupiers of houses had this power, but all through the entries the zemindar was recognized, and it was stated that if a new house was to be built the permission of the zemindar must be obtained The entry in the wajib-ul-arz as to groves was to the effect that isolated trees and clumps of bamboos planted by tenants might be cut by them; as to rent-free groves, if the trees should die out and the land be brought into cultivation, rent must be paid, and that if a new grove was to be planted the leave of the zemindar must be obtained. Held, that the inference of law derivable from the facts stated above was that the plaintiffs were not the absolute owners of the plots purchased by them. 3. EJECTMENT.

4.—Ejectment—Right of occupancy—Merger—Sub-lease by occupancy raiyat—Under-raiyat—Notice to quit—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), ss. 22, 49, 85 (1)—Where after an occupancy raiyat had sublet his holding the plaintiff, his landlord, purchased the holding from him at a private sale: Held, that although by reason of such purchase the occupancy holding merged in the landlord's interest under s. 22 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and although under the provisions of s. 85 (1) of the Act, the sub-lessee had not by reason of the sub-lease acquired any right as against the landlord, the plaintiff, having acquired the occupancy holding at a private sale, could not claim any higher right than the occupancy holder himself had and was not entitled to eject the sub-lessee without serving upon him a notice to quit under the provisions of s. 49 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Peary Mohan Mookerjee v. *Badul Chandra Bagdi, I. 5.—Ejectment—Res judicata—Denial of landlord's title—Dismissal of previous suit for rent, on denial of relationship of landlord and tenant.—In a previous suit brought by the plaintiff against the defendant for rent, the latter denied the existence of the relationship of landlord and tenant. The suit was dismissed on the ground that the defendant was not the plaintiff's tenant Plaintiff now sued to eject the defendant: Held, that having regard to the decision in the previous suit, the plaintiff was entitled to treat the defendant as trespasser and to sue him for ejectment. Nilmadhab Bose v. Ananta Ram Bagdi, 2 C. W. N. 755; Fayj Dhali v. Aftabuddin Sirdar, 6 C. W. N. 575, and Ramgati Mohurer v. Pran Hari Seal, 3 C. L. J. 201, followed. Srimati Mallika Dassi v. *Makham Lal Chowdhry, 9 C. W. 6.—Ejectment—Notice to quit—Tenant-at-will—Tenant from year to year—Revenue sale—Record of rights, correctness of.—In a suit by an auction purchaser for ejectment of the defendant in possession of land sold for arrears of revenue, if the defendant be a trespasser the question of giving him notice to quit does not arise. But if he be a yearly tenant, he would be entitled to a reasonable notice. If he, however, be a tenant of inferior status, a verbal demand for possession of the land might be sufficient. Sulatu Dass v. Jadu Nath Dass, 8 C. W. N. 774, referred to. Ram Narain Sahu v. Maangru Urao, 4 C. W. N. 792, distinguished. A mere request by the plaintiff to the defendant to give up possession of the land in question and to pay the produce of the land, or price thereof, during his occupation, cannot be regarded as a demand for rent, and is not sufficient to create the relationship of landlord and tenant, which is a matter of contract. In the absence of any statutory provision or of any agreement, a verbal notice to quit, whether given by the landlord or the tenant, is sufficient, especially where the lease is verbal. 6A.—Easements Act (V of 1882), s. 60—Landlord and tenant—Occupation of building-site in abadi—Erection of permanent building—Suit for ejectment.—The defendants were found on the evidence to be tenants-at-will of the plaintiff of land in the abadi, the land having been allotted to their ancestors on condition of their rendering service as patwaris. The defendants had ceased to perform the duties of patwaris, but still occupied the land, and had built houses thereon of a permanent character. Held, on suit by the zemindar to eject the defendants, who had denied the zemindar's title, that the principles laid down in Bani Ram v. Kundan Lal, I. L. R. 21 All. 496, applied, and that there was no such conduct on the part of the zemindar as would justify the inference that she had contracted that the right of tenancy, under which the defendants originally obtained possession of the land, should be changed into a permanent right of occupation; neither could the defendants pray in aid s. 60 of the Indian Easements Act, 1882. Held, also, that the acquisition pending the suit by one of the defendants of a share in the village in which the land in suit was situate did not give the defendants any title to retain possession of the site in the abadi from which the plaintiff was suing to eject them. BUDH SINGH v. PARBATI (1907) . . I. L. R. 29 All. 652

4. LAND LET FOR AGRICULTURAL PURPOSES.

7.—Land let for agricultural purposes—Indigo factory on land let for cultivation—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), s. 23—Use of land consistent or not with purposes of tenancy—Second appeal, power in, to deal with findings as to whether erection of building impairs value of land or renders it unfit for cultivation.—An occupancy tenant can under s. 23 of the Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885) "use the land in any manner which does not materially impair the value of the land or render it unfit for the purposes of the tenancy." In a suit for an injunction to restrain the building of an indigo factory on land let for agricultural purposes generally: Held, that the question whether such a building conforms to the restrictions in s. 23 must be considered with reference to the circumstances of each individual case, the size of the holding and of the area withdrawn from actual cultivation by the erection of the building, and the effect of such withdrawal upon the fitness of the holding, as a whole, for profitable cultivation. In this case, the District Judge (reversing the decision of the Subordinate Judge) found that the erection of the building did not impair the value of the land, and was in conformity with the purposes for which an agricultural holding is let, and dismissed the suit: Held, that the High Court was not justified, on second appeal, in overruling those findings and laying down a broad rule to the contrary without any regard to the above consideration. 9.—Rent suits—Objection to terms of patta not taken in previous summary suit cannot be taken in suits for subsequent year—Where the tenant in a summary suit brought against him to enforce acceptance of patta, does not object to some stipulations in the patta, and the judgment directs him to accept a patta containing such stipulations such judgment is a bar to the tenant setting up the same objections in a suit to enforce patta for a subsequent year. Venkatchallapati v. Krishna, *I. 10.—Landlord and tenant—Ejectment—Notice to quit—Annual tenancy created before the Transfer of Property Act—Bengali Calendar, six months' notice under, if sufficient—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss. 106, 107—Unregistered lease, not for agricultural or manufacturing purpose—Monthly tenancy though rent annual.—In the case of a tenancy not governed by the Transfer of Property Act, a six-months' notice calculated according to the Bengali Calendar was held to be sufficient to terminate the tenancy, the tenancy appearing to have been regulated according to the Bengali year. When a tenant holds under a lease which is not written or registered and is governed by the Transfer of Property Act, the land was not let out for a manufacturing or agricultural purpose, the tenancy must be taken to be a monthly one terminable by 15 days' notice, even though the rent appears to have been payable annually. 6. PERMANENT TENURE.

11.—Permanent or precarious tenure—Presumption as to permanent tenure—Unchanged rent—Transfers of tenure—Recognition by landlord of transfers—Deeds of sale, construction of—Receipts for rent not expressly describing transferee as tenant of holding.—In a suit for ejectment on the ground that the defendant was a mere tenant-at-will, it appeared that the tenure had been in existence for about 80 years; that the rent had never been enhanced though the value of the holding as measured by its sale-price had greatly increased; that it had again and again been sold by kobalas purporting to convey an absolute interest; that it had passed by will; and that the new tenants had been recognized by the landlords after such devolutions. Held, that the inference was that it was a permanent tenure. On the construction of the kobalas Held, that the insertion therein of a stipulation that the transferee should take a new patta in his own name did not create a new tenure. Upendra Krishna Mondal v. Ismail Khan Mahomed, *I. Receipts for rent, though not expressly describing the transferee of the tenure as tenant of the holding, stated that the rent paid was the rent of the tenure, and the person paying was the occupier of it, and was paying on her own account. Held, that there was a sufficient recognition of the transferee as tenant. 7. RENT.

12.—Suspension of rent—Dispossession by lessee of landlord.—A lessee, who may have lost possession of a portion of the lands covered by his lease, is not entitled to suspend the payment of rent, if the dispossession has been effected not by the landlord, but by other lessees under him. Dhunput Singh v. Mahomed Kazim Ispahain, *I. 13.—Suit for rent—Relationship of landlord and tenant must be shown to arise out of contract or privity of estate.—Before a plaintiff can succeed in a suit to recover rent, he must establish relationship of landlord and tenant existing between himself and the defendant and resting either on contract or privity of estate. XIV, s. 167.*—A landlord having the same tenant holding different tenures may institute one suit for the rents of all the tenures, but having obtained a decree in such a suit, cannot cause the sale of all the tenures together free of incumbrances under the provisions of Ch. XIV of the Bengal Tenancy Act. 8. RIGHT OF OCCUPANCY.

16.—Occupancy right, nature of—Raiyat with occupancy right has no right to cut fruit trees—Raiyats with rights of occupancy possess in their lands a heritable and alienable interest of a permanent character, but not the sole interest. The landlord is interested in maintaining the saleability of the holding, and in protecting such interest he is entitled to restrain the raiyat from cutting fruit-bearing trees. Rangayya Appa Rao v. *Kadyala Rathnam, I. 9. TRANSFER BY TENANT.

17.—Transfer by a tenant without consent of the landlord—Non-transferable right—right of occupancy—Abandonment.—Where a person having a non-transferable right of occupancy, transferred such right to a third party, and obtaining a sub-lease from the purchaser remained in possession of the land, but repudiated his relation as tenant to the landlord, and sought to re-occupy the land not as his (landlord's) tenant, but as the under-tenant of a person who was not a tenant and had no legal connection with the land:—Held, that such a person is not entitled to hold the land as against the landlord. Madar Mondal v. *Mahima Chandra Mazumdar, I. 18.—Transfer—Bengal Tenancy Act (VIII of 1885), ss. 17, 88, 161—Permanent raiyati holding—Sale of portion of holding—Landlord aware of sale, though transferee not recorded in his sherista—Sub-division of holding—Decree against recorded tenant, effect of—Purchase of part of tenure if an incumbrance.—When raiyats having permanent interest in a holding sold a portion of it and the transferees again sold a portion of their purchased interest to one R, and R obtained settlement from the landlord: Held, that although the transferees took no steps to get their names registered in the landlord's sherista and had paid no rent since their purchase, inasmuch as the landlord had notice of the purchase, under s. 17, Bengal Tenancy Act, he was bound to bring a suit against the transferrers and the transferees jointly. A sale of the holding in execution of a decree for rent obtained against the transferrers only did not therefore affect the transferees' interest in the holding. The landlord was bound to recognise the transfer though in the absence of his written consent as required by s. 88 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, he was not bound to recognise the sub-division effected by the transfer. The interest of the transferees was not an incumbrance which could be avoided by a purchaser at a rent sale. BAISTAB CHARAN CHOWDHURY v AKHIL CHANDRA CHOWDHURY (1906). 11 C. W. N. 217

Where a tenure was sought to be sold in execution of a decree for rent obtained against one of the tenants, after the shares of the other tenants had passed by auction sale to a stranger, on the allegation that the tenant against whom it had been obtained was the sole recorded tenant of the landlord: Held, that whether this was so or not was a matter specially within the knowledge of the landlord and the onus was on him to prove it. S. Subsequently to the partition, the defendants who were tenants and were paying nakdi rent agreed to pay bhaoli rent from the beginning of 1302, F. S. It also appears that after the partition the tenants of the whole estate agreed amongst themselves to respectively hold lands in that share only in which they held homestead lands and in this way an exchange of lands took place between them. On the 4th of Assin 1302, F. S., the plaintiffs submitted a road-cess return in respect of their separated share, in which the nakdi rents which prevailed up to the end of 1301, F. S., and not the recently settled bhaoli rents were mentioned. Further, the statement of land, holding on tenure given in the return, corresponded with the state of things as they existed prior to the exchange effected between the tenants. Plaintiffs having sued the defendants for bhaoli rents calculated on lands held by them since the exchange, the defendants objected that the provisions of cls. (a) and (b) of s. 20 of the Road and Public Works Cess Act had not been complied with. Held, that as there was no enhancement of rent, but only conversion of nakdi into bhaoli rent, and as no calculation of annual value based on the average money value of three years' bhaoli rent as contemplated in the explanation to s. 4 of the Act was possible in this case, the plaintiffs had substantially complied with the provisions of s. 20, cl. (b) of the Act. That cl. (a) of the section had also been complied with inasmuch as all the lands for which rent was payable were mentioned in the return, although it appeared that by reason of the exchange of lands amongst the tenants, the land for the rent of which each of the defendants was sued in this case was greater than that shown in the road-cess return. S. A decree was made on the basis of the compromise. Held, that although the terms of the solenama regarding the taking of the lease could not have been enforced in execution of the decree, they must be held to be binding on the defendants as an agreement, that no objection could be taken to the admissibility of the solenama on the ground of its being unregistered; and that the defendants, having been in occupation of the jalkar after 1893, were bound to pay rent to the plaintiffs under the terms of the solenama. 1.—Transfer of Property Act, s. 108 (j)—Assignment of lease—Assignee of lease, liability of, to lessor—Liable for rent from date of assignment and not from date of obtaining possession—Principle applies to agricultural leases.—Under s. 108 of the Transfer of Property Act a lessee may transfer his privity of estate to an assignee, thus rendering the latter liable to the lessor on covenants running with the land, while he himself will continue liable to the lessor by reason of his privity of contract which does not pass by assignment. The liability of the assignee arises from the date of assignment and not from the date when he obtains possession. This is the law in England and there is nothing in the Transfer of Property Act to make a different rule applicable in this country. Kunhannjam v. Anjelu, I. L. R. 17 Mad. 296, referred to. Although the Transfer of Property Act does not apply to agricultural leases, there is no reason why the above rule should not be applied to them as well as to non-agricultural

3.—Construction of lease—Five years' term with option to lessee to hold over indefinitely on the same conditions—Nature of tenancy after expiration of term—Ejectment—Notice—Unequal bargain—Undue influence—Pleadings—A lease was executed for a term of five years giving the lessee the option of quitting the premises during the continuance of the term on giving a month's previous notice to quit. There was a further stipulation that the lessee would be entitled to hold and possess the premises on the conditions reserved even after the expiration of the term and so long as he desired to do so without interruption or hindrance on the part of the lessor. Held, on a construction of the lease, that the right to hold over did not create in the lessee the interest of a tenant from month to month from the expiration of the term of five years, and the lessor could not, after the expiration of the said term, eject the lessee by giving him notice to quit as in the case of a monthly tenancy. The lessee was entitled to hold and possess the premises all his life or until due surrender by him during his lifetime by means of a month's notice. Vaman Shripad v *Maki, I. L. 5.—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 106—Notice to quit—Monthly period of tenancy not necessarily reckoned from date of lease—May be calculated from different date if such was the intention of the parties.— It is open to the parties to a lease to agree that the monthly period of a tenancy should be reckoned from a date different from that on which the lease is executed, and fifteen days' notice to the tenant expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy as so reckoned is a sufficient notice under s 106 of the Transfer of Property Act. Where a lease is executed and the tenant enters on possession and is liable for rent from the middle of a month, but the rent is made payable, not on dates calculated from the date of such lease but at the end of the calendar month, the reasonable inference, in the absence of anything to the contrary in the instrument, is that for determining when the tenancy was to expire, the parties agreed that the monthly tenancy should coincide with the calendar month. 1. LAW OF LIMITATION.

1—Limitation—Resistance to execution—Investigation into the matters of resistance—Dismissal for default—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II, Art. 11—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 335.—An application under s. 335 of the Code of Civil Procedure was dismissed for default on the petitioner applying to withdraw his petition for want of evidence, the opposite party being present. In a suit by the petitioner for possession of the property, the subject of the above application, the defendants pleaded limitation under Art. 11 of Sch. II to the Limitation Act: Held, that there was no enquiry within the meaning of s. 335 and that consequently the order made was not conclusive, and the suit was not barred by the special limitation of one year. It is a condition precedent to passing an order under s. 335, so as to make it conclusive unless a suit is brought within one year, that the Court shall enquire into the matters of resistance, etc. SARAT CHANDRA BISU v. TARINI PRASAD PAL CHOWDHRY (1907).

2.—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), s. 20—Part payment—Mortgage-debt—Equity of redemption, transfer of—Part payment by mortgagor after transfer—Extension of period as against transferee.—Payment of a part of the mortgage-debt by the mortgagor, and appearing in his handwriting, will give a fresh start of limitation to the mortgagee even as against a person who had purchased a portion of the mortgaged property prior to such payment. Krishna Chandra Saha v. Bhairab Chandra Saha, 9 C. L. died leaving him surviving three sons, all minors. On the 30th of April 1889, these three sons, still minors, made an application for an order absolute under s. 89 of the Act. Nothing further was done towards execution of the decree until the 1st of October 1904, when the three sons, one being still a minor, again applied for an order absolute for the sale of the mortgaged property. Held, that the application on the 1st October 1904 was not barred by limitation. Zamir Hasan v. *Sundar, I. 4.—Limitation—Hindu Law—Widow—Alienation—Suit by reversioner to set aside the alienation—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II, Art 91.—The plaintiff sued in 1904, as a reversioner, to recover possession of property from the defendant to whom it had been given by way of gift in 1894 by the widow of a preceding owner. It was found by both the lower Courts that the alienation was not justified by any necessity recognized by Hindu Law. The defendant pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation. Held, that it was not open to the defendant to rely on Art 91 of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) as a bar to the suit. Harihar Ojha v. *Dasarath Misra, I. 2. QUESTION OF LIMITATION.

5.—Limitation, plea of—Ground of limitation not taken in memorandum of appeal—Second appeal—Plea of limitation raised for the first time in second appeal—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), s. 4—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 542—Practice—Held, by the Special Bench (WOODROFFE, J., dissenting), that though an objection upon the question of limitation was not raised in the memorandum of appeal, leave should yet be given to argue it as the point arose on the face of the plaint, and no question of fact had to be enquired into to enable the Court to dispose of it, and that when the point was thus taken the Court was bound to give effect to it, the provisions of s. 4 of the Limitation Act being mandatory. Quære: whether s. 542 of the Code of Civil Procedure controls s. 4 of the Limitation Act. Held, by WOODROFFE, J, that under the circumstances of the case it was a fair and proper exercise of discretion to disallow, under s. 542 of the Civil Procedure Code, the objection which had not been set out in the grounds of appeal. 6.—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Arts. 118, 141—When suit is for possession, Art. 141 and not Art. 118 applies.—Art. 118 of Sch. The period of limitation applicable to the latter class of suits is that prescribed by Art. 141 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act. Thakur

7.—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II, Art. 95—Fraud—Suit to recover possession of dar-patni tenure purchased benami—Fraudulent arrangement between patnidar and benamidar by which decree was obtained under which the tenure was sold to patnidar—Real purchaser's title not affected by decree or sale in execution under it.—The plaintiff, in 1886, purchased benami the dar-patni right in a certain tenure. In 1889 the patnidar entered into a fraudulent arrangement with the benamidar, whose name was entered in the Collector's book as the holder of the dar-patni, and obtained a decree for arrears of rent under which the dar-patni was sold and purchased by the patnidar on 20th June, 1891. The plaintiff, the real purchaser and beneficial owner of the dar-patni, admittedly became aware of the fraud on or before the 29th July, 1892. In a suit brought on 25th October, 1895, against the patnidar and the benamidar to recover possession of the dar-patni:—Held, that the suit was not barred by the three years' period of limitation provided by Art 95 of Sch. II of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) for a suit to set aside the decree on the ground of fraud. On the facts the plaintiff was not estopped from denying the authority of his benamidar to deal with the tenure, and there was nothing to show that anything more than the interest of the benamidar was sold. On this point the onus was on the defendants to show that the plaintiff could not succeed without setting aside the decree, and this they had not done. There was, therefore, nothing to show that the plaintiff's title was in any way affected by the sale ANNADA PERSHAD PANJA v. PRASANNAMOYI DASI (1907).

8.—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II, Arts. 178, 179—Art. 178 applies where decree-holder obliged to refund seeks to execute his decree—Period runs from the date of order for such refund.—Where a sale in execution of a decree is set aside at the instance of the judgment-debtor and the decree-holder is ordered to refund the purchase money paid to him and the decree-holder subsequently applies to execute his decree, such application in regard to limitation is governed by Art. 178 and not 179 of Sch. II to the Limitation Act, and time begins to run against the decree-holder from the date when he is ordered to refund the purchase money, when alone his right to apply accrues. Issuree Dassee v. *Abdool Khalak, I. 10.—Mortgage—Personal Covenant—Registered mortgage bond—Supplemental decree—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882). s. 90—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Sch. II, Arts. 116, 178.—Art. 178, Sch. II, of the Limitation Act is limited to applications under the Code of Civil Procedure. It does not apply to an application by a mortgagee for a supplemental decree under s. 90 of the Transfer of Property Act. Where a registered mortgage contains a covenant to pay the mortgage money, the mortgagee would have under Art. 116, Sch. II of the Limitation Act, six years to bring his suit on the covenant; and the question of limitation on an application for a supplemental decree under s. 90 of the Transfer of Property Act is, whether the personal remedy was barred at the date of the institution of the suit, and not whether it would be barred at the date of the application. Tiluck Singh v. *Parsotein Proshad; I. That section does not exclude the operation of s. 22 of the Limitation Act and, except in the case of the legal representative of a deceased party, the person substituted as plaintiff must be regarded as a new plaintiff within the meaning of the latter section. Harnak Chand v. *Deonath Sahay, I. —Appeal—Presentment of an appeal after the prescribed period—Delay—Excuse of delay—Discretion of the Court in not excusing the delay—Appeal against the exercise of the discretion.—An order in execution proceedings was passed on the 25th February 1899. An appeal lay against the order; but the aggrieved party notwithstanding filed a suit on the 24th February, 1900, in a separate proceeding. It was decided in the first appeal in that suit on the 30th September, 1903, by the District Judge that the suit was barred by s. 244 of the Civil Procedure Code. The party concerned again waited till the 4th January, 1904, when he filed in the District Court his appeal against the order dated the 25th February, 1899. The District Judge decided that there was no sufficient reason for not presenting the appeal in time, and dismissed the appeal as being barred by limitation. Held, that having regard to the delay which occurred in presenting the appeal between the 30th September 1903, to the 4th January, 1904, it was not open to the appellant to contend that the District Judge had exercised his discretion, under s. 5 of the Limitation Act, in a capricious or arbitrary manner. —Sufficient cause—Appeal to the District Judge, which was dismissed on the ground of jurisdiction—Subsequent appeal to the High Court out of time.—An appeal against an order passed by the Subordinate Judge in an execution proceeding arising out of a suit valued at more than 5,000 rupees, was preferred to the District Judge in time. The learned District Judge having dismissed the appeal on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to hear it, an appeal was preferred to the High Court obviously out of time. On a preliminary objection being taken that the appeal was barred by limitation under Art. 156, Sch. II of the Limitation Act: Held, that inasmuch as it was not established in the present case that the belief of the appellant that the appeal lay to the District Court, was formed with due care and attention and that there was consequently sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within time, the appellant was not entitled to an extension of time by virtue of s. 5 of the Limitation Act, and that it was so barred. In this case on the proof of the date of the plaintiff's birth depended the question of whether or not the suit was brought within three years of her attaining majority, and it was held that the evidence was insufficient to prove the true date of her birth, and that therefore the suit was barred by limitation. —Ganjam and Vizagapatam Agency Rules Act XXIV of 1839, Rule 20—High Court may interfere when agent decides wrongly on question of limitation—Limitation Act (XV of 1877,) Sch. II, Art. 14 does not apply when Act complained of is a nullity.—An erroneous decision by an Agent acting under the Ganjam and Vizagapatam Agency rules, on a question of limitation is a 'special ground' which will authorise an interference by the High Court under Rule 20 of such rules. Art. 14, Sch. II of the Limitation Act. does not apply to an act done by a Government officer, when such act purports to be done in pursuance of an order, but is, in fact, owing to a mistake, not so done. Such an act is a nullity which need not be set aside. MAHARAJA OF VIZIANAGRAM v. SATRUCHERLA SOMASEKARA RAJU (1906) . I. L. R. 30 Mad. 280

—Limitation—Suit to recover money given to the defendant to be delivered to a third person.—A gave Rs. 300 to B in order that it might be delivered to C, who had, a few days previously, executed a mortgage in favour of A. B also executed a bond guaranteeing the repayment of the loan by C. On suit by A against B and C, which was decided on the 15th of January 1901, it was discovered that B had never paid the money to C. On the 1st of December 1904, A sued B to recover the Rs. 300 paid to him as above described. Held, that the rule of limitation applicable was that provided for by Art. 48, if not by Art. 90 or 115 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and the suit was time-barred. Rameshar Chaubey v. *Mata Bhikh, I. —Decree—Execution of decree—Application to execute the decree—Application not accompanied by a certified copy of the decree under execution—Application made 'in accordance with law'—Step-in-aid—High Court Civil Circulars Rule 80.—On the 3rd February 1900 the decree-holder first applied to execute his decree. In 1902 he again applied to execute his decree; but this second application was dismissed as it was not accompanied by a certified copy of the decree (High Court Civil Circulars Rule 80). On the 18th June 1905 the decree-holder applied for the third time to execute the decree. The lower Courts held that the application of 1902 not having been accompanied by a certified copy of the decree was not one made 'in accordance with law,' and that consequently the third application was barred by time:—Held, that the application of 1902 though not accompanied by a copy of the decree, as required by Rule 80 of the High Court Circulars, was an application 'in accordance with law' within the meaning of Art. 179, Sch. II of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877); and that, therefore, the third application was within time. Sadashiva v. *Ramchandra, 5 Bom. L. The proper view to take of Rule 80 of the High Court Civil Circulars is not that it prescribes the essentials which an application for execution must contain and which are necessary to constitute the application itself an application in accordance with law, but that it requires something further besides the application itself, an accompaniment extraneous to the application, as a condition precedent to further action by the Court executing the decree. The Limitation Act (XV of 1877) as an enactment of a restrictive character must be strictly construed. Umiashankar v. Chhotalal, I. L. R. 1 Bom. 19, followed. RAMCHANDRA v. LAXMAN (1906).

—Decree—Jointly passed—Application for execution against surety—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s 253—A decree cannot be treated as "jointly passed" as against the judgment-debtor and his surety.—Before the passing of the decree in an original suit, N became liable as surety for the due performance of part of the decree. The decree in the original suit was passed in January 1893. The decree-holder filed several applications to execute the decree against the judgment-debtor. All these applications were within the periods prescribed by the Limitation Act (XV of 1877). But it was only in 1902 that he filed an application to execute the decree under s. 253 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) as against the surety. Held, that the application to execute the decree against the surety was barred by time, since the decree cannot be treated as passed jointly as against the judgment-debtor and the surety, within the meaning of Art. 179, Expl. 1, paragraph 2, of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act (XV of 1877). The words "passed jointly" in Art. 179, Expl. 1, paragraph 2, of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) refer to the decree which is "passed jointly" against more persons than one; and do not mean a decree where a joint liability may be deduced by combining the surety bond and the provisions of s. 253 of the Civil Procedure Code, with the decree in dispute. The defendant was in possession as a prior purchaser in execution of a decree on a second mortgage of the same property, passed in a suit to which the first mortgagee was not made a party. The second mortgage was executed after the institution of the suit on the first mortgage but before the summons had been served. Held, that the doctrine of lis pendens applied, and that the plaintiff had the better title. Where a suit is contentious in its origin and nature, it is not necessary that the summons should have been served in the suit in order to make it a "contentious" one within the meaning of s. 52 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), and render the doctrine of lis pendens applicable. Irrespective of the doctrine of lis pendens it appeared from the circumstances of the case that the defendant was cognizant of first mortgage, of the decree made on the basis of it and of the sale proceedings which took place in execution of the decree. Every real suit (as distinguished from a collusive one) to which the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) applies, is primâ facie contentious. According to the Civil Procedure Code the essentials of a suit are—(1) opposing parties, (2) a subject in dispute, (3) a cause of action, and (4) a demand of relief. If there is no inaction on the plaintiff's part the suit would be contentious, notwithstanding the fact that the service of the summons could not be effected on the defendant. MADRAS DISTRICT MUNICIPALITIES ACT (IV OF 1884).

—Agreement not in accordance with section not binding on Municipality even though partly acted upon.—An agreement falling within the scope of s. 45 of the District Municipalities Act, is invalid if the provisions of the section have not been complied with and is not binding on either of the parties to it. The fact that such an agreement was partially acted upon, cannot render it an operative contract. Ahmedabad Municipality v. Sulemanji, I. L. R. 27 Bom. 618, followed. —Tax on houses, a yearly tax—When ownership arises after assessment, such owner liable for whole tax and not only for instalments accruing due after acquisition of ownership.—The provisions of s. 66 (1) and other sections of the Madras District Municipalities Act, show that the tax imposed on houses under s. 47 of the Act is a yearly tax, although for the sake of convenience it may be made payable in instalments. A person becoming the owner of a house subsequent to such assessment becomes liable as owner for the whole yearly tax and not only for the instalments that accrue due after his acquisition of ownership. It is not compulsory on the Municipality to apportion the tax among the several owners during the period and the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act regarding the obligations of buyer and seller in respect of the payment of taxes do not apply as between the Municipality and the subsequent owner. It is necessary, however, that there must be regular user of the place for keeping more than 10 head of cattle; and a mere temporary user for such purpose will not constitute the offence. MADRAS DISTRICT MUNICIPALITIES ACT (IV OF 1884) AS AMENDED BY ACT III OF 1897.

——ss. 10, 10-A, 19, 250—

—Rules 6, 34, 35 and 36 of rules framed by Government under s. 250—Election of Councillor invalid under rule 6 if defect existed before election although opinion of Governor in Council expressed after—Finality of the Collector's order under rule 36—Powers of Government under rule 34 exist unless order is passed by the Collector under rules 35 and 36—Rules 35 and 36 apply only when petition presented to Collector—Rules 34, 35 and 36 not ultra vires.—Under s. 10-A of the Madras District Municipalities Act and rule 6 of the rules framed under s. 250, a person is disqualified from being appointed or elected a Councillor if, before his election, he is convicted of an offence, which, in the opinion of the Governor in Council, disqualifies him from being a Councillor, even though such opinion of the Governor in Council is arrived at after the election. The refusal by the Governor in Council to remove a Councillor under s. 19 for such a conviction is no bar when such Councillor is subsequently re-elected, to the invalidation of the election on the ground of such conviction. Rules 34, 35 and 36 are not ultra vires. The rules were validly made in exercise of the powers conferred by s. 250 (1); and even if not so, the power to prescribe conditions conferred by s. 10, empowers the Governor in Council to make such rules Rules 35 and 36 prescribe the procedure to be followed when a petition contesting the election is presented The word 'then' in rule 35 means 'after such petition is presented to the Collector' and not 'after the Governor in Council has taken action under rule 34' The Governor in Council taking action under rule 34 is not confined to putting the Collector in motion under rule 35, but can pass orders himself. Such power is not taken away by the powers conferred on the Collector under rules 35 and 36, but only by an order of the Collector duly passed under those rules on a petition presented to him. The Governor in Council may take action under rule 34, whether a petition has been presented to the Collector or not The fact that the Governor in Council may, under such circumstances by notification, remove the Councillor under s. 19 of the Act, does not affect the validity of such rule, which enables him to invalidate the election without a notification. Per WALLIS, J.—Rules 35 and 36 do not warrant the validity of an election being questioned on the ground that the person elected was likely to bring the municipal administration into contempt without such enquiry as is provided by the rules; and the pronouncement of such disqualification by the Governor in Council under rule 34 without such enquiry cannot be supported. Where a tenant, ordered to be evicted under s. 41 of the Act, applies to the Collector to set aside the order evicting him, the decision of the Collector on such application is a 'judgment' whether the application of the tenant is considered as a plaint in a summary suit to set aside the improper eviction or as an appeal under s. 43 or not, and an appeal lies against such judgment under s. 69 of the Rent Recovery Act Such right of appeal exists in favour of the landholder as well as of the tenant. Madai Thalavoy Kummarasamy Mudaliyar v. *Nallakannu Tevan, 5 Mad. MAHOMEDAN LAW—ENDOWMENT.

1.—Religious trust—Mutwalli—Right of a female to be appointed mutwalli—Consent decree giving preference to lineal descendants of settlor—Senior lineal descendant a woman and a Babee—Unorthodox Mahomedan—Discretion of Court in selection of trustee under decree giving it power to appoint.—By Mahomedan law there is no legal prohibition against a woman holding a mutwalliship, when the trust by its nature involves no spiritual duties such as a woman could not properly discharge in person or by deputy. A consent decree made by the High Court at Calcutta on appeal from a decision of the Recorder of Rangoon directed that the trustee of a Mahomedan religious trust should retire, "and that a new trustee be appointed in his place by the Chief Court of Lower Burma, preference in such appointment being given to the lineal descendants of the settlor." The settlor was a Mahomedan of the Shiah sect. His eldest, and only really eligible, lineal descendant was his daughter, the appellant, who claimed the right to be appointed. She, however, was not an orthodox Mahomedan, but a Babee. The Judge exercising Original Civil jurisdiction in the Chief Court found that she was not disqualified either by her sex or on the ground that she was a Babee, and appointed her mutwalli of the trust. The Judges on the appellate side of the Chief Court, while agreeing with the first Court that the lady was not disqualified, held that in selecting a trustee they had a discretion, which they exercised by declining to appoint the appellant, who (they held) could only discharge many of the duties of the trust by deputy, and as a Babee would not take such interest in the religious observances of the Shiah School as one of the Shiah sect. Held, by the Judicial Committee, that the Chief Court had a discretion in the appointment of a trustee, which under the circumstances they had rightly exercised. Held, also, that no absolute right of the lineal descendants of the settlor to be appointed was established by the authorities cited in the present case, in which the settlor had not prescribed any line of devolution. 2.—Wakf—Statement in a will that the testator had at a former time given away or set apart property to charity—Not a testamentary devise—Absence of actual delivery—Reasonably clear intention.—A mental act although afterwards sufficiently expressed in conduct will not, unless clothed in appropriate words, create a wakf. Per CURIAM.—We do not think that a mere statement in a will of some gift in the past can be referred back to the date still undetermined, when that gift is afterwards alleged to have been made, or that such a narrative statement can in any view be an adequate substitute for the oral declaration of dedication to God, which the Mahomedan law appears to us imperatively to require, synchronously with the act of dedication itself. There is a plain distinction between giving in charity and declaring that one has given in charity. And for the purpose of fixing the origin of the wakf, if there was a wakf at all, the mere statement in a will that at some past date the testator had set apart such and such funds for charitable objects is of comparatively slight value. Where there has been no actual delivery, a reasonably clear declaration is necessary to create a wakf. BANUBI v. NARSINGRAO (1906) . I. L. R. 31 Bom. 250

MAHOMEDAN LAW—GIFT.

1.—Mushâa—Undivided shares in land—Shares in Companies—Validity of Gift.—Assuming that the law of Mushâa, which prohibits gifts of undivided shares of divisible property, applies to the succession of Mahomedans who reside in Rangoon, it does not apply to a gift by will of undivided shares in freehold land and of shares in Companies. Mumtaz Ahmad v. Zubaida Jan, L. R. 16 I. A. 205, followed Concurrent findings that deeds of gift were not executed by the donor under pressure of the sense of imminent death upheld and approved. 2.—Nature of possession necessary to constitute a valid gift—Residence of donor—Mother with daughter—Donee does not make gift invalid.—Under Mahomedan law, to constitute a valid gift, possession must pass to the donee. Where a house and lands were given as a gift by a Mahomedan mother to her daughter and the daughter was put in exclusive possession of the lands and her title to both properties was perfected by mutation of names in the register, the mere fact that the mother continued to reside with her daughter, will not constitute a non-delivery of possession which will invalidate the gift. Bava Sahib v. *Mahomed, I. 2.—De facto guardian, power of, over minor's property—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 51—Equitable principle embodied in s. 51 not opposed to Mahomedan law.—Under Mahomedan law, a sale by the mother, as de facto guardian of her minor son, of the property of such minor is not binding on him. The rule of equity embodied in s. 51 of the Transfer of Property Act is not opposed to any principle of Mahomedan law, and s 2 does not preclude its application in cases decided under the Mahomedan law. What constitutes good faith within the meaning of s. 51 is a question of fact; and a person may act in good faith, though he acts under a mistake of law. DURGOZI ROW v. FAKEER SAHIB (1906). I. L. 1.—Spes successionis—Non-transferable and non-releasable—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s 6 (a)—Deeds executed by pardanashin lady—Burden of proof. - The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate is under Mahomedan law neither transferable or releasable. It is only by an application of the principle that equity considers that done which ought to be done that such a chance can, if at all, be bound. It was not intended by s 6 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act to establish and perpetuate the distinction between that which according to the phraseology of English lawyers is assignable in law and that which is assignable in equity. In the case of deeds executed by pardanashin ladies, it is requisite that those who rely on them should satisfy the Court that they had been explained to and understood by those who executed them Sudisht Lal v. *Mussummat Sheobarat Koer, L. 2.—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Legal cruelty—Other misconduct of the plaintiff pleaded as a defence to the suit.—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, the parties being Mahomedans, if the defendant raises a plea of legal cruelty, the facts to be proved to establish such a plea are similar to those which must be proved to establish a similar plea under the English law. Moonshee Buzloor Ruheem v. Shumsoonnissa Begum, 11 Moo. I. A, 551, referred to. But in a suit for restitution brought by the husband misconduct on the plaintiff falling short of legal cruelty may be a ground for the Court refusing relief. Thus where the plaintiff apparently only brought his suit on account of his wife having filed another suit against the plaintiff's father, and in his plaint accused his wife of immorality of the most serious kind, a charge which he totally failed to substantiate, it was held that the Court would be justified in refusing him relief Mackenzie v. Mackenzie, [1895] A C. 384, referred to. On the general facts of the case also it was found that the defendant had reasonable grounds for believing that her health and safety would be endangered if she returned to her husband's house, which was situated in a Native State. "MALIKANA AND DUSTURAT" GRANT.

—Malikana and dusturat grants made before the Permanent Settlement—Nature and incidence —Liability of Government—Lakhiraj jaigirs— Resumption.—In the Behar districts, the payment of malikana dates from a period long anterior to that of the Permanent Settlement The Permanent Settlement put an end to the system of paying malikana to proprietors except in those cases where they declined the terms offered to them at the settlement and preferred to remain out of possession. But previous to the Permanent Settlement, large tracts of land in Behar had been settled by Government with lakhirajdars, the proprietors being compensated by permanent hereditary pensionary allowances, styled malikana or dusturat and malikana payable out of the jaigirs. When subsequently these jaigirs were resumed the Government as occupying the position of the jaigirdars became liable for the payment of the malikana. When the lands were resettled with the jaigirdars themselves the malikana previously due from them were added to the Government revenue with which they were assessed, and the maliks were paid by the Collector out of the treasury. When, on the other hand, the resumed jaigirs were settled with persons other than the jaigirdars, the land settled still remained liable for the payment of the malikana, such malikana being payable either out of the malikana as assessed under s. 3 of Regulation II of 1819 and s. 5 of Regulation VII of 1822 or added as an additional sum payable by the settlement-holder over and above the revenue and malikana so assessed. Government subjected itself to loss when in resettling the lands it omitted to make provisions for the recovery of the malikana from the settlement holders in the above manner. If, however, the lands by any process of transfer or merger came into the possession of the proprietor the malikana allowance or a rateable share of it came to an end, and the Government on re-settlement after resumption became entitled to be relieved of their liability pro tanto. RAMESHWAR SINGH v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA (1907) . 11 C. conduct of stall-keepers provided his conduct does not disturb public tranquillity, or he does not commit an offence punishable by law. 1. LIABILITY OF MINOR ON, AND RIGHT TO ENFORCE, CONTRACTS.

1.—Minor, right of, to contract—Mutuality—Specific performance of contract, right of minor to enforce.—Held by the Full Bench that, if a contract is validly entered into on behalf of a minor and there is mutuality in such contract, it might be specifically enforced. It is difficult to lay down any general rule, but each case must depend upon its own particular circumstances. MIR SABWARJAN v. FAKHARUDDIN MAHOMED CHOWDHURY (1906).

MINOR—concluded.

Personal liability.—Held, that the contract in this case which a guardian had entered into on behalf of a minor, can be specifically enforced. Fatima Bibi v. Deb Nauth Saha, I. L. R. 20 Calc. 508, dissented from. WOODROFFE, J.—Specific performance may be granted of a contract entered into by a guardian on behalf of a minor, if the contract be one which being within the guardian's power binds the minor. An agreement for sale and purchase entered into on behalf of a minor may be specifically enforced notwithstanding the fact that it involves a personal liability to pay the price if the agreement be carried out, and also damages in lieu of or in addition to specific performance if the agreement be broken. Waghela Rajsanji v. *Sheik Masludin, L. 2. COMPROMISE DECREE.

3.—Minor—Compromise decree—Guardian—Practice—Suit to set aside compromise decree on ground other than fraud—Right of suit—Compromise filed without consent of guardian—Sanction of Court.—A suit was instituted for a declaration that a compromise decree made against the plaintiffs in a previous suit, when they were minors, was void on the ground that the petition of compromise had been put in by the pleader engaged by their guardian in that suit against the express wishes of the latter. Held, that the suit would lie and that the plaintiffs were entitled to show by evidence that the compromise was filed without the consent of their guardian and was therefore not binding upon them, although they had set up a case of fraud qua the decree and had failed to prove it. Held, further, that in order to make the decree binding on the minors it was not enough to show that the sanction of the Court to the compromise was obtained. Where a decree is passed upon adjudication, no separate suit would lie to set aside the decree except on the ground of fraud, but where the decree is passed simply upon a compromise, a suit should lie to set aside the decree upon grounds other than that of fraud. Aushootosh Chandra v. *Taraprasanna Roy, I. there had been a misjoinder of plaintiffs and causes of action, and that the suit as framed could not proceed. Held, further, that there was nothing in the Civil Procedure Code or Rules of the Court to necessitate a dismissal of the suit: that the plaintiffs might be put to their election which one of them should proceed with the suit: and that after such election the plaint might be amended by striking out the other plaintiffs and making other consequential alterations. Haramoni Dassi v *Hari Churn Chowdhry, I. 3.—Misjoinder of parties and causes of action —"In respect of the same matter," meaning of —Practice.—The plaintiff sued two sets of defendants to recover from either the one or the other a sum of money for the rent of his godown. The plaintiff agreed to let a godown to defendants 1—6 from 1st May 1906. At the date of the agreement the godown was in the possession of Messrs. N and Co. Defendants 1—6 alleged that they did not get possession of the premises in terms of this agreement; that only one compartment out of three was given to them on the 22nd May; that they did not get possession of the other two compartments and in consequence they had to hire other premises. Messrs. N and Co. plead that there was an oral agreement with the plaintiff that they should occupy the godown till the end of May 1906; that they gave up possession of one compartment of the godown before the 22nd May 1906, and on the 22nd May they gave up possession of the remaining portion to the plaintiff and the first set of defendants. The defendants all pleaded that the suit as framed was bad by reason of misjoinder of parties and of causes of action. Held, disallowing the objection, that the suit was properly constituted. The most convenient way to try all the questions arising between the plaintiff and the defendants and the two sets of defendants inter se would be by one suit where all the three parties are before the Court as parties. The subject-matter in respect of which the plaintiff seeks relief is the rent of his godown. It is the same matter as regards both sets of defendants, and both sets of defendants are interested in the adjudication of the questions involved in the suit. The general principle governing the joinder of defendants would seem to be that there must be a cause of action in which all the defendants are more or less interested, although the relief against them may vary, but that separate causes of action against separate defendants quite unconnected and not involving any common question of law or fact cannot safely be joined in one action. The object of s. 28 seems to be to avoid multiplicity of suits if it could be done without embarrassment to any of the defendants. Madan Mohun Lal v. *Holloway, I. L. The decree in such a case should direct the property to be sold and the sale-proceeds to be applied first in discharge of the usufructuary mortgage, and the balance in discharging the second mortgage The fact that no suit for sale could be brought on the usufructuary mortgage will be no bar to such mortgage being paid out of proceeds derved by the sale of the property on another mortgage. Govinda Bhatta v. *Narain Bhatta, I L. The assignee of a mortgage decree purchasing a portion of the mortgaged properties, acquires over such portion a lien for only a proportionate share of the mortgage amount. The implied covenant on the part of the mortgagor, under s 65 of the Transfer of Property Act, to pay the public charges on the properties mortgaged does not extend to the purchaser of the equity of redemption from the mortgagor. Such purchaser in omitting to pay such charges does not fail to discharge any obligation owing from him to a mortgagee of the said properties, and in purchasing such properties at a revenue sale for non-payment of such charges, he does not gain an advantage as qualified owner in derogation of the rights of the mortgagee or other persons interested in the property so as to constitute him a constructive trustee for them under s. 90 of the Trusts Act. None of these had been made parties in the first mortgagee's suit, the latter not having had notice of their interest in the mortgaged properties,—Held, that it was not obligatory on the first mortgagee to institute a fresh suit for sale on his mortgage against these persons and a suit for recovery of possession of the properties on the basis of his purchase was maintainable. Har Persad Lal v. Dal Madan Singh, 9 C. W. N. 728 : I. L. R. 32 Calc. 891, followed. That if the defendants wanted to retain possession they must redeem the plaintiff, but as the plaintiff was both mortgagee and purchaser, the defendants were not bound to redeem the entire mortgage, but only to the extent of the properties purchased by them. Surjiram Marwari v. Berhamdeo Pershad, 2 C. L. J. 202 ; Hari Kissen v. Velait Hossein, 7 C. W. N. 723 I. L. R. 30 Calc. 755, relied on. That to redeem the plaintiff, it was not sufficient for the defendants to pay a proportionate share of the purchase-money paid by him. The amount payable must be calculated on the basis of the plaintiff's mortgage, but inasmuch as the plaintiff had already enforced that mortgage and the mortgage debt had been thereby converted into a judgment-debt he was entitled to the contract rate of interest, only up to the date of the decree in the previous suit, and interest at the Court rate subsequent thereto up to the date of payment to be fixed by the decree in the present suit. Girish Chander v. *Kedar Nath, 10 C. Thus if the property is brought to sale in execution of the decree and is bought by a third person, the puisne mortgagee has, as against him, precisely the same rights as he had collectively against his mortgagor and the prior mortgagee. gaged property should be sold in default of payment. The decree as originally drawn stated that on failure to pay any one instalment, the whole amount would become due and the mortgaged property would, in the meantime, remain hypothecated, but it did not direct a sale of the property. Thereafter, on the application of the decree-holder, the decree was amended by inserting the words—" On failure to pay the money covered by the instalments, the mortgaged property should be sold for realization of the amount." The decree-holder then applied for and obtained an order absolute for sale. On appeal, the said order was set aside on the ground that, having regard to the form of the decree as amended, no order under s. 89 of the Transfer of Property Act could be made. Held, that the parties having agreed that the decretal amount should be realized by sale of the hypothecated property, and the agreement having been expressed in proper form the Court had full jurisdiction to carry out the intention of the parties, and the mortgaged property should be sold to satisfy the decretal amount and that such execution accorded with the cursus curiæ. Pisani v. Attorney General for Gibraltar, *L. The question whether the purchaser of a property at a sale free from the second mortgage in execution of the mortgage-decree made in favour of the prior mortgagee, is a benamdar of the mortgagor or not does not relate to conflicting titles to the property as between the mortgagor and a person claiming a paramount title and is a proper question that arises in the suit of the second mortgagee to enforce his mortgage. Such a purchaser is therefore a proper party to the suit. When a person who is not a proper party to a suit allows himself to be made a party defendant without any objection and an issue relating to him is raised and decided in the suit, he can not change front and insist in the Appellate Court that an error has occurred in making him a party and that the issue was not triable in the action. MUNICIPALITY.

—Election of Councillor—Bye-election—Officer appointed to receive nomination papers—Return by the officer of plaintiff's nomination papers—Suit for injunction and declaration—Malice— The plaintiff, who was a councillor of Surat Municipality, disabled himself from continuing to be a councillor by virtue of clause (b) (ii) of sub-s. (2) of s. 15 of the District Municipal Act (Bom. Act III of 1901) for having acted as a councillor in a matter in which he had been professionally interested as a pleader on behalf of a client. On the plaintiff being thus unseated, a vacancy was created and a bye-election was ordered to be held. The defendant was the officer appointed by the Collector to receive nomination papers for the bye-election. The plaintiff, who was duly qualified by s. 12 (1) of the District Municipal Act (Bom. Act III of 1901) to be a candidate, was nominated as a candidate by duly qualified electors. The officer appointed to receive the nomination papers, received the papers of the plaintiff's nomination, and having heard the plaintiff, returned his nomination papers on the ground that he, having been disabled, could not stand as a candidate at the bye-election to fill up a vacancy created by himself. The plaintiff thereupon brought a suit against the officer for an injunction that the defendant should enter the plaintiff's name in the list of candidates to be published by the defendant and for a declaration that he was duly qualified to appear as a candidate The plaintiff subsequently claimed damages in lieu of injunction. The first Court found that the plaintiff was not entitled to an injunction, but it awarded to him damages to the extent of R150 owing to the defendant's wrongful act. On appeal by the defendant, the Judge reversed the decree and dismissed the suit on the ground that malice on the part of the defendant was necessary to such a suit and that no such malice was proved. Held, confirming the decree on second appeal by the plaintiff, that in the absence of malice no such suit could lie against the defendant CHUNILAL v. KIRPASHANKAR (1906) . I. —Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), s. 302—Proof of offence—Circumstantial evidence—Conviction of one of two persons, when uncertain who fired the fatal shot, in the absence of common intention—Penal Code, ss. 34 and 149—Evidence, mode of sifting and weighing—Dividing witnesses into classes and accepting evidence of one class and rejecting that of another—Presumption of innocence—Probabilities, consideration of—Duty of prosecution to examine all important witnesses and produce all available evidence.—Where the Sessions Judge in a trial on a charge of gun-shot murder against N, found that N and another person L were seen immediately after the report of the gun at the scene of occurrence each with a gun in his hand, but he did not find which of them fired the fatal shot, his only finding being that either N or L fired the shot that killed the deceased, and there was no finding in the judgment that N and L had a common intention and acted in concert and that the gun was fired in furtherance of their common intention: Held, that the legal inference from these findings must be that neither N nor L was guilty of the offence of murder. The Ipswich case King v. Richardson, 1 Leach's Crown L. Cas. 431, followed. The fact that an accused person was found with a gun in his hand immediately after a gun was fired and a man was killed on the spot from which the gun was fired, may be strong circumstantial evidence against the accused, but it is an error of law to hold that the burden of proving innocence lies upon the accused under such circumstances. If there are two persons who answer the above description the circumstantial evidence loses its weight very substantially. An elementary principle of sifting evidence is to test it in the light of probabilities. The piecemeal examination of the testimony of individual witnesses without a broad view of the facts, circumstances and probabilities of a case generally leads to a failure of justice, especially in a case where most of the witnesses are drawn from a class of persons whose testimony is frequently unconvincing and not unfrequently unreliable. Even if witnesses in a case do not break down in cross-examination or contradict each other, yet if their testimony is opposed to the ordinary course of human conduct and to the natural order of things, such testimony must be accepted with the greatest caution The method of the Sessions Judge in dealing with the testimony of the witnesses by dividing them into two classes—Hindus and Mahomedans—and accepting the evidence of one class and rejecting that of the other was open to serious objection. The withholding of important witnesses who were in one way or other intimately connected with the transaction or the occurrence and the state of things immediately after, gives rise to the irresistible inference that if they were examined they would not have corroborated the prosecution story. NATIVE CHRISTIANS.

—Converts from Hindu religion—Joint family—Co-parcenership—Inheritance—Indian Succession Act (X of 1865), s. 93—Intestate and testamentary succession.—Parcenership can be a part of the law governing the rights of a Christian family converted from the Hindu religion. Tellis v. Saldanha, I L. R. 10 Mad. 69, disapproved. The Indian Succession Act (X of 1865) does not affect rights of co-parcenership as between those to whom it applies. The purpose of that Act was to amend and define the rules of law applicable to intestate and testamentary succession. It is with the devolution of rights on intestacy that the Act deals. It does not purport to enlarge the category of heritable property. S. 93 of the Act actually recognizes a joint tenancy with the right of survivorship. Navroji Manockji Wadia v. *Perozbai, I. L. —Mahal taken under direct management—Rent of sir land fixed by Collector—Sale of mahal before release from direct management.—A mahal was taken by the Collector under direct management and the late proprietor was recorded as ex-proprietary tenant of the sir land and his rent was fixed by the Collector under the provisions of s. 190 of Act No. XIX of 1873. While still under direct management the mahal was sold. The purchaser paid up the arrears of land revenue due thereon and possession was given to him. Held, that the purchaser was entitled to claim from the ex-proprietary tenant the rent fixed by the Collector: it was not incumbent upon him to get the rent fixed again. —Act (Local) No. III of 1899 (Court of Wards Act), ss. 9, 35 and 47—Power of Court of Wards to sell property under its superintendence.—The estate of a Muhammadan lady, named Hawa Begam, was at her own request taken under the superintendence of the Court of Wards under s. 194, cl (g), of Act No. XIX of 1873. This was in 1896. In 1902 the Court of Wards sold a portion of Hawa Begam's property, as was alleged, without her consent. Held, on suit by persons claiming title through Hawa Begam to recover the property so sold, that the Court of Wards was under the circumstances entitled to sell, even without the owner's consent, and that its discretion could not be questioned in any Civil Court. Semble: that if the property had been placed under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, under s. 9 of Local Act No. III of 1899, and if the sale had been made without the consent of the proprietor, otherwise than on the ground set out in the concluding paragraph of s. 35, the sale would have been a bad sale and the

Where a letter was issued by the Deputy Chairman requiring the petitioners to do certain works, but no notice under s. 408 was issued directing them to specifically carry out the works: Held, that the conviction of the petitioners under s. $\frac{474}{408}$ of Act III (B. C.) of 1899 for neglecting to carry out the works, cannot stand. When the Municipality directs one of several owners of a bustee to carry out certain improvements and issues a general notice under s 408 of Act III (B. L. R. 12 Calc. 603*, referred to. It is not sufficient that such notice should be actually served; it must be served in accordance with the provisions of s. 31 of the Act. "Adult" in that section does not mean a person who has attained majority within the meaning of the Majority Act, but a person of such an age as to be capable and responsible for the due communication of the notice to the member of the family for whom it is intended. A duly made certificate has on its filing the force and effect of a decree. Until, however, service of notice under s. 10, which has the

The due making and filing of the certificate gives it the effect of a decree, and therefore non-service of notice under s. 10 does not affect the validity of the certificate itself. A suit to set aside a sale on the sole ground that the decree under which it was held was an invalid decree simply because of absence of notice under s. 10, fails because such absence of notice does not affect the validity of the decree Baijnath Sahai v. *Ramgut Singh, I. Where in execution of a money decree against the defendant an occupancy holding belonging to him was sold and he had failed to raise the objection at the time of the sale that the holding was not transferable, although he had full knowledge of the execution proceedings and had full opportunity to raise the objection: Held, that it was not competent to him to resist the purchaser after the confirmation of the sale and that as between himself and the purchaser the title to the property vested in the latter on such confirmation. Sheikh Murullah v. *Sheikh Burullah, 9 C. 1.—Onus of proof—Admission by party to suit, effect of, as shifting burden of proof—Admission not causing estoppel—Presumption as to admission by party—Right to rebut presumption—Question tried without specific issue—Remand—Civil Procedure Code, ss. 55, 562, 566.—In a suit for property to which the plaintiff alleged he was entitled by inheritance from his natural father the defence was that he had been adopted into another family and therefore was no longer his natural father's heir, and this contention was supported mainly by the plaintiff's admissions made in deeds and other documents signed by him, to none of which, however, the defendant was a party. Held, by the Judicial Committee, that although the onus was on the defendant to prove the adoption the proof of the admissions shifted the onus on to the plaintiff on the principle stated in Slatterie v. Pooley, 6 M. & W. 664, 669, that "what a party himself admits to be true may reasonably be presumed to be so," and until the presumption was rebutted the fact admitted must be taken to be established. Held, also, that where, as in the present case, there was no estoppel, the defendant being no party to the deeds, the plaintiff could give evidence to rebut such presumption. Heane v. Rogers, 9 B. & C. 577, 586; Newton v. Liddiard, 12 Q. B. 926; In re Simpson, L. R. 2 Ch. D. 72, 89, and Trinidad Asphalte Company v. Coryat, [1896] A. C. 587, followed. In this case their Lordships held that the plaintiff, so far from rebutting the presumption, had, in order to account for the admission made in the documentary evidence, put forward two different and inconsistent explanations, one of which was absurd and the other in its most important parts unproved and had failed to prove his title. Where no specific issue had been framed on the question of adoption, but the matter had been tried and determined without any objection on the part of the plaintiff, who had not been taken by surprise, but was fully informed by the defendant's lists of documents and from the cross-examination of his witnesses that the defence would be taken: Held, that under the circumstances it was undesirable that the case should be sent back to be re-tried on a special issue framed as to the adoption. —Bribe—"In the exercise of official functions"—Motive or reward—Essentials of the offence.—S 161 of the Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860) requires proof that an official has obtained, as a motive or reward for official conduct, an illegal gratification for himself or another. That other may or may not be an official, and therefore may be wholly unconnected with the official conduct. The conduct which is contemplated as the consideration for the bribe must be that of the official obtaining it. This is clear from the phrase "in the exercise of his official functions." To obtain a bribe as a motive or reward for another's conduct does not fall within the section though it may be an abetment of that offence or cheating. The performance of the act which is consideration for the bribe is not essential But it is essential that the bribe should be obtained "as a motive or reward." That phrase evidently means on the understanding that the bribe is given in consideration of some official act or conduct. Such an understanding need not be proved by explicit evidence of any precise agreement. It may be inferred from circumstances. EMPEROR v. BHAGWANDAS (1907) . . . I. L. R. 31 Bom. 335

—False information—False charge—Distinction between the two offences.—The accused sent a telegram to the Collector of Ratnagiri, in his capacity of the head of the Municipality at Vengurla, to the effect that: "Head Master, English School (Vengurla), misappropriated Rs. 168 of fees since October. Please investigate yourself soon." For this, the accused was convicted under s. 182 of the Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860), on the grounds that he had no probable cause for making the assertion contained in the telegram, and that he probably knew that a peon had confessed that he was guilty of the misappropriation. Held, that on these facts the charge under s. 182 of the Code could not be legally sustained. The offence made punishable by s. 182 of the Indian Penal Code is a distinct offence from that described in s. 211 of the Code, which relates to an attempt to put the Criminal Courts in motion against another person. The action which s. 211 renders penal is action entailing very serious consequences, and therefore the more serious consideration is required on the part of the individual who takes it. It is sufficient in such cases for the prosecution to establish that there was no just or lawful ground for the action taken and that the accused knew this. But something more is required in the case of action referred to in s. 182. To bring a case within that section it is necessary for the prosecution to prove, not merely absence of reasonable or probable cause for giving the information, but a positive knowledge or belief of the falsity of the information given. etymological origin, extends to any state of the mind which is wrong or faulty (whether evidenced in action by excess or defect), such as would be unjustifiable in the circumstances and incompatible with thoroughly innocent intentions. It is not necessary that such impropriety of feeling should in all cases be established by evidence extrinsic to the comment which is the subject of the complaint. For, whether fair comment is to be regarded as falling under a branch of the law of privilege or not, it cannot excuse an injury arising not from the mere act of criticism, but from a state of mind in the critic which is in itself unjustifiable and the excuse may be so forfeited either by reason of an evil intent in him, or by reason of mere recklessness in making an unwarrantable assertion. For then the comment would not be fair comment at all. Apart from extrinsic evidence of malice, protection must be withheld even from what purports to be criticism, if it states as a fact to be inferred from the book criticised, an imputation for which the book itself contains absolutely no foundation whatever. The right of fair comment involves two essentials, first that the imputation should be comment on the work criticised, and second that it should be "fair"—that is to say, that if it professes to be an inference drawn from the contents of that work, it must be an inference which it is possible to draw therefrom. "Good faith" requires not, indeed, logical infallibility, but due care and attention But how far erroneous actions or statements are to be imputed to want of due care and caution must, in each case, be considered with reference to the general circumstances and the capacity and intelligence of the person whose conduct is in question. It is only to be expected that the honest conclusions of a calm and philosophical mind may differ very largely from the honest conclusions of a person excited by sectarian zeal and untrained to habits of precise reasoning. At the same time it must be borne in mind that good faith in the formation or expression of an opinion, can afford no protection to an imputation which does not purport to be based on that which is the legitimate subject of public comment. The object of exception 6 to s. 499 of the Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860) is that the public should be aided by comment in its judgment of the public performance submitted to its judgment. Comment otherwise defamatory is justified on this ground alone. The comment must, therefore, make it clear to the public that decision is invited only on such evidence as is supplied by the public performance. It follows that an imputation on an author made by a critic without reference, express or implied, to the work under criticism, if in terms so general as to be capable of conveying an unfavourable impression of him apart from what appears in his work, cannot be justified by the critic on the ground that his intention was to base his imputation solely on the work reviewed, and that he had in his mind passages therein supporting the imputation. The responsibility of the critic is to be gauged by the effect which his comment is calculated to produce and not by what he says was his intention. It is not enough that he should intend to form his opinion on the work before him. He is also bound in the words of the exceptions to express his opinion with due care and caution, and to give the public no ground for supposing that he is speaking of anything but the performance submitted to its judgment. A plaint was filed with insufficient Court-fees. The Court directed the plaintiff to put in the deficit Court-fees within a time fixed by it. He failed to do so, but put in the Court-fee on a subsequent date, and the plaint was admitted and duly registered. At the time of the hearing of the suit on the objection of the defendant the plaint was rejected. Held, by the Full Bench (RAMPINI J., dissenting), that in the circumstances of the present case, the plaint might well be regarded as presented and filed on the date it was registered, with all the consequences that would follow in regard to limitation or otherwise from its being filed on that date. —Detention in police custody—Duration of detention—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 167 (3)—Order for such detention.—S. 167 (3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, by requiring a Magistrate to record his reasons for authorising detention in police custody, contemplates that the Magistrate shall consider whether on the facts placed before him there are good grounds for allowing such detention. There should at least be something to satisfy the Magistrate that the presence of the person arrested while the police investigation was being held would assist in some discovery of evidence and that his presence was indispensable for this purpose, as, for instance, when he had confessed before the Magistrate and had pointed out some of the property stolen in the offence and was wanting to do more but was unable to do so because the police were by law unable without a special order to detain him In ordering further detention in police custody when there are good reasons for such an order a Magistrate should invariably limit the term as much as possible to what may be necessary for the object in view. 1.—Suit for damages for injuries on railway—Appeal decided not on evidence at trial but on observations of Judges at presentation of scene and events of accident on another night than that on which accident occurred—The plaintiff sued the defendants, a Railway Company, for damages for injuries sustained by him when alighting from a carriage which overshot the platform of a station at night, and the evidence on the question of what light there was either natural or artificial, on the night in question being conflicting, it was suggested during the hearing of the case on appeal and agreed to by the counsel for the parties that the Judges should visit the scene of the accident under conditions approximating as nearly as possible to those which prevailed when the plaintiff met with his injuries. This was done, the Judges and the legal advisers of the parties went to the station where a presentation of the scene and events of the accident was gone through by which the Judges were enabled to make a thorough investigation of the material conditions accompanying the accident. They formed their own opinion on the question of the sufficiency or otherwise of the light and gave judgment in accordance with them, reversing the decision of the Court which tried the case. Held, that such procedure was illegal. The result of it was that the appeal was decided not on the testimony given at the trial as to what took place on the night of the accident, but by the Judges' observation of what they saw on another night altogether; and the decision based on it was set aside, the judgment of the first Court being restored. The High Court has power either under s. 622, Civil Procedure Code, or if not, under s. 15 of the Charter Act, to interfere in cases where the lower Courts have not acted correctly in accordance with law. —Bank of Bombay—Right of a shareholder to inspect the register of shareholders of the Bank—Object of such inspection—Common law right of a member of a corporation to inspect books of the corporation.—Every member of a corporation has a right under common law to inspect its books and records and such right does not cease merely because a corporation is created by a statute which does not confer the right, unless the statute expressly excludes it. The member of a corporation as such is entitled to the inspection of any of its documents if he satisfies the Court that he is seeking inspection not from mere idle curiosity or for some speculative purpose, but that he has some reasonable and definite object, in which he is interested, and for which the inspection is required, whether that definite object concerns or not any subject then in controversy or discussion. Rex v. The Fraternity of Hostmen, 2 Stra. 1221, and Rex v. The Merchant Tailors' Company, 2 B. and Ad. 115, followed. It is but reasonable that a shareholder of a Bank should desire from time to time to consult other shareholders and discuss with them the affairs of the Bank for the purpose of taking concerted action, where and when necessary, apart from any question of any irregularity existing in the management of the Bank. And for that purpose inspection of the register of shareholders is

He let it out to a tenant on a monthly tenure The tenant used the premises for his press, machinery and stock which he had mortgaged to his creditor, before he entered into a contract by way of lease with the plaintiff. Subsequently the mortgagee brought a suit in the High Court upon his mortgage and under the Court's order, the Official Receiver took possession of the machinery and stock on the plaintiff's premises. Before the suit in the High Court the plaintiff had given to the tenant a notice to quit. Later on he gave another notice to the Receiver that he was going to charge him rent from a particular date. On failure of the Receiver to pay rent, the plaintiff, with the permission of the High Court, brought a suit against him in the Court of Small Causes, Bombay, for the recovery of the rent, or, in the alternative, for compensation for use and occupation The suit was dismissed by the Court on the ground that there was no relationship of landlord and tenant between the plaintiff and defendant, who, as Receiver, was merely a custodian appointed by the Court and that his appointment did not affect the rights of the contracting parties. Against the said decision the plaintiff applied to the High Court under the extraordinary jurisdiction and obtained a rule nisi requiring the defendant to show cause why the decision should not be reversed. Held, discharging the rule, that the plaintiff could not succeed in the suit. Per BEAMAN, J.:—Courts in the exercise of superintending powers will not ordinarily interfere except in cases of grave and otherwise irreparable injustice. —Proceedings in ejectment—Order—Decree.—The plaintiff instituted proceedings in ejectment against the defendant under Chapter VII of the Presidency Small Cause Courts' Act (XV of 1882; the Judge passed an order directing the defendant to vacate. The defendant applied under s. 38 of the above Act to the Full Court which declined to entertain the application. The defendant thereupon applied to the High Court under its extraordinary jurisdiction (s. 622 of the Civil Procedure Code, Act XIV of 1882) and obtained a rule nisi requiring the plaintiff to show cause why the order should not be set aside. Held, discharging the rule, that an application under Chapter VII of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act (XV of 1882) does not come within the operation of s. 38 of the Act. A proceeding under Chapter VII results not in a decree but in an order. Therefore, the condition under which the Presidency Small Cause Court can interfere under s. 38 does not arise in a proceeding under Chapter VII of the Act. PROCESSIONS.

—Public worship of idol—Claim to exclusive right to have procession in public streets—Dispute between rival sects of Vaishnava Brahmins—Streets vested in Local Boards under Madras Local Boards Act (Madras Act V of 1884)—Res judicata—Ownership of land in village—Presumptive dedication to idol.—The plaintiffs, members of the community of the Vadagalai sect of Vaishnava Brahmins, claimed the exclusive right to public worship of their idol and processions in its honour in the public streets of the village where they resided, and to prohibit the defendants, members of the Tengalai sect in the same village, from publicly worshipping the Tengalai idol or carrying it in processions in the public streets. The claim was based on the grounds (1) that the Vadagalais were the original owners of all the land of the village and only allowed houses to be built and streets formed subject to the reservation that no worship or procession of a Tengalai idol should be allowed in them, thus dedicating them to their own idol; (2) that, in the alternative, they had by immemorial usage and custom the right to prevent such worship or processions in the streets, and (3) that so far as the Tengalai idol was concerned the rights of the parties were res judicata by the decision in a former suit:—Held, that the ownership of the village by the Vadagalais was not proved nor any dedication of the streets exclusively to their idol; and that no such custom as alleged had been established; the village was an ordinary ryotwari village, the streets were public streets now vested, under the Madras Local Boards Act (Madras Act V of 1884), in the Local Board. All members of the public had an equal right in them. If the Vadagalais had any objection to the streets being so vested, they had had the opportunity when the Act was passed of raising the objection by appeal to the Governor-General in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Not having done so it was now too late to set up any claim,—Held, also, that the former suit was not a representative suit binding property, nor a suit framed for the purpose of binding the Tengalai sect for all time. It was a suit against certain persons alleged to be wrong-doers in their individual capacity: the decision in it was, therefore not res judicata in the present suit. Under s. 8 of the Public Demands Recovery Act, a certificate duly made and filed has, in so far as regards the remedies for enforcing it, the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court notwithstanding that notice may not have been served under s. 10; but a sale held without service of notice under s. 10 is wholly without authority, and is a nullity. L. R. 12 Calc. 603*, referred to. It is not sufficient that such notice should be actually served; it must be served in accordance with the provisions of s. 31 of the Act. "Adult" in that section does not mean a person who has attained majority within the meaning of the Majority Act, but a person of such an age as to be capable and responsible for the due communication of the notice to the member of the family for whom it is intended. A duly made certificate has on its filing the force and effect of a decree. Until, however, service of notice under s. 10, which has the effect of an attachment, no particular property is bound by the decree. A sale without prior attachment is irregular, but not a nullity. Kishory Mohun Roy v. Mahomed Mujaffar Hossein, I. L. R. 18 Calc. 188, referred to. The due making and filing of the certificate gives it the effect of a decree, and therefore non-service of notice under s. 10 does not affect the validity of the certificate itself. A suit to set aside a sale on the sole ground that the decree under which it was held was an invalid decree simply because of absence of notice under s. 10, fails because such absence of notice does not affect the validity of the decree. Baijnath Sahai v. *Ramgut Singh, I L. Causes at Poona for the recovery of the overcharges claimed and received by the defendant. The defendant contended that the suit was not maintainable inasmuch as no notice of the claim was served by the plaintiffs according to s. 77 of the Indian Railways Act (IX of 1890). The Judge overruled the defendant's contention and allowed the claim holding that a notice under s. 77 of the Act was not necessary because the section contemplated overcharges recovered before the delivery of the goods to the consignee, and not to overcharges recovered after the delivery as was the present case. He further held that if notice was necessary, it was given by the plaintiff inasmuch as there was an allegation that a notice had been sent in a letter addressed to the Agent of the Company, care of the Station Master, Poona, by the plaintiffs. The defendant having applied under revisional jurisdiction: Held, that notice was necessary. The overcharge referred to in the section is not confined in its meaning to an overcharge recovered before the delivery of the goods to the consignee at their destination. Held, further, that the delivery of a letter under s. 140 of the Act must be in exact compliance with the terms of the section and it must be delivered to the Agent at his office. decree produced, if evidence.—A suit by a party whose objection under s. 103A, Bengal Tenancy Act, to an entry in the draft Record-of-Rights has been rejected by the Revenue Officer, for a declaration of his rights is not governed by Art. 14, Sch. Court, power of, on remand.—The plaintiff's suit for possession of certain lands after determination of the boundary between two estates was partially decreed by the Munsif. The defendant appealed, but the plaintiff did not appeal, nor file any objection under s. 561 of the Civil Procedure Code. The Subordinate Judge, on appeal, modified the decree in favour of the defendant. Plaintiff then appealed to the High Court, and the case was remanded for trial on a fresh investigation. The Subordinate Judge after a fresh enquiry passed a decree in favour of the plaintiff giving him more lands than what was given by the Court of first instance. On second appeal by the defendant: Held, that under the circumstances, the Subordinate Judge had no power to award to the plaintiff more than what he recovered in the Munsif's Court. Bikramjit Singh v. Hossaini Begam, *I. GENERAL CASES.

1.—Agra Tenancy Act (Local II of 1901), s. 199—Suit for ejectment in Revenue Court—Omission on part of defendant to plead title in himself—Res judicata.—In a suit for ejectment under Act No. II of 1901 the defendants did not plead their own title to the plot in suit, and in fact did not oppose the suit for ejectment. Held that a subsequent suit brought in a Civil Court by the then defendants for proprietary possession of the same plot was barred by the principle of res judicata. Rani Kishori v. Raja Ram, Weekly Notes, 1904, 109; Ashrafun-nissa v. Ali Ahmad, Weekly Notes, 1904, 141, and Inayat Ali Khan v. *Murad Ali Khan, I. 2.—Bengal Tenancy Act, ss. 107, 109, 109 A, 192—Settlement of rent, objection to.—Where a tenant in his appeal before the Special Judge against an order for the settlement of rent purporting to have been made under s. 192 of the Bengal Tenancy Act did not take the objection that the settlement of rent was made contrary to the provisions of that section and without jurisdiction, and the decision of the Settlement Officer was affirmed by the Special Judge: Held, that the matter was res judicata and could not be reopened in the Civil Court owing to the operation of ss. 107, 109 and 109A of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Mohim Chandra Ray v. Kalitara Debya (1906). 11 C. W. N. 939

3.—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 13, 562—Decision disallowing permanent tenure, no res judicata in a subsequent suit to receive allowance—Adimayavana, nature of—Grant of allowance, presumption of—No remand when suit not determined on a preliminary point—Suit by A to recover adimayavana allowance from B. In a previous suit by B against A for redeeming land, A had set up an irredeemable adimayavana tenure in the land, which contention was overruled and a decree for redemption was made. The Court of first instance held that the suit was barred by res judicata, that the right to adimayavana allowance was not proved, and dismissed the suit. The lower Appellate Court reversed the judgment on both the points and remanded the suit for retrial. Held by the High Court on appeal, that the decision in the previous suit disallowing the tenure was no bar under s. 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure to the present suit for the allowance. The word adimayavana when applied to a tenure of land, imports a permanent tenure, but it may be used with reference to an allowance of money or grain rent charged on the land, and in that case it will not imply any tenure in favour of the grantee, but only an allowance. The fact that an allowance had been received out of certain lands for a long period from several successive owners, is proof of a grant of perpetual allowance charged on such land. Vythilingam Pillay v. Kuthrevatath Nair, I. L. R. 29 Mad. 501, referred to and followed. Held, further, that the decision of the Munsif on the right of he plaintiff to the perpetual allowance was not a decision on a preliminary point and the lower Appellate Court ought not to have remanded the suit under s. 562 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Mana Vikrama v. Gopalan Nair (1906) . . I. L. R. 30 Mad. 203

4.—Redemption of mortgage, suit for—Civil Procedure Code, s. 13—Hindu law—Joint Hindu family—Nature of son's title.—Held, that the dismissal of a suit for redemption of a mortgage of joint family property brought by the father in a joint Hindu family alone, would not be a bar to a subsequent suit for redemption by the sons, inasmuch as the sons' title was not through their father, but was separate and indepedent. Ram Narain v. *Bisheshar Prasad, I. 5.—Res judicata—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), s. 13, Expl. II—Suit for redemption—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), ss. 89 and 92 - Valid tender—Subsequent suit for recovery of damages on account of wrongful detention of the property by the mortgagee.—A executed a usufructuary mortgage in favour of B, and undertook to redeem the mortgage on a certain date. On the day fixed for repayment A made a valid tender of what was due on the mortgage, and the tender was improperly refused by B. A suit was brought for redemption by A, which was decreed on condition of payment within 6 months of what was due on the date of tender. The amount was deposited in Court, and A was put in possession of the property. Subsequently A brought a suit for recovery of damages on account of wrongful detention of the property by B, between the date of tender and the date of delivery of possession. The defence was that the suit was barred by res judicata. Held, that inasmuch as the claim now set up might and ought to have been put forward in the redemption suit, and the mortgagee might and ought to have been called upon to account for the profits, which he has received from the mortgaged premises up to the date fixed in the redemption decree, the subsequent action for recovery of damages was barred. 2. ADJUDICATIONS.

6.—Res judicata—Suit to set aside a decree on the ground of fraud—Sole question raised in the suit already decided in proceedings under s. 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure—In a suit to set aside a decree as having been obtained against the plaintiff by fraud, substantially the only ground relied upon was that the suit had been improperly instituted against the plaintiff as of full age when in fact he was a minor. This had been decided against the plaintiff in earlier proceedings between the parties under s 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Held, that the suit was not maintainable. Puran Chand v. *Sheodat Rai, I. are the emoluments of an office or not, and the parties to the proceeding are debarred by s. 13 of the Civil Procedure Code and the general principles of res judicata from re-agitating the same question subsequently in a Civil Court BALIJEPALLI SESHAYYA v. BALIJEPALLI SUBBAYYA (1906).

The order did not operate as res judicata. Mungul Prosad Dichit v. Grija Kant Lahiri, L. R. 8 I. A. 123: I. L. R. 8 Calc. 51, distinguished. 1.—Restitution of conjugal rights—Husband and wife—Suit by an excommunicated member of a caste—Mussalman Kharwa Community of Broach—Custom.—The plaintiff, an excommunicated member of the Mussalman Kharwa community of Broach, sued his wife (defendant No. 1) for restitution of conjugal rights. At the time of their marriage, the parties were members of the caste; but subsequently the plaintiff was excommunicated from his caste. The defendant contended that she should not be compelled by the Court to go and live with him as his wife before the plaintiff was re-admitted into the caste. Held, upholding the contention, that at the time of marriage she was not only a Mahomedan by faith but also a member of the Kharwa community: occupying that status, she married the plaintiff. It was, therefore, of the essence of the marriage contract that they married because they were members of that particular community and they must be regarded as having entered into the marital relation on the basis of that status. 2. JURISDICTION OF COURTS.

2.—Restitution of conjugal rights—Appeal—Jurisdiction—Valuation of suit—Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1887), ss. 11, 21—Jurisdiction of Munsifs—Civil Courts Act (XII of 1887), ss. 18, 19, 21—Practice.—An appeal from a decree in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, valued at less than 1,000 rupees and instituted in the Court of a Subordinate Judge without any objection by the defendant, lies to the District Court and not to the High Court. The plaintiff in a suit for restitution of conjugal rights is the proper person to value his suit; but if from improper motives he undervalues or overvalues it the Court must decide what should be the proper value. The decision in Aklemannessa Bibi v. Mahomed Hatem, I. L. R. 31 Calc. 849, as to the jurisdiction of a Munsif to entertain such a suit, is an obiter dictum. Zair Husain Khan v. Khurshed Jan, I. L. R. 28 All. 545, referred to. Golam Rahman v. Fatima Bibi, I. L. R. 13 Calc. 232, and Mowla Newaz v. Sajidunnissa Bibi, I. L. R. 18 Calc. 378, discussed and distinguished. 3. LEGAL CRUELTY.

3.—Restitution of conjugal rights—Hindu Law—Husband and Wife—Cruelty—Matrimonial offence—Safety of wife in peril.—Per HARINGTON, J.—It would not be safe to say that whatever is a defence to an action for restitution of conjugal rights in the case of a European would also be in every case a defence in the case of a Hindu, but the Court is not bound, in the case of Europeans and Indians alike, to order a wife to return to her husband if there is reasonable ground for apprehending that a return to that husband will imperil her safety. Per MOOKERJEE, J. The conduct of a Hindu husband, who brings a low caste woman as his mistress in the house to live with him as a member of the family, and expels his wife and son from the family residence, amounts to cruelty within the meaning of the law, which justifies the wife to live separate from her husband and deprives the husband of his right to a decree for restitution of conjugal rights. The husband would not be entitled to succeed even if his conduct did not amount to cruelty but constituted a grave matrimonial offence. DULAR KOER v. DWARKA NATH MISSER (1905) . . I. L. R. 34 Calc. 971

4.—Mahomedan law—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights—Legal cruelty—Other misconduct of the plaintiff pleaded as a defence to the suit—In a suit for restitution of conjugal rights, the parties being Mahomedans, if the defendant raises a plea of legal cruelty, the facts to be proved to establish such a plea are similar to those which must be proved to establish a similar plea under the English law. Moonshee Buzloor Ruheem v. Shumsoonnissa Begum, 11 Moo. I. A. 551, referred to. But in a suit for restitution brought by the husband, misconduct of the plaintiff falling short of legal cruelty may be a ground for the Court refusing relief. Thus where the plaintiff apparently only brought his suit on account of his wife having filed another suit against the plaintiff's father, and in his plaint accused his wife of immorality of the most serious kind, a charge which he totally failed to substantiate, it was held that the Court would be justified in refusing him relief. Mackenzie v. Mackenzie, [1895] A. C. 384, referred to. On the general facts of the case also it was found that the defendant had reasonable grounds for believing that her health and safety would be endangered if she returned to her husband's house, which was situated in a native State. The case of an estate managed by a common manager appointed under the Bengal Tenancy Act is excluded from the operation of s. 5 of Act XI of 1859, nor does management by such common manager fall within s. 17 of the Act. Non-publication of notice under s. 7 of Act XI of 1859 does not affect the sale. Under s. 8 of Bengal Act VII of 1868 after the grant of certificate the Court is precluded from going into the question whether notice were duly served or posted provided that they were issued. It is not necessary under s. 14 of Act XI of 1859 to give notice to the co-sharers of the declaration which has to be made under the section calling on them to buy up the shares in arrears within the period of ten days. Gossain Chutturbhooj Das v. *Ishri Mul, I. Such a sale can be avoided by an application under s. 244, Civil Procedure Code, before or after confirmation of the sale on the ground that the provisions of s. 99 of the Transfer of Property Act have been contravened; but if the application is made after confirmation the applicant has to prove further that owing to fraud or other reasons he was kept in ignorance of the sale proceedings and the proceedings preliminary to sale. 6.—Sale in execution—Right of person deriving title from a purchaser at such sale—Such person's rights not affected by any error or fraud in procuring the decree—Decree passed under such circumstances only voidable not void.—A decree passed by a Court having jurisdiction over the subject-matter, is not void but only voidable when it is passed under a misapprehension or is brought about by fraudulent proceedings. The party against whom the decree is passed has only an equity to set aside the proceedings. Where property sold in execution of such a decree is purchased by the decree-holder and by him sold for value to a third party who has no notice of any defect in the decree, the equitable right to set aside such decree cannot prevail against the rights of the subsequent purchaser for value without notice. A person claiming through a Court purchaser, is entitled to rely upon the plea that he is a bona fide purchaser for value without notice, though he cannot claim the rights of a stranger purchasing at Court sale. Marimuthu Udaiyan v. *Subbaraya Pillai, 13 Mad. There is nothing in the section which precludes the Court from setting aside the sale merely because it had been confirmed. 1. DISCRETION IN GRANTING SANCTION.

1.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 195—Sanction to prosecute—Delay, ground for refusal—Sanction by successor in office.—Applications for sanction to prosecute ought to be made promptly or the delay should be satisfactorily accounted for. Balwant Singh v. *Umed Singh, I. 2. POWER TO GRANT SANCTION.

2.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 195, sub-s. (1), cl. (b), s. 503—Commission to examine witness—Commissioner's power to grant sanction for the prosecution of a witness examined by him—"Court."—During the pendency of a Sessions case a witness was examined on commission under s. 503, Criminal Procedure Code. Subsequently the Deputy Magistrate who examined the witness on commission, being applied to, granted sanction for the prosecution of the witness under s. 193, Indian Penal Code. Held, that the proper authority to grant sanction for the prosecution of the witness was the Sessions Court and not the Deputy Magistrate, who acted only as Commissioner. Although a Commissioner for the examination of a witness under s. 503, Criminal Procedure Code, may be a Court within the meaning of that section for the purpose of issuing process against the witness and for recording his evidence, still it is not a 'Court' within the meaning of s. 195, sub-s. (1), cl. (b). The word "Court" in s. 195, sub-s. (1), cl. (b), Criminal Procedure Code, must mean the Court whose duty it is to consider evidence and to decide whether it is true or false. 3. REVOCATION OF SANCTION.

3.—Sanction for prosecution—Revocation of the sanction—Appeal, pendency of—Prejudice to appellant—Doubtful prosecution—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 195—Practice.—Where the prosecution of a person for giving false evidence, forgery, and using as genuine a forged document in a suit, pending an appeal from the judgment passed therein, would delay and possibly defeat the appeal, and where the lower Appellate Court had declared that the evidence on which it was proposed to proceed was unsatisfactory to a great extent: Held, that it was neither necessary nor desirable to grant sanction in such a case pending the appeal, but that the proper course would be to await the conclusion of the litigation and then to move the higher Courts to take action, if necessary, in the ends of public justice; and that the present sanction should, therefore, be revoked. In re Shri Nana Maharaj, I. L. R. 16 Bom. 729; In re Devji valad Bhabam, I. L. R. 18 Bom. 681; Rex v. *Ashburn, 8 C. & P. 50, and In re Muthukudam Pillai, I. L. SANCTION FOR PROSECUTION— concluded.

4.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 195, cls. (4) and (6)—Sanction for prosecution by Munsif, affirmed by District Judge—High Court's power to interfere—Requisities of a valid sanction—Questions of guilt to be gone into.—Where sanction to prosecute a person given under s 195, Code of Criminal Procedure, was couched in such general terms that it was impossible to say exactly what offences were imputed to him and in connection with what deeds he was charged with having committed them: Held, that the sanction was illegal and ought to be set aside. Sanction to institute criminal proceedings should be in express terms and should strictly comply with the provisions of the law. It is not a sufficient compliance with the law, if the necessary elements have to be gathered from the Court's judgment by implication. No sanction should be granted unless the Court has made up its mind that the accused has committed the offences for which he is to be prosecuted. That question ought not to be left over for consideration at the trial. Where sanction to prosecute given by a Munsif was confirmed on appeal by the District Judge: Held, that the High Court has authority to interfere under s. 195, cl. (6), Code of Criminal Procedure. HABIBUR RAHMAN v. MUNSHI KHODARUX] (1906). 11 C. W. N. 195

5.—Criminal Procedure Code, s. 195 (6)—Refusal of sanction.—The revocation by the Appellate Court of a sanction given by the Court of First Instance, is a refusal of sanction within the meaning of sub-s. (6), and an appeal lies therefrom to the High Court as well as in cases where the sanction refused by the Court of First Instance is granted by the Appellate Court. Palaniappa Chetti v. Annamalai Chetti, I. L. R. 27 Mad. 223, approved. An order revoking a sanction is a refusal of a sanction just as an order confirming a sanction is an order giving a sanction. MUTHUSWAMI MUDALI v. 1.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 110—Previous acquittal for dacoity—Proceeding to bind down on failure of prosecution, if legal.—Where a person has been tried for dacoity and acquitted, he ought not to be proceeded against under s. 110, Code of Criminal Procedure, on matters deposed to and disbelieved at the trial for dacoity. A person acquitted of dacoity cannot be bound over under s. 110, Code of Criminal Procedure, on the evidence merely of persons stating that they began to suspect him since the dacoity case. KISMAT AKANDA v. EMPEROR (1906) . 11 C. W. N. 129

2.—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 110—Proceeding to bind down for good behaviour upon failure of prosecution for offences under ss. 380, 412 and 457, Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860)—Evidence of repute.—Proceedings under s. 110, Code of Criminal Procedure, ought not to be instituted with a view to bind down persons on an indefinite charge, after prosecutions against them on definite charges under the Penal Code have failed. Persons ought not to be bound down under s. 110, Code of Criminal Procedure, upon the mere statements of witnesses that they suspect or are under the impression that the persons proceeded against are thieves or dacoits, when no fact is mentioned to indicate that there was sufficient reason for their suspicion or impression. ALEP PRAMANIK v. KING-EMPEROR (1906) . . . 11 C. W. N. 413

3—Criminal Procedure Code (Act V of 1898), s. 110, cls. (d) and (f)—General repute, evidence of, admissibility of—Evidence if must be of neighbours—Evidence of misconduct committed long ago, value of—Joinder of charges in a proceeding under s. 110—S. 257 (1), Criminal Procedure Code, sufficient compliance with.—In s. 110, cl. (f), Criminal Procedure Code, a man of desperate and dangerous character means a man who has a reckless disregard of the safety of the person or the property of his neighbours, and under that clause evidence of general repute is not admissible in evidence. Evidence of acts of extortion committed by a person, unless those acts were accompanied by acts causing danger to the person and properties of other persons, is not sufficient to bring his case within cl. (f) of s. 110, Criminal Procedure Code. The law as to the joinder of charges against a person accused of definite offences has no application to an inquiry under s. 110, cl. (d). Subramania Ayyer v. King-Emperor, I. L. R. 25 Mad. 61, referred to and distinguished. On an enquiry whether the defendant is a habitual offender, evidence of acts of misconduct committed by him years ago is admissible in evidence as indicating the formation of the habit, but such evidence unless supplemented by evidence of misconduct committed by the defendant within a year or so before the institution of the proceeding under s. 110, Criminal Procedure Code, cannot justify the making of the order under s. 118, Criminal Procedure Code. When the persons against whom proceeding under s. 110, Criminal Procedure Code, is instituted for being a habitual offender is a well-known resident of a city, his fellow citizens though not living in his immediate neighbourhood are competent witnesses to prove his general repute. It is a sufficient compliance with the requirements of s. 257 (1), Criminal Procedure Code, if a Magistrate while rejecting an application for summoning further defence witness states facts which have led him irresistibly to the conclusion that the application was for no other purpose than that of vexation or delay or defeating the ends of justice, although he does not say expressly that the application was for that purpose. An order for security under s. 106 of the Code of Criminal Procedure cannot be made by the Appellate Court unless the conviction appealed against was by a Court of the description specified in the first paragraph of the section. If the existence of a right claimed by one party in a proceeding under the section is denied by the opposite party, and is not quite patent, the Magistrate should always endeavour to ascertain for the purposes of the proceeding their respective rights and liabilities, and not in all cases treat them as matters proper for the Civil Court exclusively. Where a doubt exists as to the existence of the rights and obligations, respectively, of the parties, the Magistrate should bind both parties down. Where, however, there is no doubt, the party in the wrong should be bound down, and not the one who has the legal right. No order of the Magistracy should in any way encourage the infringement of a legal right, or prevent the exercise of such right in a legal way, or do away with, even temporarily, the performance of an obligation. The right to the foreshore is a riparian right and ordinarily goes with the land above, and the proprietor has prima facie the right of khuntagari or tolls. Dhunput Singh v. *Denobundhu Saha, 9 C. Where some of the party against whom proceeding under s. 107, Code of Criminal Procedure, was instituted were further appointed special constables although the latter order was in abeyance at the time they moved the High Court: Held, that in consequence of the order the petitioners might have a reasonable apprehension that they would not have a fair and impartial trial. The High Court, therefore, transferred the case from the Magistrate's file. The Magistrate having allowed bail to the petitioners on condition of their undertaking that no attempt would be made by them or their agents to realise rent by force, and nothing would be done to induce a breach of the peace. Held, that the condition could not be imposed under s. 112, Code of Criminal Procedure, and should be struck out of the bail bond. Where an order purporting to be made under s. 144, Code of Criminal Procedure, directed the petitioners "not to commit any act that may likely induce a breach of the peace and not to take forcible possession of the village which is not in their possession" Held, that the order was indefinite and not in accordance with the terms of the section. —Specific performance, suit for—Pleadings—Practice—Plea in defence—Omission of material term in written contract—Onus—Duty to examine himself—Agreement to take lease on lessor erecting suitable buildings—Time, if essence of contract. —In a suit for specific performance it is important to distinguish between negotiation and contract and to ascertain what the contract is, when and by whom it was made, and who the parties are who are bound by it. Where a party concluded a contract with another party without at any time disclosing that he was acting in the matter as agent for some other person, whether he was really acting as such agent or not, the burden of the contract rested on him, the other party not being concerned with his undisclosed intentions. If the plaintiff's case is clear and the written statement of the defendant raises no defence, the practice in English Courts allows the plaintiff in a suit for specific performance to move for a decree on the written statement being put in, and to get such a decree at once and as a matter of course. It is incumbent on a party who seeks to make out that by inadvertence or mistake an important term has been omitted from a contract drawn up by himself with his own hand and signed by him, to pledge his oath to the truth of his story.

specially when the other party comes forward and swears that the suggestion is without foundation. G. & Co. agreed to take a lease of certain premises from H at a certain rent, upon the latter undertaking to erect new buildings (on a plan which G. & Co. approved) to replace existing ones which were to the knowledge of both parties in the occupation of tenants, whom it might take him to eject: Held, that time was not made the essence of the contract, though it was clear that in the contemplation of both parties the buildings were to be completed without unreasonable delay. In case of undue delay on the part of H., G. & Co. might have made time the essence of the contract by giving notice that they would not hold themselves bound to complete unless the buildings were finished within a specified time, provided the time allowed were such as the Court would hold to be reasonable under the circumstances. — Non-transferable and non-releasable—Mahomedan Law.—The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate is under Mahomedan Law neither transferable or releasable. It is only by an application of the principle that equity considers that done which ought to be done that such a chance can, if at all, be bound. It was not intended by s. 6 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act to establish and perpetuate the distinction between that which according to the phraseology of English lawyers is assignable in law and that which is assignable in equity. In the case of deeds executed by pardanashin ladies it is requisite that those who rely on them should satisfy the Court that they had been explained to and understood by those who executed them. Sudisht Lal v. *Mussummat Sheobarat Koer, L. The son was found to be the managing member of the family, and the key of the room in which the stolen property was found was produced by him. The circumstances were such that it was very improbable that the cloth could possibly have been placed where it was found without the connivance of some or all of the members of the family. Held, that under the above circumstances the conviction of the managing member of the family under —Hindu Law—Murali—Married sisters—Exclusive right claimed by Murali as unmarried daughter to inherit her father's property—Kanya—Maiden—Mitakshara—Vyavaharamayukh—Act XXI of 1850.—A Vaghya (male dedicated to the god Khandoba) had three daughters, one of whom was a Murali (female dedicated to the god Khandoba) and two married. After the Vaghya's death his Murali daughter, who lived by prostitution and had children by promiscuous intercourse, claimed her father's property as heir to the exclusion of her sisters under the rule of Hindu Law that an unmarried daughter inherits to her father before his married daughter. The first Court allowed the claim. On appeal by one of the defendants (married daughters) the Judge varied the decree by allowing the plaintiff a third share in the property. On second appeal by the plaintiff the appellate decree was confirmed, there being no appeal or cross-objection by the defendants against that portion of the decree whereby the plaintiff was allowed to share her father's property equally with her married sisters. Held, further, that a woman, who in her maiden condition becomes a prostitute, being neither a kanya (unmarried) nor a kulastri (married), but being at the same time, notwithstanding her prostitution, a qualified heir as held in Advyapa v. *Rudrava, I. —Court Fees Act (VII of 1870), s. 7, paras. iv, v, vi, ix and x, cl. (d)—Suit for a declaration with consequential relief—Valuation for the purpose of jurisdiction and for the fiscal purpose of Court-fees.—Though the valuation of suits for the purpose of jurisdiction is distinct from their valuation for the fiscal purpose of Court-fees, still s. 8 of the Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1887) provides that when in suits other than those referred to in the Court Fees Act (VII of 1870), s. 7, paras. v, vi, ix and x, clause (d), ad valorem Court-fees are payable, the value as determinable for the computation of Court-fees and the value for the purposes of jurisdiction shall be the same. Per RUSSELL, Ag. C. J.—The words "as determinable" in s. 8 of the Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1887) mean, as determinable by the Court which has to try the case. Per ASTON, J.—S. 4 of the Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1887) seems to indicate that the principle adopted by the Legislature for valuing a suit, mentioned in Sch. II, Art. 17, of the Court Fees Act (VII of 1870), which relates to land or an interest in land, is that the value of such a suit for purposes of jurisdiction shall be governed by the value of the land or interest in land. It being nowhere enacted in the Act that where such value is not determined by rules made under s. 3, the value shall be such as the plaintiff chooses to adopt, I am of opinion that the value must be (where disputed) determined by judicial decision in the suit, such determination being subject to the provisions of s. 11 of the Suits Valuation Act (VII of 1887). When pergunnah boundaries are found entered in such map the presumption is that they were so entered in pursuance of instructions received. S. 36 of the Evidence Act does not require that the authority under which a map is prepared must be authority given by Statute. Assuming that topographical survey maps were not prepared for revenue purposes they are official documents prepared by competent persons and with such publicity and notice to persons interested as to be admissible and valuable evidence of the state of things at the time they were made. They are not conclusive and may be shown to be wrong but in the absence of evidence to the contrary, they may be properly judicially received in evidence as correct when made. Jagadindra Nath Roy v. *Secretary of State for India, 7 C. 2.—Slander of title, suit for—Infringement of trade-mark—Colourable imitation—Malice—Similarities calculated to deceive incautious, ignorant or unwary purchasers.—A made a representation to the Collector of Customs that the trade-mark on certain goods imported by B was a colourable imitation of the trade-mark on goods manufactured by C and imported by A. Thereupon the Customs authorities held an inquiry and detained the goods. B brought an action for damages against A for slander of title. Held, that in order to enable B to succeed he must substantiate (i) that the statement to the Collector of Customs was untrue in fact, (ii) that the statement was made maliciously, i.e., without reasonable and probable cause; (iii) that he suffered special damage thereby. Held, further, that no action for slander of title lay against A inasmuch as the mark on the goods imported by B was a colourable imitation of that on C's goods. A person has a right to use any marks he pleases so long as they are not calculated to mislead the public, and do not infringe anybody's trade-mark. In order to arrive at a conclusion as to whether a trade-mark is a colourable imitation of another or not the Court may look at the two marks in question with its own powers of forming an opinion, accompanied by the evidence given in the case. It has to consider whether the mark is calculated to deceive incautious, ignorant or unwary purchasers. Re Christiansen's Trade-mark, 3 R P. C. 54, Johnston v. *Orr Ewing, L. R. 7 A. Upon an objection taken that the plaintiff acquired no title to the property, as the transfer, upon which he relied, was in contravention of the provisions of s. 54 of the Transfer of Property Act: Held, that inasmuch as the transfer was not made by a registered instrument, and as also the plaintiff had been in occupation from before the date of the transfer and there was not any delivery of possession within the meaning of the provisions of s. 54 of the Transfer of Property Act, the plaintiff acquired no title by the said transfer. Gunga Narain Gope v. *Kali Churn Goala, I. His adoption was declared invalid in 1883 He consented to reside with V. and in 1886 orally renounced his right to a share in the property belonging to his natural family in consideration of his co-sharers who were also the reversioners of V renouncing the reversionary right in the properties held by V as the heiress of her husband. In a suit brought by A in 1901 for partition of the property in his natural family: Held, that A's residing with S from 1883 to 1896 did not amount to an abandonment by A of his right to partition or to an exclusion of A to his knowledge, from the enjoyment of his family property and that his right to partition was not barred by Article 127, Schedule II of the Limitation Act: Held, further, that the renunciation of their reversionary rights by the reversioners amounted to a transfer of an expectancy and was a nullity under s. 6 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act, and that such renunciation cannot be a good consideration for a contract. 3.—Transfer of bare expectancy by mortgagor or by consent decree void—Res judicata in execution proceedings—Order passed after notice no res judicata when notice silent as to prayers claimed—Receiver, continuation of, by Appellate Court—Amendment of execution petition, power of Court to allow.—A, the owner of an impartible and inalienable zamindari, which passed on the death of the owner for the time being, who had only a life estate, to the senior male member of the family mortgaged it to B in 1892 without possession. Four male members of the family C, D, E, F, who were in the line of heirs joined A in executing the mortgage. Subsequently some usufructuary mortgages were executed to B and B was in possession of the zamindari. In 1894, Original Suit No. 43 of 1894 was brought by B against A, C, D, E, F, and others to recover the amount due under the mortgage of 1892. A consent decree was passed making defendants A, C, D, E, F, liable for the amount and directing that in case the amount was not recovered in the life-time of A, it should be recovered from the other defendants when they succeeded to the estate and the zamindari was made liable for the decree amount. A died in 1904. He was succeeded by one not a party to the suit and on the latter's death in 1905, C succeeded as zamindar. In 1899 and 1903 two applications for execution by sale of the whole zamindari were put in by B and were granted after notice served on C. The notices, however, only stated that application was made for execution of the decree but the reliefs asked for were not stated. A applied again for execution in 1905. The prayer was for sale of the zamindari and for the appointment of a Receiver, but the prayer for sale was given up at the trial. C raised various objections which were overruled and the Sub-Judge appointed a Receiver to take charge of the zamindari and its appurtenances. C appealed:—Held, on appeal, that C in 1892 was not a dormant co-owner with A in the zamindari and that the mortgage by C of his right in the zamindari in 1892 was a transfer of a bare expectancy and was a nullity under s. 6 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act. The prohibition in s. 6 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act is based on principles of public policy, and the Court cannot allow such transactions to be effected by a consent decree. Lakshmanaswami Naidu v. Rengamma, I. L. R 26 Mad. 31, referred to. The principles of equity, on which English Courts grant relief in such cases when the property actually vests, cannot be given effect to in the face of express prohibition contained in s. 6 (a) of the Transfer of Property Act. An order passed in execution proceedings will be res judicata only when the notice gives sufficient intimation of the relief prayed for. Narayana Pattar v. Gopalakrishna Pattar, I. L. R. 28 Mad. 355, followed. Held, further, that as the Receiver was validly appointed on the ground that the property was the subject-matter of the suit, the Appellate Court had jurisdiction to maintain him as a means of realising the amount from the judgment-debtor personally and the property must be considered under attachment, though not attached under s. 274 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Amounts realised by a usufructuary mortgagee in possession after decree for sale cannot be applied in satisfaction of the decree amount unless certified under s. 258 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Held, also, that under the circumstances of the case the decree holder may be considered to have applied for the enforcement of the decree against C personally and the order of the lower Court upheld on that ground. Amendment of petition by inserting a prayer for execution against C personally allowed. RAMASAMI NAIK v. RAMASAMI CHETTI (1906). I. L. R. 30 Mad. 255

—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882)—Contentious suit—Active prosecution—Non-service of the summons on the defendant—Transfer of property by the defendant—Lis pendens.—S. 52 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882) imposes two conditions—(a) the existence of a contentious suit and (b) that the transfer should be during its active prosecution in a Court of the kind described in the section. Semble: Every real suit (as distinguished from a collusive one) to which the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) applies, is primâ facie contentious According to the Civil Procedure Code the essentials of a suit are—(1) opposing parties (2) a subject in dispute, (3) a cause of action, and (4) a demand of relief. If there is no inaction on the plaintiff's part, the suit would be contentious, notwithstanding the fact that the service of the summons could not be effected on the defendant. —Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 13, 43—Res judicata—Usufructuary mortgage —Suit for possession of mortgaged property—Tender of mortgage-money—Deposit in Court—Redemption decree Second suit to recover mesne profits from the date of deposit to the date of recovery of possession of mortgaged property—Position of mortgagee in possession after the tender of deposit of mortgage-money.—In 1884 the plaintiffs executed a usufructuary mortgage in favour of the defendant and placed him in possession of the property In 1901, the plaintiffs tendered the amount of the principal to the defendant, but it was not accepted. The plaintiffs in consequence filed a suit, under s. 62 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), to recover possession of the mortgaged property, and at the same time under s. 83 of the Act deposited the amount of the principal in Court as the amount payable on the mortgage. The Court passed a decree for possession. In 1904 the plaintiffs filed another suit to recover mesne profits from the defendant from the date of the deposit to the date when he recovered possession of the mortgaged property from the defendant in execution of the redemption decree in the previous suit. The claim was disallowed on the ground of res judicata. Held, that the plaintiffs having failed to ask for mesne profits in the previous suit, his present claim was barred either under s. 13 or 43 of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882). The profits derived by a mortgagee after a proper tender made or after the amount due has been deposited in Court are profits for which he has to account to the mortgagor in virtue of a liability tacked on, so to say, by the statute to the mortgage contract; and as such a claim to them by the mortgagor is one arising from and connected with his right to redeem or recover possession of the property. From the date of the tender or of the deposit, as the case may be, the mortgagee continues as mortgagee but with a statutory liability to account for the profits received by him from that date. He is not then a mere trespasser but a mortgagee still, holding the property as a kind of trustee for the mortgagor and as such accountable to the latter for the profits. RUKHMINIBAI v. —Purchaser of equity of redemption from mortgagor not bound to pay public charges and is not when he purchases the lands at a revenue sale a constructive trustee under s. 90 of the Trusts Act—Mortgage, lien of property paying prior, extinguished when part of mortgaged property is purchased for such amount—Sale for revenue—Trusts Act (II of 1882), s. 90. Where a person paying off a prior mortgage, purchases a portion of the mortgaged properties, in consideration of the amount so paid to him, the lien acquired by such payment is extinguished and cannot be used as a shield against a subsequent mortgagee by such purchaser. The assignee of a mortgage decree purchasing a portion of the mortgaged properties, acquires over such portion a lien for only a proportionate share of the mortgage amount. The implied covenant on the part of the mortgagor, under s. 65 of the Transfer of Property Act, to pay the public charges on the properties mortgaged does not extend to the purchaser of the equity of redemption from the mortgagor. Such purchaser in omitting to pay such charges does not fail to discharge any obligation owing from him to a mortgagee of the said properties, and in purchasing such properties at a revenue sale for non-payment of such charges, he does not gain an advantage as qualified owner in derogation of the rights of the mortgagee or other persons interested in the property so as to constitute him a constructive trustee for them under s. 90 of the Trusts Act. The words of the section show that this direction should have been in a supplemental decree to be passed when the net proceeds of the sale should be found to be insufficient. The original decree should merely have reserved to the plaintiff liberty to apply for a decree under s. 90. A minor son of the mortgagor having brought a suit for a declaration of his ownership of an undivided half of a house and removal of an attachment which was levied under the personal clause of the aforesaid decree, before the birth of the minor: Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to a direction that the house to the extent of the plaintiff's interest therein be released from attachment. Held, further, that the personal decree was contingent on the ascertainment of the balance and only became operative and capable of execution when the balance was ascertained. Until then the amount of the debt, for which alone the personal decree was passed, could not be stated as required by s 235 (g) of the Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882). The balance of the debt being unascertained, the minor was entitled to establish any circumstance which affected the validity of the attachment against his interest in the property. TRUSTS ACT (II OF 1882).

—Trustee—Transactions entered into by trustee for his own benefit—"Unless otherwise provided"—Equity in favour of a person paying off a subsisting charge on property—Appointment of cestui que trust as trustee.—S. 53 of the Indian Trusts Act (II of 1882) strikes at transactions entered into by a trustee for his own profit after he has accepted the trust and while he is performing the duties of the office. It does not render void a mortgage in favour of a person created before he becomes trustee of the property by the deed of trust itself as a condition of the trust imposed by the settlor. The expression "unless otherwise provided" used in s. 36 of the Indian Trusts Act (II of 1882), means, unless otherwise provided by the instrument of trust. Where there is a subsisting charge on certain property paid off by the person in possession, it is equitable that when the plaintiff reclaims the estate, credit should be given to that person for the payment of the mortgage which the plaintiff

There is no provision in the Indian Trusts Act (II of 1882) that a cestui que trust shall not be appointed a trustee. He is not as such incapacitated from being trustee for himself and others; but as a general rule he is not altogether a fit person for the office in consequence of the probability of a conflict between his interest and his duty. —Trust for a specific purpose—Express trust—Resulting trust—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), s. 10.—Per BATCHELOR, *J. Whether the resulting trust flow from the invalidity of the declared trust or from the impossibility of ascertaining the declared trust, it is equally a substituted trust, that is, a trust which is created by the law faut de mieux, that is as the best arrangement which the law regards as possible in difficult circumstances. This general rule is affected to this extent only, that where there is a trust covering the whole estate and the bequests do not exhaust the estate, the trustees are express trustees of the residue for the heir of the testator. —Malabar Law—Ubhayapattom—Agreement in mortgage perpetually void as a clog on the equity of redemption. An ubhayapattom' is a kanom mortgage. Where from the terms of an ubhayapattom it is clear that the debt was not intended to be extinguished, a covenant for perpetual renewal by the motgagor operates as a clog on the equity of redemption and the addition of the words 'you shall hold the properties for ever without surrendering them' does not convert such a transaction into an immediate grant of a permanent interest. Such a covenant will be inoperative as a clog on the mortgagor's right of redemption in a mortgage executed before the passing of the Transfer of Property Act and subsequent to 858, on the principles of equity which formed the basis of judicial decisions during that period. UNCONSCIONABLE BARGAIN.

1.—Circumstances under which relief may be granted by the Court—Undue influence—A person of the age of some twenty-eight years, the son of a wealthy father, but of profligate habits and greatly in need of money, his father having refused to supply him, executed a bond to secure a sum of Rs. 500, with interest, which amounted to Rs. 37-8-0 per cent. per annum, with six-monthly rests. The bond further contained a stipulation that the borrower should not be empowered to repay the money within three years. And if he did pay within three years, he should nevertheless be obliged to pay three years' interest at the rate mentioned. Held, that although it could not be said that the execution of this bond was procured by means of undue influence or that the rate of interest was penal, nevertheless the bargain was an unconscionable bargain against which the Court might properly give relief The High Court affirmed the decree of the lower Appellate Court which gave the plaintiff the principal sum with simple interest at the rate of 24 per centum per annum. Madho Singh v. *Kashi Ram I. That an order under s. 106, Criminal Procedure Code, directing the petitioners to execute bonds to keep the peace for one year was, in the circumstances, justifiable but as that order would have the practical effect of preventing the petitioners and their masters from taking possession of the property, it was desirable that the other side should also be bound down in a proceeding under s. 107, Criminal Procedure Code. A person may rely on the invalidity of a void instrument as against himself without suing for its cancellation; and a suit by him for declaring the invalidity of such instrument will not be a suit for declaration and consequential relief under s. 7, paragraph IV, clause (c) of the Court Fees Act. It will be otherwise where the party cannot impeach the arrangement effected by the deed without having it cancelled. A transaction by the Karnavan of a Tarwad is void against members not consenting thereto, if it is in excess of his powers as such Karnavan. In declaratory suits where no consequential relief is prayed, the value for purposes of jurisdiction is the value of the property likely to be effected by the declaration and rule 2 of the rules of the High Court of 26th February, 1903, does not apply to such cases. actually found due, inclusive of mesne profits payable by the defendant to the plaintiff, was over ₹5,000, an appeal would lie to the High Court and not to the District Court. Where a plaintiff fixes a certain sum as the amount of his claim only approximately or tentatively, and prays that the amount may be ascertained in the suit, the amount found by the Court to be due to him must generally be regarded as the value of the original suit for the purpose of determining the forum of appeal. Gulab Khan v. Abdul Wahab Khan, I L. R. 31 Calc 365, approved. Held, also, that interest pendente lite on the mesne profits should not be taken into account in estimating the value of the original suit. Held by MUKERJEE, J, that the rule formulated in Gulab Khan v. Abdul Wahab Khan, I L R. 31 Calc. 365, was too wide and required to be qualified; that where a plaintiff was permitted by s 50 of the Code of Civil Procedure to put upon the relief claimed by him an approximate or tentative value, and the Court determined the amount which the plaintiff was entitled to recover, such amount, if accepted by the plaintiff as the value of the relief claimed by him, determined the value of the suit and, consequently, the forum of appeal, under s. 21 of Act XII of 1887. VENDOR AND PURCHASER.

—Auction sale under power of sale in a mortgage—Condition of sale depreciatory of mortgagor's title—Solicitor of mortgagee acting for purchaser in preparation of deed of conveyance —Constructive notice Conduct of mortgagees at sale inducing bidders to leave—Knowledge of purchaser of such circumstances—Notice—Proviso in mortgage to protect purchaser—Transfer of Property Act (IV of 1882), s. 69.—At an auction sale under a power of sale in a mortgage on conditions one of which both the lower Courts found to be a depreciatory condition wholly unwarranted by the state of the mortgagor's title, the mortgaged property was knocked down to the appellant who the same day signed a written contract to purchase. In a suit by the purchaser against the mortgagor for possession of the property to which suit the mortgagees were made parties: Held, that the purchaser was not affected with constructive notice of the true state of the title by reason of the fact that some days after the contract of sale was completed, he instructed the mortgagees' solicitor to act for him in the preparation of the deed of conveyance, and that the solicitor knew that the condition of sale was unjustifiable The knowledge of the solicitor as to the title was not acquired in the matter for which he was the purchaser's agent and could not be used to upset a transaction of a date before that agency commenced. The sale was therefore not invalid on that ground The mortgage which was in the English form contained a proviso that upon the exercise of the power of sale "the purchaser shall not be bound to see or inquire whether any default has been made, or otherwise as to the necessity or expediency of such sale, or that the sale is otherwise improper or irregular, and notwithstanding any such irregularity, such sale shall, as far as regards the safety and protection of the purchaser, be deemed to be within the aforesaid power, and be valid and effectual accordingly, and the remedy of the mortgagor shall be in damages only." It was found by the first Court on the facts that at the sale the mortgagee defendants by themselves or their agents so conducted themselves with reference to the sale that bidders were induced to leave, and that the purchaser was present and had notice of those circumstances. Held, that the purchaser was affected with notice of the impropriety of the sale, and bought at his own risk, notwithstanding the proviso in the mortgage and the provisions of s. 69 of the Transfer of Property Act (IV of 18 2), and that these circumstances invalidated the sale. —Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 244, 291, 311—Execution sale, brought about by fraud—Waiver of right to object to sale - Plea of waiver when to be given effect to and to what extent - Public policy—Circumstances from which waiver to be inferred—Knowledge of rights waived, necessity of proving—Burden of proof - Presumption.—A waiver is an intentional relinquishment of a known right or such conduct as warrants an inference of the relinquishment of such right and there can be no waiver unless the person against whom the waiver is claimed had full knowledge of his rights and of the facts which would enable him to take effectual action for the enforcement of such rights. The burden of proof of such knowledge is on the person who relies on the waiver and such knowledge must be made to appear. A presumption of waiver cannot be rested on a presumption that the right alleged to have been waived was known. When it appeared from the proceedings that a judgment-debtor only waived objections to an execution sale on the ground of (1) non-issue of fresh sale-proclamations when the sale was adjourned from time to time, and (2) inadequacy of price as resulting therefrom: Held that this did not prevent him from attacking the sale on the ground (1) that the sale-proclamation had never been issued and had been fraudulently suppressed at the decree-holder's instance and (2) that the price realised was inadequate by reason of the decree-holder's fraud. Whether there has been a waiver or not of the rights of a judgment-debtor to object to a sale and to what extent they may have been waived must depend upon the circumstances of each individual case: and the question has to be decided not merely upon the language of the petitions preferred by the judgment-debtor, but with regard to the whole of the proceedings in the case and particularly with reference to the order made by the Court upon the petitions. The right of waiver is subject to the control of public policy which cannot be contravened by any conduct or agreement of the parties and an agreement which seeks to waive an illegality may be void on grounds of public policy or morality. Quære: Whether, if it were made out that the judgment-debtors had in fact waived all possible rights to object to the validity of the sale, a Court of justice would give effect to the plea of waiver when the sale was brought about by fraud upon the processes of the Court. See MAHOMEDAN LAW—ENDOWMENT.

—Statement in a will that the testator had at a former time given away or set apart property to charity—Not a testamentary devise—Absence of actual delivery—Reasonably clear intention.—A mental act although afterwards sufficiently expressed in conduct will not, unless clothed in appropriate words, create a wakf. Per CURIAM.—We do not think that a mere statement in a will of some gift in the past can be referred back to the date, still undetermined, when that gift is afterwards alleged to have been made, or that such a narrative statement can in any view be an adequate substitute for the oral declaration of dedication to God, which the Mahomedan law appears to us imperatively to require, synchronously with the act of dedication itself. There is a plain distinction between giving in charity and declaring that one has given in charity. And for the purpose of fixing the origin of the wakf, if there was a wakf at all, the mere statement in a will that at some past date the testator had set apart such and such funds for charitable objects is of comparatively slight value. Where there has been no actual delivery, a reasonably clear declaration is necessary to create a wakf. BANUBI v. NARSINGRAO (1906) . I. L. R. 31 Bom. 250

3. REVOCATION OF WILL.

4.—Will—Separated Hindu domiciled in the United Provinces—Revocation of will—Evidence—Presumption.—A separated Hindu residing at Meerut executed a will on the 20th of January, 1885, and registered the same in the office of the District Registrar on the 22nd of January of the same year. The testator died on the 16th of October, 1899. On the 5th of July, 1902, a suit was instituted by certain persons who claimed the property of the testator as his next of kin against the Collector of Meerut who had taken possession of the property as trustee under the terms of the will for purposes therein set forth. The plaintiffs alleged that the testator had revoked the will of the 20th of January, 1885, and tendered evidence to prove that on a certain occasion the testator had said that he had revoked his will. On the death of the testator the original will was not to be found; but, on the other hand, it was shown that persons interested in the disappearance of the will had had access to the house of the testator since his death. Held, that evidence that the testator had said that he had torn up the will was not admissible. Staines v. Stewart and Jones, 2 Sw. & Tr. 320, Doe dem Shallcross v. Palmer, 16 Q. B. 757, and Keen v. Keen, 3 P. & D. 105, referred to. Held, also, that the presumption of English law that if a will is traced to the testator's possession and is not forthcoming at his death it has been destroyed by him, animo revocandi, would, at least, not be so strong in India as in other countries where wills are taken greater care of, and under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence in the present case did not arise at all. Podmore v. Whatton, 3 Sw. & Tr. 449; Finch v. Finch, 1 P. & D. 371, and Brown v. Brown, 8 E & B. 876, referred to. —Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), ss. 115, 146 Written statement, received and not objected to, though not signed or verified according to law—Objection taken on appeal after case fought out on merits.—It is not obligatory upon a defendant to put in a written statement. He may do so if he likes. S. 146 of the Civil Procedure Code contemplates that issues may be settled whether there was a written statement or not, though it is not obligatory on the Court to frame issues if the defendant makes no defence. Where a written statement filed on behalf of the defendant as actually received by the Court and no application was made by the plaintiff to have it taken off the file on the ground of its not being signed and verified by the defendant as required by s. 115 of the Civil Procedure Code, and the question was raised for the first time in appeal after the case had been fought on in the first Court on the footing of a proper written statement. Held, that in such circumstances the Appellate Court was not justified in decreeing the suit on the footing that there was no defence, by reason of the written statement not being signed or verified by the defendant, and the case should have been tried on the merits.
